RUINS OF FIVE TOWNS ABLAZE AS EARTH ROCKS

125 Known Dead in Quake; 1,000 Hurt.

WELLINGTON, New Zealand, Feb. 4.—[Wednesday.]—(AP)—At least five towns in the Hawke's bay province of North island lay broken and burning today while the earth still rocked with the continuing shocks of the earthquake that brought wholesale death and desolation to a peaceful countryside.

There were known to be 125 dead in Napier and Hastings and the final figure, it was feared, would be several times that number as the toll grows hourly. In Napier alone there were 1,000 injured.

The quake began yesterday morning and its violence brought public buildings, houses, hospitals, stores and homes upon the unsuspecting occupants. Fire followed in the two largest towns and there was horror in the death-strewn streets as men, women and children, panic-stricken, ran screaming to the shore or to the open country.

Buildings Topple Into Sea.

A great cloud of dust and smoke hung like a pall over the scenes of terror and through the choking fog licked red flames of an oil fed fire.

At Napier, capital of the province, which has a population of 20,000, Bluff hill, which stands high above the city, collapsed and toppled into the sea. Stone and brick buildings fell with a continuous roar like that of an artillery barrage and oil tanks on the edge of town exploded.

Flames, spread by broken gas pipes, roared through the town. With water mains torn apart, firemen were practically helpless. Tall buildings were dynamited to halt the spreading fire, but the explosion had little effect.

The big Masonic hotel was destroyed by fire. Every two story brick building came down. The postoffice and the Caledonian hotel stood, saving the lives of hundreds who congregated in them.

Outside, people lay dead in the streets and women rushed about hysterically. Buckled by the rocking ground, roads and streets were in waves.

Fear 100 Dead at Hastings.

In Hastings, a plains town, 12 miles from Napier, the destruction of life and property was almost equally terrible. Whereas 100 were reported dead at Napier, the first official reports from Hastings said that there were only 25 dead so far as could be determined, but that it was expected the final figures would be more than 100.

The buildings in Hastings were mostly of wood and fire broke out there after the first shock. The hospital and nurses' home collapsed on the inmates.

In both Napier and Hastings, the largest towns of the province, the earth was rent asunder by repeated shocks and fissures opened along the roads, some of them seventy feet long. The sea floor was shaken as well as the dry land, and when Bluff hill leaped into the water the bottom of Napier harbor rose 18 feet and the anchorage pool for steamers, called "The Ironpot," turned inside out and became an island.

Ships at anchor in Hawke bay were forced to move further out. The motor ship Taranaki in Napier roadstead reported the ship was shaken violently as though by explosions aboard.

Three Other Towns in Ruins.

Besides Napier and Hastings, the towns of Wairoa, Waipikuroa and Waipawa were razed by the quake, but few details of the disaster came from them today.

All means of communication in the affected area were destroyed and the only news came to Wellington from ship wireless stations and eyewitnesses, who fled from the earthquake zone.

The most official report was from Commander Rogers of the naval sloop Veronica, which was in Napier harbor. He went ashore immediately with relief parties to give first aid. He told of the almost total destruction of the city, fires which raged unchecked, of a wrecked water system which made most serious the sanitation problem and of the fact that he had taken as many destitute women and children aboard the sloop as was possible.

Die Under Falling Masonry.

From eyewitnesses there were sensational stories of men and women dying in the streets under falling masonry or trapped in their homes as the fire crept toward them. Panic stricken persons, seeking refuge in parked cars, were crushed in their havens by toppling walls.

CALL ON ALCOCK FOR SUSPENSION OF PALCZYNSKI

Move Follows Police 'Fixing' Inquiry.

The jurors also summoned to meet with them today President Cermak of the county board, State's Attorney Swanson, and Chief Justice McGoorty of the Criminal court. The purpose of the meeting is to discuss financing of the special jury's investigation of the police department.

Ask Captain's Suspension.

The jury's recommendation concerning Capt. Palczynski was that Acting Police Commissioner Alcock suspend the captain and make charges against him rather than to proceed against him by indictment. It was suggested that Palczynski be charged with conduct unbecoming a police officer and, if possible, malfeasance.

The jury placed full blame on Capt. Palczynski for permitting three men arrested for rape to be charged with disorderly conduct and later released after a hearing on the minor charge. Other policemen who were questioned by the jury about the case, in which Miss Pearl Heller of Wausau, Wis., was the alleged victim, were apparently exonerated by the decision to ask for the removal of Capt. Palczynski.

History of the Case.

On June 19 of last year three men were seized after policemen responded to cries for help from Miss Heller. The young woman was sent to the county hospital for an examination which resulted in reports by physicians that she had been ravished, as well as badly beaten. Prosecution of the men, however, was dropped for a reason as yet unknown to the jurors. There was talk of $3,000 having been paid to "fix" the case, according to prosecutors.

Policemen Peter Ward and John Fleming testified to arresting Constantine Benortowsky, Zigmund Cielinski, and John Dubinsky and taking them to the West Chicago avenue station, where they were questioned by Lieut. Daniel O'Hara. Lieut. O'Hara said he took a statement from Miss Heller and then sent her to the hospital.

Miss Heller's Story.

Miss Heller's story was that she had come to Chicago from Wausau to be married. She said that she was shopping for second hand furniture in stores in the vicinity of Chicago and Ashland avenue and was lured into an apartment at 843 North Ashland avenue, where the three men attacked her. Her eyes were blackened, her lips were swollen and her body was bruised, according to the physicians' report, as related to the jury.

Lieut. O'Hara said he ordered the three prisoners to be held, but that upon his return to duty next day he found they had been released on $25 bail each after the disorderly conduct charge was entered on the books against them. In court next day there was no prosecution and Judge William E. Helander dismissed the case for lack of evidence. What became of the young woman none of the police knew.

Captain Makes Denials.

Capt. Palczynski denied knowing about the rape accusation made against the three men. He denied authorizing their release and denied responsibility for calling the offense disorderly conduct. The assistant state's attorney then prosecuting before Judge Helander said he was not told of the nature of the offense or that any woman was involved. He said he did not remember the trial at all.

Sergt. William Kostrewski, then acting lieutenant, denied knowledge of the abandonment of the rape charge and the substitution of the disorderly conduct charge. None of the policemen would admit any responsibility. The rumors of payment of $5,000 were denied by all the policemen.

Prosecutor Seeks Girl.

Assistant State's Attorney Charles J. Mueller, who directs the presentation of evidence to the special grand jury, said he was endeavoring to find Miss Heller. When she is found, he said, he would ask her to appear before the jury and tell her story. It is possible, he said, that indictments may yet be voted for the men originally accused. They are to be questioned about any money paid by them to escape the rape charge, he said.

"The jurors decided that under the Senate Offers Relief Compromise

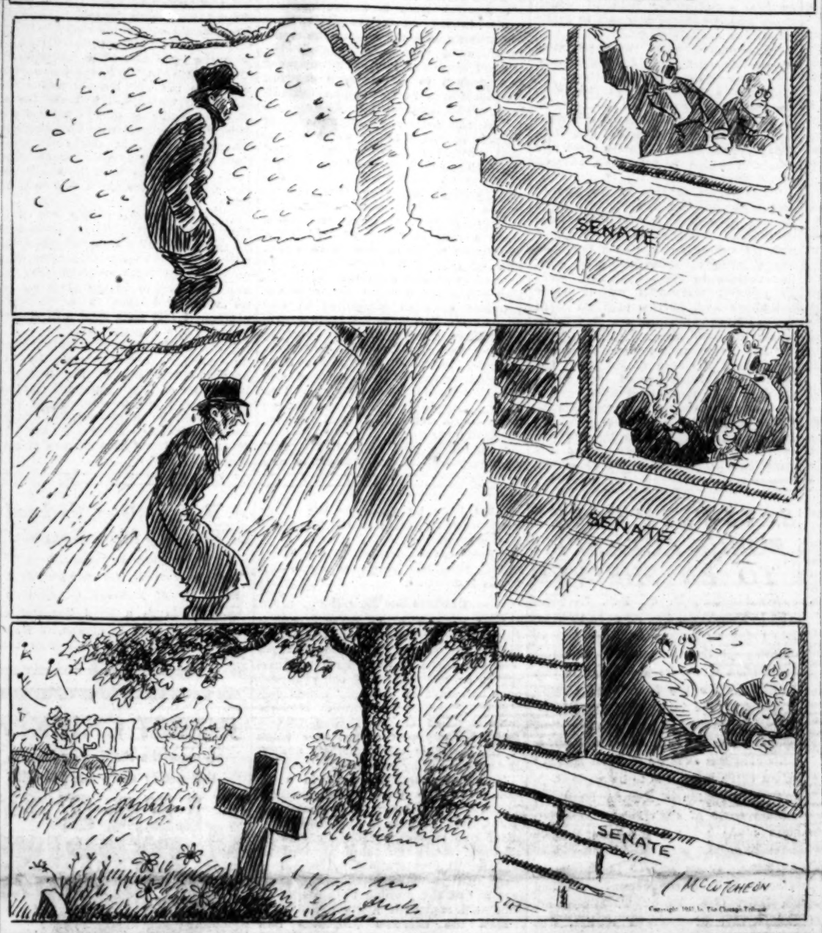
WHILE WASHINGTON MAKES UP ITS MIND WHAT KIND OF RELIEF IT WANTS TO GIVE TO THE SUFFERING



THIS HOSTESS AT A DINNER OF DOCTORS DINES BY HERSELF

Washington, N. C., Feb. 3.—(AP)—Mrs. H. W. Carter is going to have no more dinner parties for doctors.

She invited several of Dr. Carter's fellow practitioners to dinner last night.

While the guests were awaiting the summons to the dining room the telephone rang. It was an emergency call for Dr. Dewitt Klutz and he grabbed his hat and overcoat and left. Two minutes later Dr. P. A. Nicholson was called to the phone. He disappeared.

Just as dinner was served there was a call for Dr. D. T. Taylor, and before the oyster cocktails had been finished Dr. E. W. Larkin also had to leave.

"Well," began Mrs. Carter, "all I can——"

Just then the telephone rang again. Dr. Carter answered, seized his hat and rushed out of the door. Mrs. Carter finished the dinner in solitary state.

BOY HURT; WALKS HOME, THEN DIES OF HIS INJURIES

Two boy chums, both 10 years old, met at the close of school in Maywood on Monday and walked homeward together.

One, Robert Wallace, 622 South 20th avenue, Maywood, drew from his pocket a new, shiny jack knife which he exhibited to his playmate, Robert Brandes, 635 South 21st avenue. On the way the former tossed the open knife at trees and houses. As they reached the bungalow home of Herbert W. Miller, 645 South 20th avenue, the Wallace boy threw the knife, sticking it in a heavy flower box resting on the window sill, seven feet above ground.

Young Brandes offered to retrieve the weapon. He half climbed to the window sill and tugged at the imbedded knife. Suddenly the flower box toppled and fell on him. Seemingly only slightly hurt, the boy walked home, barely mentioning the incident to his family.

Yesterday he died from internal injuries.

Escaped Convicts Talk in Sleep and Betray Selves

Bloomington, Ill., Feb. 3.—[Special.]—Talking in their sleep while being given a ride by a friendly truck driver led to the return to the Pontiac reformatory today of David Griff and William Hanley, both of Chicago, who escaped from that institution Monday. The driver notified state highway patrolmen when the truck reached Shirley and they were arrested.

Brunker Crime Tale Hearsay, Jury Reports

Albert R. Brunker, chairman of the civic safety commission, who traveled to Boston last week to tell members of the Boston City club about crime conditions in Chicago, related only hearsay, it was indicated by a formal statement issued last evening by the special grand jury.

The jurors, under the leadership of J. A. Farmar of La Grange, a railroad official, who is foreman of the body, spent three hours on Monday hearing Brunker deny that he had made certain statements, and hearing him tell the basis on which he made other charges. The jurors then allowed Brunker to go to his office and issue a statement covering his testimony, which, it was expected, would clear up the situation. The jurors decided yesterday that they should issue their own statement.

Calls Evidence Hearsay.

"Such evidence as presented to the grand jury by Mr. Brunker was hearsay and general in character and no competent evidence whatsoever was given by him," concluded the statement given out by a delegation of three jurors, headed by the foreman.

Chief Justice John P. McGoorty of the Criminal court, who is leading the fight to redeem Chicago's reputation abroad, was aroused when he was informed last week of Brunker's speech, in which the latter made sweeping accusations against Chicago officials and said he had direct knowledge of certain crimes. Judge McGoorty asked the grand jury to find out immediately if Brunker had evidence on which to base his statements.

"Chicago has suffered much from exaggerated and unwarranted statements regarding the integrity of its law enforcement officials," said the judge when he ordered the issuance of the grand jury subpoena for Brunker.

Jury Authorizes Statement.

The grand jurors held an executive session at the close of their regular meeting yesterday, and Judge McGoorty appeared before them. After this session was over the following statement was authorized:

"In view of the gravity of the alleged statements of Albert R. Brunker appearing in the public press reflecting upon the judiciary of Cook county and other public officials, the special grand jury desires to state that Mr. Brunker, in testifying before the grand jury, neither directly nor indirectly offered any evidence in support of such alleged charges."

"On the contrary, Mr. Brunker de-

A NIGHT LETTER from Ring Lardner

Miami Beach, Fla., Feb. 3.—[Special.]—Sweet people: The economical thing to do in a place like this is rent a drive-it-yourself car by the week unless you want to stay in your room all the time and play blind man's bluff with the chambermaid. I had the good fortune to rent the first sedan ever made in America. It has no glass in the windows and no lights anywhere and the emergency brake won't work and the foot brake won't do anything else. It won't start unless it is facing downhill and it won't stop except when straddling a street car track. Boys, remember me kindly and take care of your mother and don't smoke till you are twenty-one.

FIRE DESTROYS POST CHAPEL AT FORT SHERIDAN

Flames of unknown origin early this morning destroyed the post chapel at Fort Sheridan, together with its $10,000 pipe organ and chalices and vestments of the Catholic church, with a total loss of $30,000. A priest was slightly burned in saving the blessed sacrament and two Highwood firemen and two soldiers were injured.

The chapel was a one story frame building with a two story section to the rear which was used as a clubhouse. Valuable baptismal, marriage and burial records of the post were destroyed.

Tells Uncanny Yarn of Burial Alive by Gang

Buried in an undertaker's rough box for nearly an hour, George Wittbrod, 34 years old, of 2117 Barry avenue, a rubber goods salesman, was rescued early this morning outside of All Saints' Greek cemetery on Higgins road, a half mile east of the River road, by County Highway Policeman Fred Parker and Robert Schambaum after his stifled cries had attracted the attention of a farmer passing in his automobile. Taken to the Town Hall police station, Wittbrod told a weird story of torture which almost resulted in his being buried alive in a freshly dug grave. Police were seeking to ascertain whether the affair was a grewsome joke or an actual attempt to harm the victim.

Wittbrod said that he left a poolroom at Lincoln and Belmont avenues late last night and had started up an alley to a restaurant when he was seized by seven men, slugged on the head and knocked unconscious. He awoke several minutes later to find himself tied hand and foot and riding in an automobile with his seven assailants.

Threatened with Death.

Reaching the cemetery, Wittbrod related, his captors dragged him from the machine, saying as they trundled him into the grave yard, "We've been looking for this chance for a long time, and now you're going to die." Wittbrod was carried to a nearby tombstone, where he was suspended to a high cross on the monument by his wrists. He was forced to hang there until his body had become almost numb from the cold and from the beating of his captors.

They securely tied his feet and were about to leave when he wriggled loose one hand. The success of his efforts to free himself were noticed by one of the gang, who ordered his companions back into the cemetery with the command, "Take him down and bury him!"

Wittbrod was untied by one of the gang while the others obtained an undertaker's rough box lying nearby. He was retied with the rope, hand and foot, and a burlap sack fastened around his head. Then he was placed in the box, the lid was nailed down, and the box carried on a wheelbarrow to a small, open grave. The box would not go into the grave horizontally and it was stuck into the hole vertically while the seven debated on whether to hunt a spade and dig the grave larger.

Box Tied to Automobile.

After a time the leader ordered the box removed from the grave and tied to the rear of their automobile, and the box with Wittbrod inside was dragged several hundred feet down the road before it was cut loose and dumped into a ditch, lid down, with Wittbrod lying on his face.

Wittbrod, fighting desperately to free himself, managed somehow to wiggle loose from the sack tied around his head and began yelling. His cries attracted the passing farmer, who gave his name as "Osterman," and who immediately notified the county highway police by telephone.

Wittbrod at the Town Hall police station said he knew his assailants, and police squads were sent out to round them up.

One of the men named by Wittbrod was William Meddy, 21 years old, 1729 Fletcher street. Meddy, the police said, admitted his participation but said it was "all in fun."

STATEMENT BY PRESIDENT MAY AID AGREEMENT

Hoover Explains His Position.

As Hoover Sees It

The Red Cross has always met the situation which it has undertaken.

This is not an issue as to whether people shall go hungry or cold in the United States. It is solely a question of the best method by which hunger and cold shall be prevented.

The basis of successful relief in national distress is to mobilize and organize the infinite number of agencies of self-help in the community. That has been the American way.

If we break down the sense of responsibility to individual generosity and individual and mutual self-help . . . we have struck at the roots of self-government.

If the time should ever come that the volunteer agencies of the country . . . are unable to find resources with which to prevent hunger and suffering in my country, I will ask the aid of every resource of the federal government.

BY ARTHUR CRAWFORD.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 3.—[Special.]—Hostilities over relief for drought sufferers and unemployed raged today on three battle fronts, although many saw an opening toward a compromise.

From the White House emanated a lengthy statement in which President Hoover defended his position in opposition to direct appropriations for charitable purposes and asserted that the proposals for federal invasion of the field of private relief strike at "the roots of self-government."

In the senate the President was the particular target in speeches by Senators Joseph T. Robinson [Dem., Ark.], Pat Harrison [Dem., Miss.] and Claude A. Swanson [Dem., Va.].

Disregard House Rules.

In the house there were wild scenes as two Republicans spoke their minds, in disregard of house rules, about Senator T. H. Caraway [Dem., Ark.], who assailed them yesterday in the senate because of their defense of the administration in the relief controversy.

"There was, however, considerable talk of compromise during the day, partly based on a paragraph of President Hoover's statement.

"I am willing to pledge myself," said the President, "that, if the time should ever come that the voluntary agencies of the country, together with the local and state governments, are unable to find resources with which to prevent hunger and suffering in my country, I will ask the aid of every resource of the federal government because I would no more see starvation amongst our countrymen than would any senator or congressman. I have faith in the American people that such a day will not come."

Chance for Compromise Seen.

Senator Harrison, in the senate, interpreted this as meaning that the President might be willing to make concessions. He suggested a compromise by which the $25,000,000 for relief would be made available only in the event that the Red Cross and other private organizations are not able to meet the needs of the situation.

"I am glad that, in the statement issued by the President, he has seen fit to express himself in a more conciliatory spirit," said Senator Harrison, "and it seems to me he has opened the way by which the congress and the executive might get together."

Senator Robinson was more severe in his references to President Hoover and was unwilling to give his opinion of a compromise, suggested by Senator James Couzens [Rep., Mich.]. Senator Robinson said he would "reserve judgment on that question until some one makes such a proposal" when Senator Couzens inquired if he would be satisfied with a $15,000,000 food loan.

Willing to Force Extra Session.

Both Senator Harrison and Senator Robinson reiterated their willingness to force a special session, if necessary, to bring about what they regard as adequate relief legislation.

"If an extra session were necessary in order to take care of and provide relief for those who are suffering in this country," said Senator Harrison. "I think we should stay here and do the job."

Responsibility for a special session, Senator Harrison said, must be shared by the President and by the house.

Senator Robinson said that "much as I regret to be in Washington in an extra session of congress this summer, rather than see a duty which is upon us neglected, I will gladly consent to sacrifice personal comfort and try to do my duty.

Blames President and House.

"If there is an extra session, it will result because the President and the house of representatives refuse to accede to relief measures, supported by a majority of Republican senators," said Senator Robinson, "because of their strange and unaccountable indifference to legislation which challenges and involves the concern of the people of the nation.

"The President declares it was generally understood from the beginning that there should be no federal relief appropriation. Who entered into any such understanding? In the message I sent the President, when he asked that there be no filibuster against appropriation bills, I declared to him explicitly that the legislation of this session in my judgment should embrace adequate relief measures, and that his cooperation in the passage of such measures was hoped for and expected. Is there anyone here who will insist that adequate relief has been granted?"

Senator Swanson stated the issue as he saw it.

"The issue is plain and clear, with the President and the house on one side, and the senate on the other," said Senator Swanson. "The house and the President say: 'You can not get this provision for relief unless you pledge that you will feed only animals engaged in production.' In other words, they are willing to furnish feed for a mule engaged in production, but a man who is engaged in production and raising a crop may starve, if he can not get his money from some other source. Of all the folly and nonsense this takes the lead."

Warn of Business Situation.

Senator Swanson said he was willing to share the responsibility of an extra session, "if a million people must starve on account of the stubbornness of the chief executive of this country."

President Hoover, in his statement again declared his opposition to a special session. He said that "the whole business situation would be greatly strengthened by the prompt completion of the necessary legislation of this session of congress and thereby the unemployment problem would be lessened, the drought area indirectly benefited and the resources of self help in the country strengthened."

The President made public a letter from John Barton Payne, head of the Red Cross, stating that the campaign for $10,000,000 is progressing and that he is confident of the ability to raise sufficient funds to meet the needs adequately. Subscriptions to date total $5,520,463.

House Members Speak Out.

Meantime in the house, scenes almost approaching disorders existed as Senator Caraway was assailed for his remarks yesterday.

Representative L. C. Cramton [Rep., Mich.], told the house, as Democrats vainly protested that he was transgressing the prohibition of house rules against attacks upon members of the other branch of congress, that anybody who says he has used his official influence to land a federal job is "a plain, unadulterated liar."

Senator Caraway made such an assertion yesterday in connection with a $10,000 job as associate director of the George Washington bicentennial commission which has been offered to Mr. Cramton, who was defeated for reelection in November and will retire from congress on March 4.

Lead Fight on Relief Rider.

Mr. Cramton drew caustic comments from Senator Caraway yesterday because of his leadership of the successful administration fight in the house against the $25,000,000 relief provision added in the senate to the interior department bill.

Representative Allen T. Treadway [Rep., Mass.], who also was subjected to some of Senator Caraway's fire in yesterday's senate debate, sought to keep within the house rules by speaking in a "hypothetical way."

"If I were fortunate enough to have a brother," said Mr. Treadway, alluding, evidently, to Senator Caraway's story of the need of his own brother in Arkansas, "I would not make public the fact that I was not willing to aid him in distress by at least furnishing him with clothes, sufficient to warrant his attendance at church.

"Further than that, if an offer of a position of influence at a good salary were made to a man who has distinguished himself for many years in public service, I would not complain about it, particularly if I lived in a glass house that would have its windows broken by the stones that I throw, when the records show that two of my sons had been appointed to West Point, one of them by a member from another state where I did not live and the other by a senator from a state in which I did live."

The proceedings in the house served to emphasize the bitter hostility existing between the two branches of congress. The effect seemed to be to strengthen the resistance of the house to senate proposals in conflict with White House policies.

Text of President Hoover's Statement on Relief Situation

"Certain senators have issued a public statement to the effect that unless the President and the house of representatives agree to appropriations from the federal treasury for charitable purposes they will force an extra session of congress.

"I do not wish to add acrimony to a discussion, but would rather state this case as I see its fundamentals.

"This is not an issue as to whether people shall go hungry or cold in the United States. It is solely a question of the best method by which hunger and cold shall be prevented.

"It is a question as to whether the American people on one hand will maintain the spirit of charity and mutual self-help through voluntary giving and the responsibility of local government as distinguished on the other hand from appropriations out of the federal treasury for such purposes.

Government Periled, He Says.

"My own conviction is strongly that if we break down this sense of responsibility of individual generosity to individual and mutual self-help in this country in times of national difficulty, and if we start appropriations of this character we have not only impaired something infinitely valuable in the life of the American people, but have struck at the roots of self-government.

"Once this has happened it is not the cost of a few score millions, but we are faced with the abyss of reliance in the future upon government charity in some form or other.

"The money involved is indeed the least of the costs to American ideals and American institutions.

"President Cleveland in 1887, confronted with a similar issue, stated in part:

"'A prevalent tendency to disregard the limited mission of this power and duty should, I think, be steadfastly resisted, to the end that the lesson should be constantly enforced that, though the people support the government, the government should not support the people.

"'The friendliness and charity of our countrymen can always be relied upon to relieve their fellow citizens in misfortune. This has been repeatedly and quite lately demonstrated. Federal aid in such cases encourages the expectation of paternal care on the part of the government and weakens the sturdiness of our national character, while it prevents the indulgence among our people of that kindly sentiment and conduct which strengthens the bonds of a common brotherhood.'

"And there is a practical problem in all this. The help being daily extended by neighbors, by local and national agencies, by municipalities, by industry and a great multitude of organizations throughout the country today is many times any appropriation yet proposed. The opening of the doors of the federal treasury is likely to stifle this giving and thus destroy far more resources than the proposed charity from the federal government.

"The basis of successful relief in national distress is to mobilize and organize the infinite number of agencies of self-help in the community. That has been the American way of relieving distress among our own people and the country is successfully meeting its problem in the American way today.

Two Distinct Situations.

"We have two entirely separate and distinct situations in the country; the first is the drought area, the second is the unemployment in our large industrial centers—for both of which these appropriations attempt to make charitable contributions.

"Immediately upon the appearance of the drought last August I convoked a meeting of the governors, the Red Cross and the railways, the bankers and other agencies in the country and laid the foundations of organization and the resources to stimulate every degree of self-help to meet the situation which it was then obvious would develop.

"The result of this action was to attack the drought problem in a number of directions. The Red Cross established committees in every drought country, comprising the leading citizens of those counties, with instructions to them that they were to prevent starvation among their neighbors and, if the problem went beyond local resources, the Red Cross would support them.

"The organization has stretched throughout the area of suffering, the people are being cared for today through their hands and with sympathetic understanding and upon the responsibility of their neighbors who are being supported in turn by the fine spirit of mutual assistance of the American people. The Red Cross officials, whose long devoted service and experience are unchallenged, informed me this morning that except for the minor incidents of any emergency organization, no one is going hungry and no one need go hungry or cold.

"To reenforce this work at the opening of congress I recommend large appropriations for loans to rehabilitate agriculture from the drought and provision of further large sums for public works and construction in the drought territory, which would give employment in further relief to the whole situation. These federal activities provide for an expenditure of upward of $100,000,000 in this area and it is in progress today.

Red Cross Dependable.

"The Red Cross has always met the situations which it has undertaken. After careful survey and after actual experience of several months with their part of the problem they have announced firmly that they can command the resources with which to meet any call for human relief in prevention of hunger and suffering in drought areas and that they accept this responsibility. They have refused to accept federal appropriations as not being consonant either with the need or the character of their organization. The government departments have given and are giving them every assistance. We possibly need to strengthen the public health service in matters of sanitation and to strengthen the credit facilities of that area through the method approved by the government departments to divert some existing appropriations to strengthen agricultural credit corporations.

"In the matter of unemployment outside of the drought areas important economic measures of mutual self-help have been developed, such as those to maintain wages, to distribute employment equitably, to increase construction work by industry, to increase federal construction work from a rate of about $275,000,000 a year prior to the depression to a rate now of over $750,000,000 a year; to expand state and municipal construction—all upon a scale never before provided or even attempted in any depression. But beyond this, to assure that there shall be no suffering, in every town and county voluntary agencies in relief of distress have been strengthened and created and generous funds have been placed at their disposal. They are carrying on their work efficiently and sympathetically.

"But after and coincidently with voluntary relief our American system requires that municipal, county, and state shall use their own resources and credit before seeking such assistance from the federal treasury.

"I have indeed spent much of my life in fighting hardship and starvation both abroad and in the southern states. I do not feel that I should be charged with lack of human sympathy for those who suffer, but I recall that in all the organizations with which I have been connected over these many years the foundation has been to summon the maximum of self-help. I am proud to have sought the help of congress in the past for nations who were so disorganized by war and anarchy that self-help was impossible.

"But even these appropriations were but a tithe of that which was coincidently mobilized from the public charity of the United States and foreign countries. There is no such paralysis in the United States and I am confident that our people have the resources, the initiative, the courage, the stamina and kindness of spirit to meet this situation in the way they have met their problems over generations.

Understands Anxiety.

"I will accredit to those who advocate federal charity a natural anxiety for the people of their states. I am willing to pledge myself that if the time should ever come that the voluntary agencies of the country together with the local and state governments are unable to find resources with which to prevent hunger and suffering in my country, I will ask the aid of every resource of the federal government, because I would no more see starvation amongst our countrymen than would any senator or congressman. I have the faith in the American people that such a day will not come.

"The American people are doing their job today. They should be given a chance to show whether they wish to preserve the principles of individual and local responsibility and mutual self-help before they embark on what I believe is a disastrous system. I feel sure they will succeed if given the opportunity.

"The whole business situation would be greatly strengthened by the prompt completion of the necessary legislation of this session of congress and thereby the unemployment problem would be lessened, the drought area indirectly benefited, and the resources of self-help in the country strengthened."

SAYS VETS' CASH BONUS ACTION IS TO BE SHELVED

Washington, D. C., Feb. 3.—[Special.]—Prediction was made in the senate today by Senator Pat Harrison of Mississippi that veterans' cash bonus legislation would be pushed aside this session, while the fear became more evident in the inner circle of administration leadership in the house that the issue would have to be met before this congress ends its term on March 4 if an extra session is to be avoided.

The prediction of Senator Harrison, an advocate of cash bonus payment, was made after the senate finance committee had foregone its purpose of voting today on one of the proposed plans. Instead the committee called in Brig. Gen. Frank T. Hines, administrator of veterans' affairs, who declined to recommend any plans because of probable effect upon the finances of the country.

The senate committee asserts that bonus legislation, being a revenue matter, should originate in the house. Proponents of the various payment plans agreed today to leave the matter to the house, with the understanding that if a bill is not reported in that body by Saturday the whole matter will be put up to the ways and means committee.

Administration leaders in the house believe President Hoover will veto any bonus legislation.

Bankers See Rejection.

New York, Feb. 3.—After studying the testimony of leading authorities before the senate finance committee and the house ways and means committee on the subject of the proposed cash payment of veterans' bonus certificates, leading Wall street bankers have reached the conclusion that a full cash payment of the face value of the certificates is extremely unlikely to be voted by congress.

This belief was reflected in a recovery in the price of government bonds today of from 3-32ds to 16-32ds point, the first rally in "governments" after five consecutive days of drastic declines. Although some form of relief for the veterans is regarded as certain to be voted by congress, bankers are of the opinion that the measure will represent a compromise between the extreme proposals now under discussion.

FARMERS GADDIN' GO AS RICH FOLK REMAIN AT HOME

BY PAUL POTTER.

"I've been hankering to see Florida all my fifty years. And now Mary and I are on our way."

The enthusiastic, swarthy faced speaker turned to his wife, and they beemed their pleasure at being among 274 farm folk who gathered at the Big Four station yesterday afternoon, where a fourteen car special train stood ready to take the first party of farmers ever to take a conducted vacation to Florida and Cuba.

These farmers, from Illinois, Indiana, Wisconsin, Michigan and Iowa, were anticipating with pleasure this two weeks of adventure. They were not the sort you have been reading about who are seeking relief. They are substantial looking, well dressed farm folk, able to spend from $235 to $850 on such a jaunt.

Sees Change in Times.

"It's funny," remarked one square shouldered De Kalb county farmer. "Here we farmers are a-going gadding while the brokers and rich folks that usually make these trips are staying home and looking sadlike."

Back on the farms hired men were left to do chores, build fences and try to keep the hired girl from becoming lonesome.

All told, the trip is costing these farmers $55,000. They pay the entire bill and haven't a worry—not even luggage to check or boat to engage—for the two weeks' trip. Prairie Farmer, a magaizne, in cooperation with the railroad, sends a man to handle their affairs.

Orchestra Plays at Station.

One might have thought a royal party was entraining at 1:30, almost two hours before the special was due to leave. An orchestra was there from a local radio station to provide entertainment while redcaps milled through the leisurely group of waiting farmers, their fur-coated wives, and a few children.

At Indianapolis two more cars were to be picked up, with added rural excursioners from southern Indiana and Illinois.

Shoots at Robbers

Two robbers, wearing overalls to disguise themselves as workmen, raided the offices of the Albany Coal company at 2165 South Albany avenue, stole $200 from a cash drawer, and escaped in their car late yesterday as an employé of the concern opened fire on them.

Adam Glaser, manager of the office, was about to close for the day when the bandits entered. Their dress disarmed suspicion, and Glaser and three other employés were unaware they were holdup men until they drew revolvers. Glaser and the employés were herded into a back room by one of the robbers while the other rifled the till. As the two started away in their automobile Glaser stepped to the door and fired six shots at them.

Radio Causes Arrest of Two.

A radio flash on the police broadcast led to the arrest yesterday of two young robbers 20 minutes after they had held up Henry Ribach, a druggist, of 5425 North Central avenue, and robbed him of $85. The capture followed an exchange of shots between the holdup men and two policemen. The prisoners are Frank Papst, 22 years old, 618 Throop street, and Fred Mullen, 24, who refused to give his address.

Papst and Mullen were caught by Policemen Waltar Reimer and Adolph Vollmer of the Shakespeare avenue station after the policemen had received a report on their flivver radio of the Ribach robbery. At Elston avenue and Cortland street Reimer and Vollmar sighted the bandits, and pursued them.

Papst and Mullen sped away, one of them firing several shots at the officers. One bullet pierced the police car windshield and passed between the two pursuers. A dozen shots were exchanged, when the bandit car, turning into McHenry street, was blocked by the north branch of the river. As Mullen and Papst leaped out of their machine they threw their guns into the river and surrendered.

Edward Gibson, owner of a cigar store at 4501 Ravenswood avenue, was robbed of $35 last night by two men who ordered him to lie on the floor while they took the money from the cash drawer.

Arthur Michalowski, a grocer at 3581 Belden avenue, was robbed of $50 by two men. Earl Holden, 1517 Jonquil terrace, manager of an O'Connor and Goldberg shoe store at 1253 Milwaukee avenue, was robbed of $55 by two men.

Charles Buehn, 111 East Superior street, was robbed of $12 by two gunmen who forced him into a doorway at 901 Orleans street.

Henry Newhoff, 31 years old, and Cecil Claire, 25, both of 3550 McLean avenue, and formerly of Sioux Falls, S. D., were arrested by police yesterday as bandit suspects. Both were armed with revolvers. Newhoff also carried a blackjack. The men admitted committing a burglary, but denied having perpetrated any robberies.

Eugene Toro, the money guard who was shot by the bandits who tried to take $18,000 receipts of Hillman's Pure Food store, 24 West Washington street, was reported to be growing weaker at the Passavant hospital last night.

Pope to Speak in Latin Over Radio on Feb. 12

VATICAN CITY, Feb. 3.—(AP)—The Pope's voice for the first time in history appeared to be certain to be heard around the world when the new Vatican City radio broadcasting station, HVJ, is opened Feb. 12. Pope Pius, according to present plans for opening the new station on the ninth anniversary of his coronation, will speak during the two-hour ceremony. His speech, available to hundreds of millions of persons in many lands, probably will be in Latin.

MERCURY RISES TO 54 HERE; SETS FEB. 3 RECORD

Subzero Weather in the East.

Chicagoland yesterday experienced the warmest Feb. 3 in the history of the local weather bureau, the temperature reaching a maximum of 54 degrees at 2 o'clock. The previous high mark for that date was 52, recorded in 1919, 1927 and 1928.

While Chicago was enjoying its balmy midwinter climate news dispatches were carrying reports of the most severe cold wave of the season in New York state and New England, thermometers reading as low as 35 degrees below zero in some sections. At Northfield, Vt., it was 22 below, and at Albany, N. Y., 16 below. At Amherst, Nova Scotia, the temperature was 22 below, the coldest since 1922.

Forecaster C. A. Donnel predicted a continuance of the mild weather for the Chicago area today, although indications were for a slight drop in temperature during the daylight hours and a possible minimum of below freezing in the night.

Sunshine Brings Out Autoists.

Spring sunshine prevailed all day yesterday in this section, bringing thousands of motorists from the suburbs for shopping tours in the loop and neighborhood stores.

A robin was sighted in a tree on the campus of Lake Forest college by Charles Steele, a senior; C. A. Warning, owner of a gas station at 1850 Irving Park boulevard, captured a black butterfly, and Paddy Nolan, hose man of engine company No. 60, 5441 Lake Park avenue, while examining a vacant lot which school children wanted flooded for the next freeze, reported he was stung by a mosquito.

California Fights Storm.

Los Angeles, Feb. 3. — (AP) — The heaviest rainstorm of the year swept over southern California today, stalling automobiles in the streets of cities, disorganizing interurban rail traffic, and causing considerable damage along the shoreline.

A tide of more than seven feet combined with the storm to batter bulkwards and piers, undermine beach front buildings and spread sand and débris over yards and roads.

TRIBUNE POLL TO TEST G. O. P. MAYORAL VOTE

Straw Balloting Will Start Next Week.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

Because of the apparently growing interest, THE TRIBUNE will undertake a straw vote next week of the Republican mayoralty contest. Necessarily it will be somewhat experimental for the reason that THE TRIBUNE has heretofore taken but one poll in a primary campaign.

That was in 1928. All of the forecasts of winners, both for state and county nominees, proved true in the primary. But in that campaign the sentiment was distinctly one way.

In elections THE TRIBUNE has utilized polls sufficiently long to have ascertained, from experience, what can be expected from them. In the mayoralty election of 1923 THE TRIBUNE poll forecast the total vote of the late William E. Dever within one-half of one per cent.

Election of 1924 Recalled.

In the national election of 1924 the polls of this newspaper predicted the winners. In 1924 the defeat of the transit ordinance was forecast.

In 1927 THE TRIBUNE poll indicated two weeks in advance the result of the election. In the 1928 presidential campaign the forecasts on national, state, and selected county candidates proved reliable.

But the present contest is a primary—a fight for nominations. Since primaries were inaugurated, there has never been one in Chicago where as many voters took part as in the following election.

It is generally believed that the factional organizations have unusual power in the selection of candidates, and in a case of a small total vote often are the dominating factor in deciding who shall be the nominee.

The sentiment of all of the available members of a party is seldom registered. Therefore a poll, which collects the sentiment of the public generally may easily be at variance with what a factional organization registers in votes at the polls.

A Sample of Sentiment.

But THE TRIBUNE will make a diligent effort to ascertain how much sentiment favors each candidate. It is believed that if a large percentage of the party goes to the polls, the forecast should be indicative of the result. The straws will be printed for whatever they are worth.

All of THE TRIBUNE polls have been conducted for the sole purpose of forecasting the election result, regardless of what it was.

HOLDERS OF 70% OF BONDS BACK TRANSIT MERGER

Holders of more than 70 per cent of the securities of the surface and elevated lines have indicated their approval of the proposed merger of the lines into one system, Halsey, Stuart & Co., consolidation managers, announced yesterday. At the same time the protective committees were notified of the desire of the merger managers to declare the consolidation plan operative. This can be done, the managers said, as soon as the protective committee members sign the reorganization plan and agreement.

"The securities now on deposit indorsing the plan total $149,487,950," read the statement of Halsey, Stuart & Co. "It is anticipated there will be additional large deposits within a short time. These figures, all of which are on the basis of face or liquidation value, clearly indicate the widespread approval of the plan.

"With the close of the period for withdrawal of securities, only $360,000 has been taken out of the hands of the committees and in the last 30 days deposits total $12,302,560. If the trend indicated by those figures continues, deposits during the limited time remaining will be far greater."

RONGETTI LOSES PLEA TO BLOCK OUSTER HEARING

Superior Judge Lindsay yesterday dismissed for lack of equity the petition of Dr. Amante Rongetti for a permanent injunction to restrain the state department of education and registration from continuing the revocation of license proceedings against him. The judge also dissolved the temporary injunction issued on Dec. 16.

The state seeks to revoke Rongetti's license on charges of gross malpractice arising from the deaths of Loretta Enders and Mrs. Elizabeth Palumbo, both of whom, the state contends, died as the result of criminal operations. Rongetti was sentenced to death in the Enders case; after an appeal the sentence was reduced to fourteen years, and this sentence is now on appeal. Dr. Rongetti was freed in the Palumbo case.

Rongetti's attorneys contended that the chairman of the examining board could not legally sit on the board because he is an honorary faculty member of a university, and as such was disqualified by the medical practice act. The judge found that the evidence did not prove this theory.

AFTERNOON FROCKS

Show Lace "Touches" Rising To New Fashion Heights

The lingerie touch is no longer merely incidental, but becomes a thing of major importance this season. The lace is on georgette in this frock, in deep cuffs and a vestee. There's a soft double collar, a hipline of intricate cut which stresses the gentle fullness of the skirt. It is a frock which is a gracious addition to any wardrobe.

SALTIS PICTURES SELF AS FARMER; WINS FREEDOM

Beer Gangster Defeats Vagrancy Charge.

Joe Saltis, reputed south side beer chieftain, was found not guilty of vagrancy by Municipal Judge Justin F. McCarthy yesterday afternoon.

The verdict followed Saltis' testimony in his own behalf in which he described in detail his 220 acres of farm and summer resort property in north Wisconsin and illustrated his rôle as a busy farmer and summer resort manager with a moving picture film.

The moving picture showed the twenty-three room rambling hotel at the estate near Winter, in Sawyer county, the golf course, a lake, fishing boats and hunting lodges. It revealed also that Saltis is the owner of a biplane which he keeps on his grounds.

Proves Title to Property.

Added proof of the authenticity of Joe's designated background as a gentleman farmer rather than a vagrant had been produced previous to the film showing by his chief attorney, James Burke, when he submitted deeds proving Saltis' ownership of the Barker Lake property, near Winter, and an adjoining farm at Chief Lake, held in the name of his wife, Anna.

"Why is this title in your wife's name?" Mr. Burke questioned his client on direct examination.

"Well, I was on a trip when the deal was completed," answered Saltis, "and I told my wife to have it made in her name in case anything happened to me, because all lawyers are just like you—whenever they hear the name of Joe Saltis they want big money."

Burke immediately culminated that line of questioning.

Profits and Losses.

"What was your income from the Barker Lake resort in 1929?" he asked.

"I lost money—$4,500," was the reply.

Q.—And did you make money in 1930? A.—Yes, the profit was about $10,800. I also had $1,200 income from my property at 5654 South Albany avenue, at $100 a month rent.

"Is this," queried Burke, waving an income tax report copy, "a copy of income taxes paid by you for 1930 on an income of $12,000?" Joe said it was, and produced, with a flourish, his receipt for $141.14 from the collector of internal revenue.

"Did you provide for your son, Emil, who was injured by an automobile last November?" Burke continued.

"Yes, in Holy Cross hospital, the best doctors. To date I've spent about $9,000 on him."

"Are you," wound up his counsel, quoting the vagrancy warrant, "a common drunkard and brawler, an idle and dissolute person who does not lawfully provide for his family, and who spends his time in gambling dens and tippling houses, and prowling about the courts, streets, banks and brokers' offices?"

Saltis said he wasn't.

Ditchburne Cross-examines.

Prosecutor Harry Ditchburne began his cross-examination by learning that Saltis was born in Budapest thirty-seven years ago, and had been in Chicago since 1905.

"Did you know Spike O'Donnell, Lefty Koncil, Eddie Courtney, John Oberta, or Willie Niemoth?" Ditchburne asked. At each name Burke protested emphatically that the proceeding was incompetent and irrelevant, but Judge McCarthy permitted Saltis, who was waving his lawyer back into his seat, to reply that he had known these men.

Q.—Ever have any business dealings with any of them? A.—Never.

Q.—Were you ever in the beer business? A.—Never was.

"I should be pleased to retire and consider my verdict," said Judge McCarthy, smiling, when both sides had waived argument, "but I think there's nothing in the evidence produced here, within the statute of limitations, which indicates that this man is a vagrant, and so I shall have to dismiss him."

Prosecutors Ditchburne and James Brown immediately nolle prossed the vagrancy case against Saltis' bodyguard, "Paddy" Sullivan, a former Chicago policeman, which was based on similar evidence.

CUBAN WORKERS RIOT; THOUSANDS STRIKE AS PROTEST TO MACHADO

(Copyright: 1931: by the New York Times.)

HAVANA, Feb. 3.—Serious clashes between police and workmen grew out of attempts today to launch a general strike of protest against the government and its policies. The home of a student was raided by police and tear gas bombs and pamphlets urging intermittent strikes at American mills and other properties were seized. At the same time word came that 300 men and women students had been indicted en bloc in Santa Clara province for their alleged share in disorders there a month ago.

The riots occurred when 2,000 workmen started to parade without a permit, in an effort to arouse interest in a proposed general strike, for which several unions had voted. The marchers found their way blocked by policemen. The parade was broken up and scores of the workmen were seized and thrown into jail.

At 6 o'clock tonight nearly 3,000 union men walked out. Each union gave a different reason for its action, but each reason was aimed at some policy of the Machado government. Other unions not yet on strike are taking votes on whether to go out.

Two thousand stevedores, carpenters, metallurgical workers and others affiliated with the Cuban National Federation of Maritime workers also walked out today for 24 hours in sympathy with 600 fishermen who have been on strike for three months against the alleged breaking of a price contract by the large fish importing companies. Seven hundred linotype operators also walked out.

Mount Vernon, Ill., Pastor Found Dead Near Cemetery

BRUNKER "CRIME FACTS" HEARSAY, JURORS REPORT

Hit Testimony Given by Reformer.

nied that he had made the statements as published.

"Such evidence as presented to the grand jury by Mr. Brunker was hearsay and general in character and no competent evidence whatsoever was given by him."

In the statement issued by Brunker after his grand jury session he admitted that he had told his Boston audience of an interview with Al Capone in which he quoted figures. He said that he himself thought the statements "ridiculous," but that he was giving them for what anybody thought they might be worth.

Brunker's Job in War.

Brunker first came into public notice during the war when he was appointed head of the inspection department of the aviation section of the signal corps for the Chicago district. He did not serve in this capacity, however, but appointed Clarence I. Hogue, a young broker, as chief clerk of the department and then turned over complete charge of the work to him. Brunker himself assumed the chairmanship of the acids and chemical division of the war industries board.

Hogue's activities came under government investigation and it was discovered that he had used his position for advancing himself and his friends socially, squandering government funds and exempting his friends from the rigors of war service by giving them easy jobs on the government pay roll. Hogue was later indicted by the federal grand jury.

Brunker started to take an active part in political affairs about two years ago. During the 1929 aldermanic campaign he attacked William D. Meyering, wounded war hero, who has since been elected sheriff. At that time Col. A. A. Sprague took exception to his name being attached to anti-Meyering literature sent out by Brunker's civic safety committee.

Refer to Brunker Speech.

Members of the state's attorney's staff said yesterday that they were not in a position to say how much of Brunker's committee remains, in view of his Boston speech, in which he was quoted as saying that the members ran out on him one by one until he was left to "yell alone."

Maj. Thomas B. Crockett, now head of a voters' association, who is said to have supplied Brunker with some of the information he quoted, is to be given a chance later to tell the grand jury whether he has hearsay or actual evidence about the North Clark street massacre.

125 DETECTIVES HUNT MISSING NEW YORK CHILD

New York, Feb. 3.—[Special.]—Under orders to search every building in thirty blocks from cellar to roof and to question every suspicious character they encountered, 125 detectives and plain clothes men and a police emergency squad, armed with powerful searchlights, began tonight the most intensive hunt for a missing child in the history of the police department.

They are seeking Rose Yasso, 10 year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Yasso of Brooklyn. The girl disappeared last Sunday morning.

PUBLIC ENEMY McGURN SEIZED ON LYLE CHARGE

Vagrancy Warrant Served on Gangster in Court.

Jack (Machine Gun) McGurn, No. 6 of the public enemies listed by the Chicago crime commission and Judge John H. Lyle, was arrested yesterday on the vagrancy warrant issued against him by Judge Lyle some four months ago. He had been forced into court and the police were on hand to take him into custody.

JACK McGURN.

McGurn's presence was demanded by Judge Ross C. Hall's Criminal court under penalty of a forfeiture of his $10,000 bond on a charge of carrying concealed weapons. He was convicted of this charge last summer, but the Illinois Supreme court granted him a new trial and the case was put on the trial docket again yesterday. It was set for hearing on Feb. 10.

Released on New Bond.

After his arrest on the vagrancy warrant McGurn did not stay in jail long, however, because before night he was again at liberty on a new $10,000 bond signed by Abraham Shanon. The bond was approved by Judge Thomas A. Green.

"It is a little different now since Judge Lyle is out of the Felony court," remarked one of the court attachés. "If Judge Lyle was still in the court McGurn would probably have been dragged before him and harassed for a few days at least before he got out on bonds."

McGurn is scheduled to appear in the Felony court before Judge Frank Padden this morning.

Kaplan and Lake in Court.

Other alleged hoodlums who made court appearances yesterday were Sam Kaplan of the 20th ward and Frank Lake, one of the first violators of the Volstead act through his partnership with Terry Druggan. They demanded jury trials and their cases were transferred for reassignment.

RAID 300 GALLON STILL.

Prohibition agents yesterday raided a 300 gallon still in a house at 11725 Hale avenue and arrested Angelo Insabata as the keeper. They found 5,000 gallons of mash.

JURORS DEMAND SUSPENSION OF POLICE CAPTAIN

Urge Alcock to Act in 'Fixing' Inquiry.

rules of evidence there is at present no basis for an indictment of Capt. Palczynski or any of the policemen," Mr. Mueller said. "Unquestionably the captain was remiss in his duty if he did not know that a serious crime was changed to a petty charge in his station. The entire truth may come out later, but for the present the jury is asking only the suspension of Capt. Palczynski."

Acting Commissioner Alcock was before the jury during the morning, before all the evidence had been heard on the rape case and the jurors' stand was not made known to him. He is to be notified today, Mr. Mueller said, and the suspension order is expected to follow at once.

Alcock refused to answer questions about his testimony. He said he was not asked about the Valentine day massacre, however, and from other refusals it was ascertained he had been asked about the disappearance of Mrs. Shirley Kub, formerly an investigator working for him, who revealed a knowledge of the operation of vice resorts and the activities of policemen in connection with those resorts.

Mrs. Kub vanished after having been questioned one day before the special grand jury. Alcock declared he has no knowledge of her present whereabouts. Policemen Patrick Burke and Thomas Roche, who worked with Mrs. Kub, were subpoenaed to appear before the jury today.

The jury let it be known that its members are impatient to get into action and feel they could accomplish something if sufficient money is made available for them. President Cermak has given assurances of an appropriation of $50,000, but the jurors said they want to discuss with him and the other officials the method of spending it.

NIGHT COUGHING

Quick and Safe Way To Stop It!

Whatever it is due to—cold, catarrhal condition of the throat, dust irritations or smoking—night coughing can and should be stopped! Nothing will pull you down faster, for it not only deprives you of needed sleep, but it tears you to pieces.

At the first sign of a cough, take good old "Piso's for Coughs." It does the five things necessary to stop a cough and repair the damage done. It checks the cough spasm, loosens the mucus, opens the air passage and soothes the inflamed tissues. At the same time, it has a tonic value that tends to build up what the cough tears down. Only Piso's supplies these five vital effects and it contains no opiates and does not upset the stomach. Safe to give even to babies. All druggists sell Piso's in 35c and 60c sizes. Be sure you get "Piso's for Coughs."

5 G. O. P. CHIEFS MEET TODAY IN LYLE CONCLAVE

Lay Plans for Two Weeks' Windup Campaign.

BY PARKE BROWN.

Saying that the unusual task of unifying five political organizations has been successful, mayoralty headquarters of Judge Lyle announced yesterday that the first meeting of the consolidated forces will be held at the Hotel La Salle this afternoon.

The five group leaders—Snow, Harding, Brundage, Barrett, and Robertson—will meet their ward committeemen and other ward leaders, who represent all the organized Republican ward units except those identified with the city hall, which are supporting Mayor Thompson, and the less extensive Deneen group, which is backing Ald. Arthur F. Albert.

At the meeting plans will be laid for a fast two weeks' windup of the campaign. The plans probably will include provisions for large meetings in all sections of the city and a series of noon meetings in the loop. Judge Lyle is expected at the meeting.

Discuss City Hall Attacks.

The Lyle managers went into a huddle yesterday when they heard that Thompson intends to continue the type of attack he made on Judge Lyle at the Cort theater on Monday, an attack that was omitted by all newspapers because of its character. The unanimous decision was that nobody connected with the campaign would reply to charges of this type.

"Such charges do more harm to the author than to the target," said one of the leaders. "We have information that Thompson's theory of operation consists of making each successive attack worse than its predecessor and that his only purpose is to get Judge Lyle's goat so that he can get him into a scrap. We won't fall for it."

The newest information brought into the La Salle headquarters was that Thompson intends to have three "for women only meetings," in which hired women speakers will assail Judge Lyle.

Look Into Abduction Case.

During the day, through a discovery in Corporation Counsel Ettelson's office, it was disclosed that possibly one of the attacks on Judge Lyle may be the case of Dorsey Chambliss, Negro policeman, tried and convicted in 1920 of abducting a white girl. Ettelson has had mimeographed copies made of newspaper articles of that period.

These articles were based on the fact that one of the attorneys for Chambliss in the early days of the case was James P. Harrold, then a partner of John Lyle. The charge that he represented the defense throughout the trial was investigated by Judge Lyle's present backers before they indorsed him, and it was found that Harrold withdrew from the case on March 15 and that the trial was not started until May 17. Chambliss was convicted on May 27.

In two speeches last night Judge Lyle resumed his analysis of the city financing problem and added a new chapter by promising to effect centralization of city purchasing if he becomes mayor.

"The present practice," he said, "of permitting various departments, boards and commissions to buy coal, oil, automobiles, lumber, gasoline, stationery, supplies and other materials, supplies and equipment independently, each patronizing a favored concern and obtaining merchandise of poor quality at a high price, has resulted in great waste.

"The establishment of a central purchasing agency will result in improvement in competitive bidding, in quantity buying, in standardized specifications and in reduced expenditures.

"All this work can be accomplished without an additional appropriation for employés or supplies and without the slightest friction among the departments, boards and commissions."

Ald. Albert issued a statement dissecting the recent annual municipal budget.

"With all price levels, commodities, wages, and everything showing marked depression during the last two years," it read, "there is food for thought that Chicago's bill for corporate expenses alone has increased almost 18 per cent in two years. In 1929 the corporate appropriation totaled $57,552,350. For this year that portion of the total appropriation totals $67,540,000."

Representatives of several large German societies have been invited to meet tonight at Prudential hall, Halsted street and North avenue, to hear George K. Schmidt delivering the opening gun of his campaign.

PRIMARIES NEAR, CITY HALL SPURS STREET CLEANING

Has Free Hand in Spending $2,668,000 Fund.

Heaps of garbage, filth, tin cans, ashes and trash which the city administration has permitted to pile up during recent months were disappearing yesterday as the result of a sudden pre-primary burst of energy by the bureau of streets and alleys.

Much of the refuse and debris remains, however, in several sections of the city, despite the repeated protests of merchants, housewives, and citizens' organizations, an inspection revealed. In many places, vacant lots are covered with the overflow waste dumped there by those unwilling to let it pile up at their doors.

At the city hall there is no mystery about the city's recently revived interest in street and alley cleaning. The mayoral primary comes on Feb. 24 and the election April 7.

$2,688,000 for Street Cleaning.

In the new 1931 corporate budget the city council appropriated $2,668,000 for street and alley cleaning, with the provision that $667,000 should be spent during each period of three months. This quarterly arrangement did not meet with the approval of Commissioner of Public Works Richard W. Wolfe.

Wolfe sent a subordinate to the council finance committee with a protest that he would be unduly hampered if such restrictions were placed on the appropriation. The committee and the council acquiesced and the restrictions were removed, with the result that Wolfe was given free hand to spend the money when he pleases. Hence, it is understood, most of the cleaning is being done when its effects will be most expedient politically for the Thompson administration.

The Political Aspect.

It is pointed out that should the streets and alleys again be clogged with refuse the latter part of the year the political situation will be different. Then either the administration will be securely entrenched for another four years or a new administration will be held responsible for conditions.

Street and alley conditions yesterday were found to be causing the most complaints in the west and northwest sections of the city. Although the city trucks and trailers have cleared most of the business and best residential districts, they have not penetrated much of the more sparsely settled territory.

DEMOCRATS IN 44TH WARD GROUP BACK LOESCHER

Raymond E. Moore, Democratic committeeman for the 44th ward, announced yesterday that his organization is standing by Ald. Albert E Loescher for reëlection.

"The statement given out to the effect that our organization had indorsed George W. Kasper's candidacy was unauthorized and erroneous. Following the recommendations of the Municipal Voters' league, and in recognition of his valuable service in the city council, the organization indorsed Ald. Loescher."

Have a piece of our birthday cake today—at any of our restaurants—with our compliments!

It is our gesture of appreciation for the patronage and good-will of thousands of Chicagoans during the past thirty-two years which have made it possible for us to grow from one small restaurant on West Madison Street to the thirteen great Pixley and Ehlers Restaurants that today cover the Loop.

Our policy of "serving a few things and serving them well," and the desire-to-please spirit which brought success at the outset, still prevails. It is the same sincere friendliness which prompts us today to invite our many friends and patrons to join in our birthday celebration—to share in the good birthday cake the P & E bakers have prepared for this occasion.

On this, our thirty-second Anniversary, the loyal co-workers of the Pixley and Ehlers Restaurants join me in thanking the people of Chicago for their generous patronage. With me, they express the hope that we may serve you for many years to come.

CANNON WALKS ON CRUTCHES TO CHURCH HEARING

Faces Accusers, but All Is Secrecy.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 3.—[Special.]—Swinging painfully along on crutches, Bishop James Cannon Jr., leader in moral and temperance missionary work of the Methodist Church, South, today entered the side door of the Mount Vernon Place Methodist chuch here to sit before the twelve traveling elders who will weigh the accusations filed against him.

Great secrecy surrounded the proceedings. What the accusations consist of has not been revealed. At the general conference at Dallas, Tex., last year, charges were made against him concerning his political activities in the south, when he campaigned against Al Smith on the issues of rum and religion, and concerning his speculations in the stock market through a New York bucket shop.

In view of the fact that Bishop Cannon came off victorious in the face of these charges, it is considered likely that charges of some other nature may now be lodged against him.

Press Must Wait for Facts.

Bishop W. N. Ainsworth of Birmingham, presiding at the hearing, gave out the following statement:

"This is an ecclesiastical procedure and will be conducted as the law of the church prescribes. Nothing will be given to the public by me or any one connected with the hearing during its progress. It will last several days, and when a conclusion is reached I will call representatives of the press and give the results and the names of those ministers who conducted the hearings."

Like everything else about the hearings, the identities of the jury of twelve elders are closely guarded. They are not registered at the hotel where they are stopping.

Bishops U. V. W. Darlington of Huntington, W. Va., and W. F. McMurray of Louisville, Ky., attempted to pass incognito, calling each other "Brother Jones" and "Brother Smith," as they left the church and started for a taxicab.

Cannon on Crutches.

Bishop Cannon came to the church from Sibley hospital, where he is undergoing treatment for arthritis. He was accompanied by two of his sons, James Cannon III and David Cannon.

Because of the gravity of the charges, it was said, Bishop Cannon will be given opportunity to cross examine witnesses.

In a case of this nature, the accusers must set forth the facts without argument and the burden of proof rests with them. If two-thirds of the elders hearing the charges believe them of sufficient merit a trial is ordered.

In Bishop Cannon's case this would mean that he would be suspended until going on trial at the next general conference in 1934.

MAXON PICTURED BY ONE WITNESS AS CRUEL SLAYER

Said to Have Jumped on Victim's Body.

New York, Feb. 3.—[Special.]—Details of the murderous drama enacted in the basement of "Ma" Hickey's boarding house, where James Maxon found lodgings with bartenders, furniture movers, and such when he fled a Tennessee rectory to become a writer in the metropolis, were unfolded today in General Sessions as fellow lodgers charged Maxon with slugging old David Paynter to death last April 18.

JAMES MAXON JR.

Two witnesses described the brawl, saying young Maxon, son of the coadjutor bishop of Tennessee, half naked, struck out ferociously and finally, after beating Paynter, who was 72, with a chair, leaped on the aged man's body on the kitchen floor.

Prelate Sticks by Boy.

Through the recitals young Maxon, 22, educated, a husky youth, fidgeted in his chair. His father, the cultivated prelate, in canonicals, who is "standing by his boy," sat quite still in the front row of a crowded room.

The eyewitnesses were Samuel Ecclesine, 52, construction superintendent, and Edward Scully, 47, a furniture mover. Scully lived with Paynter and James McCarry, "Ma" Hickey's handy man, in a dingy little room behind the kitchen.

Scully, unemployed, illy clad, unshaven, testified that when the ruckus began he retreated to the courtyard, where rain was falling in buckets, and watched the proceedings through a window.

Ask About Drinking.

When Martin W. Littleton, defense counsel and lifelong friend of Bishop Maxon, cross-examined he extracted little of interest except that Maxon, Mrs. Hickey and Scully had dined at 6 p. m. and had a couple of drinks besides.

"What were the drinks?" asked Littleton.

"They were supposed to be gin," said Scully.

Ecclesine told a story of swift violence in the dark lodging house basement and spared Maxon not at all. The bishop's son, he said, naked from the waist up, picked up a chair and knocked Paynter across the kitchen. When Paynter fell, Ecclesine continued, the youth struck him repeatedly until the chair fell apart and then leaped upon the old man, jumping up and down.

CHARGES DRYS MAKE GOVERNOR FIGHT REPEAL

Crusader's Accusation Is Denied by Emmerson.

By threatening Gov. Emmerson with political extinction in the event he wavers on the prohibition question, the Illinois Aanti-Saloon league has compelled the chief executive to exert his influence for the defeat of the Weber-O'Grady bill, which provides for repeal of the state search and seizure law.

Col. Ira L. Reeves, divisional organizer of the Crusaders, made this charge yesterday in addressing 200 members of the Kiwanis and Rotary clubs at a luncheon in the North Shore hotel at Evanston. Apprised of Col Reeves' statement, the governor entered an explicit denial at Springfield last night.

Col. Reeves was one of a wet Chicago delegation which went to Springfield last week to urge passage of the repealer measure at a public hearing before the legislature. His address yesterday was in response to one delivered a week ago before the same luncheon clubs by Earle Godwin, national publicity director of the W. C. T. U. A half dozen women of the W. C. T. U. attended yesterday's luncheon by invitation.

Centering his attack on the Anti-Saloon league, Col. Reeves described that organization as "the most ruthless and dishonest political group in the United States." He mentioned the alleged episode involving Gov. Emmerson as an example of Anti-Saloon league tactics.

"To spend a few days at Springfield would open your eyes," Col. Reeves said. "In the first place you would learn that the Anti-Saloon league has threatened the governor with political retirement if he fails to veto the repeal act—should it pass both houses and come to him for signature.

"You will further hear that the governor, to avoid being confronted with the alternative of vetoing or approving the bill, is making a strong but quiet canvass of the senators with a view to securing its defeat by that body. You will also hear that the governor will in all probability be successful in accomplishing defeat of the measure in that way.

Speaker Names Safford.

Although he refrained from mentioning names in his address, Col. Reeves said after the luncheon that he had been informed that the Rev. George B. Safford, superintendent of the Anti-Saloon league, served the dry ultimatum on the governor.

Furthermore, Col. Reeves asserted, three senators had privately informed him that they had been subjected to pressure from the administration forces to vote down the repeal bill Among those reported to have succumbed, he said, was Senator James J. Barbour of Evanston.

"It was not my purpose," Col Reeves said, "to inject politics into my speech. "I cited this case to show to what lengths the Anti-Saloon league will go to attain its objective."

On the referendum ballot last November, Col. Reeves recalled, the repeal program was carried by a two to one popular vote, following which a poll of the senate by THE TRIBUNE indicated 26 of the 51 senators in favor of the measure. Present indications, he went on, are that only 22 senators will abide by the mandate of the referendum.

Gov. Emmerson's Reply.

A Springfield dispatch quoted Gov Emmerson as follows:

"I have not seen Dr. Safford of the Anti-Saloon league since the legislature met. I have not asked anyone, directly or indirectly, to vote for or against the O'Grady bill. I have taken no part in the discussion of this bill. I'm not trying to run the third floor."

"FUR" SAMMONS ASKS HIGH COURT TO RELEASE HIM

James [Fur] Sammons, public enemy and convicted vagrant, began a new fight yesterday before the Illinois Supreme court for his release from prison where he was returend last November to complete 30 years of an unexpired sentence of 50 years for murder.

Through his brother, Sammons applied for a writ of habeas corpus on the ground the proceedings on which he was returned to the penitentiary were illegal. He attacks the ruling of Attorney General Oscar Carlstrom and the state board of pardons and paroles which held that his parole in 1923 was invalid.

Avoid the Dangers of RANCID OIL in STALE COFFEE

Indigestion, Headaches, Sleeplessness now traced directly to this RANCID OIL

Use coffee you know is safe . . . . Chase & Sanborn's is guaranteed fresh when you get it . . . every can dated SURPRISED to find that there's oil in coffee? There is . . . approximately a half cup in every pound. But it's only in stale coffee that this oil is dangerous!

When coffee is fresh, this oil is as fresh and fragrant as sweet butter. But when it gets stale, the oil turns rancid, spoils, just as butter does! Then it causes indigestion, headaches, sleeplessness.

To avoid this danger you must be certain the coffee you drink is fresh!

Chase & Sanborn's protects you. It's guaranteed fresh when you get it.

Rushed to your grocer, straight from the roasters, every can marked with an expiration date. If there's any unsold when its date has expired, our inspectors remove it, replace it with fresh. The date is your proof that it is fresh!

Irishman Says He'll See Her in Paris.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Feb. 3.—Michael Farmer will not be at Cherbourg tomorrow to meet his fiancé, Marilyn Miller, when she disembarks from the Europa, because he is reported to be recuperating from an attack of pneumonia at St. Moritz. But he said over the telephone from Switzerland tonight that he will return to Paris in about ten days to see her.

"Yes, I know Hugo Lederer—I met him at Marion Davies' house in Hollywood a coupde of times," said Farmer when asked about Marion's nephew who is reported to be paying the stage and screen star considerable attention and is aboard the Europa with her.

"I talked with Marilyn over the phone last week and reserved accommodations for her at a Paris hotel," continued Farmer. "She understands that I cannot meet her now because I am convalescing from a serious illness."

Friends of young Farmer here do not believe that the romance will stick, though the popular Hispano-Suiza "spare time" salesman gave Marilyn a diamond ring last summer.

Arrivals from St. Moritz assert that Michael does not seem to act like an invalid at the winter resort. They declare he is skiing, bobbing, dancing, drinking cocktails and playing baccarat and bridge until the early hours of the morning.

"You must ask her about our engagement," Farmer chivalrously replied when asked whether the betrothal had been broken. "I know nothing to change the situation."

When Marilyn announced her engagement to young Farmer, she described him as a rich Irishman, born in Dublin. Miss Miller's first husband, Frank Carter, actor, was killed in an automobile accident eleven years ago. She obtained a divorce from Jack Pickford, brother of Mary Pickford, in Paris four years ago.

CHARGES WIDOW WORE ONLY SEA AT SWIM PARTY

Son on Stand as Arnold Court Fight Reopens.

New York, Feb. 3.—[Special.]—The jury in the trial of the $1,000,000 alienation suit which Mrs. Bessie Sturm Arnold is pressing in Supreme court against Mrs. Margaret Crenshaw West, wealthy Westchester widow, was regaled today with spicy details of the "petting parties" alleged to have taken place between the defendant and the plaintiff's millionaire husband, Ray H. Arnold.

The star witness of the session was William Arnold, 20 year old son of the real estate operator, who told once again, as he had so glibly told during the trial of his mother's divorce suit, of having served breakfast in bed to his father and Mrs. West and of having seen the widow repeatedly take money out of his father's wallet. Young Arnold's diverting account of the protracted love making between the two reached its climax, however, in his story of a swimming party at a private beach in Connecticut, with his father and the widow as the principals.

Saw No Bathing Suit.

"I saw my father and Mrs. West in swimming together," he said. "I don't think she had on any bathing suit, as I didn't see any shoulder strap."

"Willie," as he is called, testified that he had repeatedly urged his father to give up Mrs. West, but said that the only reward for his endeavors was abuse.

Later, he said, he spoke to his mother regarding the situation and then spent some time traveling about the country gathering evidence as to the intimacy between his father and Mrs. West. He refused to answer when asked if he loved his father.

The youth said that he was about 15 when he first met Mrs. West. He was just out of military academy at Peekskill, but denied that he had been "kicked" out.

"Did you drink at the time?" Mrs. West's attorney wanted to know.

"Oh, I imagine I had tasted liquor," went on the young defendant nonchalantly.

Peeking Carpenter Testifies.

Caesar Toranto, Tuckahoe carpenter, told of calling at Mrs. West's Crestmoor home one morning and finding her in negligee and Arnold in pajamas, with much liquor in evidence.

In fact, Toranto said, he had witnessed such a scene more than once when he had had occasion to "peer" in at the back door while busying himself around the place in the line of duty.

Another witness, Mrs. Elizabeth Harrington of Scarsdale, once Mrs. Arnold's maid, told of the devotedness of the Arnolds prior to Mrs. West's advent in 1925. Mrs. Arnold even used to mend her husband's socks and sew buttons on his shirts, she said.

The jury in the divorce case decided that both Mrs. Arnold and her wealthy husband had been guilty of improper conduct and refused to grant a decree. Arnold in that action accused his wife of undue friendship with one Charles Hahn Jr., an attorney, as a counter charge to her accusations involving Mrs. West.

M'GOORTY REPORTS $50,000 SAVING BY NEW JURY SYSTEM

Chief Justice John P. McGoorty of the Criminal court announced yesterday that the court's economy program, which he started three months ago after a survey of the old jury system, has already saved the taxpayers more than $50,000, with the prospect of a yearly saving of $250,000. Statistics on the jury pay roll figures were submitted yesterday by Melzar P. Delano, chief clerk of the court.

In view of the saving, Judge McGoorty is asking the county board to appropriate approximately $30,000 for the establishment in the county jail of a psychiatric laboratory. Such a bureau would save the county money, the judge points out, because it should eliminate expensive insanity trials. With such a bureau, Judge McGoorty says, each prisoner would be examined as to his mentality when he entered the jail.

A comparison of the jury pay roll for the three months in which the new system has been employed, with that of the same months for the previous year follows:

November, 1929	$41,843.45
December, 1929	20,195.60
January, 1930	45,205.75
November, 1930	15,879.45
December, 1930	17,372.65
January, 1931	20,750.60

Under the old jury system 65 veniremen were summoned to each criminal court and 30 men were retained in each court for service. Under the new system only 30 are summoned and only 15 retained.

Blind Ex-Police Sergeant Begs Judge to Return Gun

Thomas Mannix, 70 years old, and blind, a retired police sergeant, pleaded yesterday with Judge Leon Edelman in the Town Hall court for the return of his police revolver because it "held so many memories." The gun had been taken from Mannix's son, Edward, 26 years old, of 4932 North Hoyne avenue, when the latter was arrested for intoxication. The father also asked probation for his son. The son, he said, must have taken the revolver from a storage trunk. Judge Edelman continued the case to Feb. 13.

WANT GUN TOTER LAW UP TO DATE; INTRODUCE BILL

Crime Commission Advice Sought on Auto Clause.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 3.—[Special.]—A bill to curb gun toters as part of the battle against gangland, introduced in the house today by Elmer J. Schnackenberg, will be submitted by its sponsor to the Chicago crime commission Friday with a view to tightening up any possible loopholes.

The measure, which is No. 204, follows a declaration by State's Attorney Swanson of Cook county that the law against concealed weapons needs modernizing to fit it to the age of automobile banditry. The courts have held that deadly weapons hidden under car cushions or in side pockets or elsewhere in motor car, are not in violation of the present law, and criminals have been successful in evading conviction under the act where they were apprehended with revolvers in their automobiles placed just out of reach of their hands as they sat in the car.

Bill 204 aims to make the carrying of small arms under a cushion by a criminal as unlawful as to carry them in a hip pocket. Its author points out that at the same time it does not prevent a reputable citizen from carrying a gun in his car for protection.

Gives Right to Protection.

Mr. Schnackenberg, who with Senator James J. Barbour in 1925 was coauthor of the present law against deadly weapons, sets forth that the new bill does not conflict with the constitutional "right of people to bear and keep arms."

The 1925 law repealed the old Sadler act which provided for the issuance by justices of the peace of licenses to carry concealed weapons, under which gangland, as well as reputable citizens, managed to get permits.

"House bill 204," says Representative Schnackenberg, "recognizes the right of any citizen of good reputation to carry a gun in his automobile for self-protection, but it does make it a crime for any one to carry a firearm of a size which could be concealed on the person, in an automobile with criminal intent. It makes a crime of gun toting in cars by any one who has within ten years been convicted of a crime of violence or of carrying concealed weapons.

"It also prohibits the carrying of such a firearm by one against whom criminal proceedings are pending."

Similar Laws in Other States.

Advocates of the proposed curb argue that it is quite as constitutional as the present laws in various states against the carrying of concealed weapons.

Mr. Swanson's recent utterance was evoked by the discharge in court of three youths, two with police records, who were arrested with three loaded revolvers hidden in their automobiles.

Bill No. 204 is short. It adds to the act prohibiting the carrying concealed on the person of a pistol, revolver or other firearm, except by certain designated officers, a paragraph which says

"Nor shall any person carry in a motor vehicle any firearm of a size which may be concealed upon the person with the intent to use the same in the commission of any crime, nor shall any person, who has been convicted of any crime of violence or of any violation of the paragraph of this section within the last ten years, or any person against whom any criminal proceeding is pending . . . carry in a motor vehicle any firearm of a size which may be concealed upon the person."

Against Cook County Executions.

Minority Leader Igoe introduced a bill at the request of Sheriff Meyering that Cook county executions in the electric chair shall be inflicted in Joliet penitentiary instead of in the Cook county jail.

A public hearing on the bills proposing to abolish the present taxing machinery in Cook county, and to substitute something simple and modern, was set for Tuesday afternoon, Feb. 10, by Leroy M. Green, chairman of the revenue committee. All persons interested will be given an opportunity to be heard.

France Wins Island

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Feb. 3.—The tiny annular coral island of Clipperton, in the Pacific ocean south of Lower California and west of the Panama canal, ownership of which has been under dispute by France and Mexico for 30 years, was awarded to France today.

The king of Italy, who in 1908 was agreed upon by France and Mexico as arbiter after considering the matter 23 years, today so informed the French foreign minister, Aristide Briand.

The value of Clipperton island lies in its guano and phosphate deposits and also in its potential use as an aviation station between the Panama canal and points west.

The island was discovered by a British navigator named Clipperton in the 18th century. France grabbed it in 1858. American citizens squatted there and raised the Stars and Stripes in 1897. The United States heeded the French protest and abandoned its claim to the island. Then Mexico, feeling that the island was near Mexican waters, claimed it. The French government, in 1907, proposed arbitration and Mexico agreed.

ARTILLERY RANGE FOR CAMP GRANT GIVEN SETBACK

House Body Votes to Build Armories Instead.

BY PERCY WOOD.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 3.—[Special.]—Opposition to the Camp Grant artillery range was strong enough in the house appropriations committee today to pass a resolution which would allow the $600,000 range appropriation to lapse and the money be used to build National Guard armories. The vote was 21 to 7. The members sidestepped the issue by voting "present," and the resolution now goes back for further argument on the floor of the house.

Representatives Leroy M. Green and David Hunter of Rockford, who have fought the range since its inception, were co-authors of the resolution and its militant supporters before the committee. Green argued first.

Urges Armories Instead.

He quoted from Gov. Emmerson's message to the convening 57th general assembly and summarized its watchwords as "Waste must be eliminated."

"I understand," he said, "that options have been taken on tracts of land for this range, some of it from men interested in the sale of the land. They now propose building the range south of Rockford and east of Milford, placing their batteries on a hill only four miles from Rockford.

"You have been hearing all about the urgency for this range. The artillery of the National Guard came to Camp Grant last summer and they did nothing but take part in a lot of glittering parades. I am informed that no money will be available for armories, projects which would provide jobs for the unemployed. None of the work on this range would mean jobs. The $600,000 would build three armories.

Hunter Calls it Imposition.

"A delegation of 200 citizens of Rockford came down here to protest the bill when it was being considered. The senator from the district [Charles W. Baker of Monroe Center] and Lieut. Gov. Sterling of Rockford sought to pass this resolution in the senate. Every survey taken of this range this summer had Baker's farm on one corner of it. If this resolution doesn't go through the senate there will be some hot seats in Rockford for two certain people."

Adj. Gen. Carlos E. Black defended the selection of the land for the range, saying that the cheapest land that would meet the requirements had been taken. A total of 4,300 acres is now available and options have been taken on the territory outside, he said.

The committee also voted for a deficiency appropriation of $28,000 to pay state fair debts.

U. S. Eyes Incomes of 55 Former Sanitary Lawyers

The incomes of the fifty-five lawyers formerly employed by the sanitary district, who are defendants in the disciplinary action instituted by the Chicago Bar association, are being investigated by federal government officials. This was learned yesterday as the examination of the lawyers proceeded before Circuit Judge Thomas Taylor, sitting as commissioner of the Illinois Supreme court.

The bar association is questioning the lawyers in an effort to learn what they did to earn their salaries as assistant attorneys for the district. The information filed with the Supreme court alleges that the lawyers accepted money without giving commensurate service.

U. S. Investigates Incomes.

Two deputy collectors of internal revenue, it was revealed, have been assigned, on orders from Washington, to obtain all documentary evidence relative to the incomes of the lawyers during the period they were employed by the sanitary district. All the respondents in the investigation going on before Judge Taylor served the district between 1926 and 1928.

If it is found that any of these lawyers had a substantial income that was not accounted for in their income tax returns for those years they will be subject to prosecution for evasion of income taxes.

Mystery Enters Hearing.

An element of mystery was contained in the testimony of one of the lawyers called to the witness stand yesterday. The witness was Attorney Victor L. Ohrenstein, who said that he had been employed by the district in 1927 but had been suddenly discharged. He was reemployed in 1928, and it was his duties during this period about which he testified.

"Timothy J. Crowe, then president of the district, wanted me to investigate a certain claim," Ohrenstein said when questioned by Attorney Willard Matheny, representing the bar association. "I made the investigation. It was a matter involving some $200,000. My investigation showed it to be a fraudulent claim."

"What was this matter about?" Matheny asked.

Opposes Making Disclosure.

"I believe that this matter should not be disclosed," the witness replied. "It is a confidential matter between lawyer and client. I have no objection to presenting the matter in private conference in the judge's chambers."

Judge Taylor inquired if the matter involved detective work and was told that it did. "This is an open investigation," the judge said. "The sanitary district may be willing to have the matter disclosed."

The questioning of Ohrenstein was halted at this point. Attorney Matheny said he will take the matter up with the sanitary district board and that he may call the lawyer back to the stand later. Ohrenstein's salary from the district was $416 a month.

Tells of Obtaining Job.

Attorney Eugene M. Hines, who was on the district's pay roll from April of 1926 to February of 1928, said that he obtained his job through a ward committeeman. His salary during this period was $8,958, of which he returned a total of $1,500 when the association filed its information.

Hines said that he looked up the law on one injunction suit against the district and examined the legal files. He said he did not have a desk. He said that if he could have raised more money he would have paid it back to the district.

Testifies About Jacobs.

Attorney Andrew R. Sheriff, who is not one of the defendants, testified that Attorney Henry E. Jacobs, one of the district's lawyers, was employed by as an office assistant during all the time he was on the sanitary district pay roll. Sheriff said that Jacobs' hours were from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. and that he was "quite well occupied."

Jacobs, who has already testified, said that his duties were mainly "acquainting himself with the background of the litigation involving the district." His salary from the district was $3,166.

NAB SAM LUCEY, ALLEGED AID OF NEWBERRY GANG

Sam Lucey, 38 years old, said by police to be affiliated with Ted Newberry, north side gangster, was arrested yesterday while riding in an automobile at Clark and Division streets. A charge of vagrancy is pending against him in Felony court.

When arrested, Lucey was carrying $490 in cash, and $800 in checks. Sergt. John Kratzmeyer of the Chicago avenue station, who seized him, expressed belief that Lucey had been making collections.

Police plan to question Lucey about the recent machine gun attempt on a lone gangster victim at Clark and Howard streets, in which several bystanders were wounded.

THREE DEATHS RAISE AUTO TOLL OF 1931 TO 121

Three auto deaths yesterday raised the Cook county motor toll for the year to 121. The victims:

George Seymour, 62 years old, 2047 West Jackson boulevard, an engineer, employed at a south side pumping station. Fatally injured when struck by an auto at 53d street and Western avenue. John R. Walsh, 31 years old, 3706 Cullom avenue, a chauffeur, was the driver.

Emil Hendrickson, 49 years old, a plasterer, 2924 Logan boulevard. Fatally injured when struck by a hit-and-run driver as he alighted from an Elston avenue street car at Francisco avenue.

Unidentified man, about 50 years old. Killed when he was struck by an automobile while crossing 63d street at the Outer drive in Jackson park. The driver, Walter Tollmer, 4720 Dorchester avenue, was held.

A BOOTLEGGER, IT SEEMS, TOLD ON GEN. BUTLER

Or So the Report Goes in Washington.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 3.—[Special.]—A bottlegger enemy made by Maj. Gen. Smedley D. Butler when he was Philadelphia's director of public safety in 1924, is credited with being the man who first called the attention of the Italian government to the marine officer's criticism of Premier Mussolini as a hit and run driver.

According to reports to Washington officials, the bootlegger, nursing his six year old grudge, sent a marked copy of the Philadelphia newspaper carrying an account of the Butler speech to Italian officials in New York. It was in this speech that Maj. Gen. Butler referred to Mussolini as a man who had ordered his chauffeur to drive on after his automobile had run down a child.

Frame Defense Today.

The first definite move toward working out a defense for the court martial which will try Maj. Gen. Butler, will be made tomorrow at a conference in Washington between the general and his civilian counsel.

Arrangements for Gen. Butler to meet Maj. Henry Leonard, his chief counsel, were made today, after it was learned that Secretary of the Navy Adams expects to have the charges and specifications on which Butler will be tried ready by tomorrow morning.

From close friends of Butler, it was learned tonight that he will argue that the Mussolini story was simply an illustration, used in a military preparedness speech. It will be urged that no offense against the Italian premier was intended. One point to be stressed is that the hit and run story was not told in any attempt to get into print or because of any personal enmity toward Mussolini.

Will Plead Professional License.

There are indications also that counsel for Butler will make the point that navy and army officers, who make a life study of military matters, must be permitted some latitude in answering pacifist arguments in favor of complete disarmament.

Other developments of the day included an announcement that complete press facilities for open court martial sessions are being made at Philadelphia. It was also disclosed that Maj. Gen. Butler is a member of the Italian-American society of that city.

City Gets New Case for Stars of Slain Policemen

JOAN BENNETT.

Seattle, Wash., Feb. 3.—(AP)—Joan Bennett, film star, won a suit here today to compel her divorced husband, John Marion Fox, Seattle broker, to pay $50 a month from his personal income for support of their three year old daughter, Adrienne.

Superior Judge Malcolm Douglas decided, however, the marital community of Fox and his second wife, Polly Perkins Fox, daughter of a Seattle financier, cannot be held liable for payments to Miss Bennett for the child's support. The film star had sued for $1,200 she alleged Fox was in arrears for Adrienne's suport.

S. S. Du Hamel, Assistant Attorney General, Resigns

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 3.—(AP)—S. S. Du Hamel, assistant attorney general for six years, has resigned to enter the practice of law. His successor will be announced soon. While in office he had charge of litigation upholding the validity of the 1927 legislative primary act.

VIRGINIA PEINE WINS A DIVORCE FROM ATHLETE

Mrs. Virginia Peine Waibel, 19 years old, daughter of the late Adolphus G. Peine, clothing manufacturer, won a divorce yesterday from William Waibel, former Northwestern university athlete. The decree was granted by Circuit Judge Trude on grounds of cruelty. Waibel did not contest the suit and his wife waived alimony.

The couple eloped to Valparaiso, Ind., and were married on Dec. 19, 1929. They separated last November and Mrs. Waibel has since been living at the Ambassador East hotel. Mrs. Waibel is a beneficiary of a trust fund left by her father, who was vice president of the Alfred Decker & Cohn company. She was given permission to resume her maiden name.

SCIENTIST FINDS SPEED OF LIGHT IS ALWAYS UNIFORM

Says It Proves Point of Einstein's Theory.

JENA, Germany, Feb. 3.—(AP)—New proof of the correctness of Prof. Albert Einstein's relativity theory is claimed to have been discovered by Georg Joos, professor of theoretical physics at Jena university.

By use of a device which he says measures accurately one one-thousandth of the length of a ray of light, Prof. Joos finds that there is no "ether-drift," or in other words that the velocity of light is absolute.

Assumption that this velocity is absolute—that is, that light travels always at the same speed—is one of the fundamentals of relativity.

First Made by Americans.

The "ether-drift" experiment was first made by the Americans, Michelson and Morely. Although some scientific books now state these two reported they found no ether-drift, that conclusion has been disputed, and some scientists hold that the Americans did find a slight evidence that light's velocity may not be absolute.

The Michelson-Morely measurements were made with wave lengths of light as their foot rules. Prof. Joos' work repeats in the main their experiment, but with what he believes is a far more accurate foot rule; hence, he believes, with less chance that errors of the instruments spoil the results.

A wave length of light varies from about one twenty-five thousandth of an inch long for red, to about half as much for violet. Prof. Joss, therefore, claims to be able to detect fractions of a wave length ranging from one twenty-five millionth to about one fifty-millionth of an inch.

These differences are recognized by him with the same general interferometer type of apparatus that Michelson and Morely used. This instrument causes two beams of light to focus on the same spot. If the rays of one arrive at the focus a slight fraction of time ahead of the other rays, there is interference. This interference is visible as a slight fringe of shadow in the shape of a concentric circle.

Prof. Joos obtained the added accuracy partly by use of quartz in his instrument. The light rays come from a quicksilver quartz lamp, and are measured with the aid of a camera.

Noise "Dents" Curve.

The extreme sensitivity of the apparatus is shown by a clap of the hands near by. The sound registers as a distinctly visible dent in the "curve" which the camera produces.

Prof. Joos says that after measuring and remeasuring the light beams for many weeks he finds no evidence of ether-drift.

The theory of "ether-drift" is that if light waves travel in some material substance, named ether for convenience, then the earth's movement through this substance should make a difference in the speed with which light rays pass the earth or arrive here. When the earth is traveling into the oncoming rays, they should be passing a little faster than rays which arrive at righ angles to earth's motion.

Difference Hard to Detect.

Because of light's great velocity, 186,000 miles a second, any such difference would be extremely difficult to detect. Michelson and Morely in their original pamphlet reported a slight "effect," and concluded that it was due to any "ether drift." It might have been an instrumental error.

Dr. Dayton C. Miller of Case School of Applied Science, who has repeated the experiment thousands of times, has found this same slight "effect" persistent. In his last report, made to the National Academy of Sciences a year ago in November, he said he believed that the "effect" is evidence of something real, and that it could not yet be abandoned as a possible proof of variation in the velocity of light.

SCIENTIST HARNESSES RAYS OF DAYLIGHT AND THEY RUN A MOTOR

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 3.—Dr. Bruno Lange, Berlin scientist, who claims he has succeeded in making a half volt motor run with energy created by the action of daylight on a special metal alloy plate, today explained his discovery. He declared that he believes it will revolutionize television and talkies, and later, if he is able to develop his research work to the full scope of his hopes, he hopes to be able to create electricity from light on a business basis.

"We know very little about the tiny rays in the air, which measure a fraction of a millimeter," the doctor said. "They are the ones which enable us to produce electricity out of the air. The small motor in my laboratory works even with weak daylight. It gets its power from light reacting on a 'photocell,' which transmits power direct to the electro-motor. This cell is specially sensitive to red and ultra-red rays, which are invisible, but which have an extraordinary influence on my photocell."

Dr. Lange is seeking financial help to enable him to "widen the scope of my experiments still further than I have been able to do with the limited financial means at the disposal of Germany's national institute of research—the Kaiser Wilhelm institute."

Dr. Lange is a tall young man and hails from East Prussia. He worked his way through grammar school, high school and college. He was left an orphan in early childhood. He worked as a farm hand in East Prussia and in factories. He received some help from Count Botho Wendt zu Eulenburg after his talent had been discovered. He completed his studies in physics and chemistry at Koenigsberg.

Here he devoted himself entirely to research work. For four years he was assistant to Prof. Haben, who is a Nobel prize winner.

Dr. Lange does not hesitate to pay tribute to his "life comrade."

"I am married and have a two year old daughter," he said. "In contrast to many other scientists, I am firmly convinced that for a man of science the coöperation of his wife is the greatest inspiration and help in his work."

ARGENTINA FACES CRISIS; POLITICAL FACTIONS AT WAR

Anti-Radical Coalition Is Split Wide Open.

BY HAROLD TATAM.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BUENOS AIRES, Feb. 3.—The success of the Argentine revolution and the provisional government's measures to restore order into the administration of the country's affairs has produced—or at least has been coincident with—a complete change in the lineup of the main political parties which are still undergoing the process of finding new levels. In point of fact, the Argentine republic has arrived at a crucial point in its political history.

Governed for thirty years prior to the advent of Yrigoyen's first presidency by a succession of Conservative administrations which were autocratic, corrupt, and generally reprehensible, according to their adversaries, but which, it is generally conceded, managed the nation's affairs with some degree of success, the country then elected to give the Radical party a chance to show how government should be conducted, to root out the abuses complained of, and to accomplish a number of much needed social reforms.

Second Régime a Failure.

Hipolito Yrigoyen's first administration terminated its period not precisely with flying colors, but without having committed more mistakes than might have been expected of apprentice hands at government. It was reserved for his second administration to blunder so badly and consistently as to cause the people to welcome the revolution of last September, which deposed it within two years of its inauguration.

Under these circumstances it might be expected that Radical stock would slump to a low level, and that the party could only hope to figure amongst the "also rans" for a long time to come.

Nevertheless, this is not the case. In the first place, there is a large section of the Radical party—the anti-Yrigoyenist radicals—against whom there is no grudge on account of the misdeeds of the fallen régime. In the second place, the Conservative party, which was reduced to a mere handful with the rise of the Radicals in 1916, has resuscitated only to a limited extent and that only in the province of Buenos Aires. In the other provinces the parties of Conservative leanings are split upon among Democrats, Liberals and others, each one fighting for its own hand.

Parties Form Coalition.

In the enthusiasm born of the revolution, all these parties, including the Independent Socialists [the traditional Socialist party held aloof] formed a coalition known as the National Democratic federation.

This National Democratic federation was united on one point only—that of opposition to the Yrigoyenist brand of radicalism. The disruption of the federation has now taken place. The Conservatives have seceded from it to form the nucleus of the National party advocated by President Uriburu's minister of the interior, Dr. Sorondo.

The net result of these developments is that the Argentine Radical party—weakened as it is by the calamitous record of the deposed régime—is yet in the fortunate position of seeing its political enemies divided into a number of warring factions, and the country is in the less fortunate position of having no clear cut opposing political parties between whom to make a choice.

... Stop Colds QUICK!

Get Rid of Colds Before They Weaken You, Make You Liable to More Serious Troubles.

Nowadays it's important to stop your cold quick before it weakens your resistance to more serious trouble.

Any of the older treatments will bring relief—after a time. But thousands say this new way is the quickest of any.

Begin when you feel a cold coming. Take a tablespoonful of Phillips Milk of Magnesia in a glass of water, morning, noon, and night, the first day. Do same the second day. Then only at night. Colds reduce the alkaline balance of your system. That makes you feel achy, feverish, weak. Phillips Milk of Magnesia relieves this, and restores the alkaline balance.

Doctors prescribe Phillips Milk of Magnesia; hospitals use it. Millions know how it relieves sour stomachs, gas, indigestion, constipation and other symptoms of too much acid. Get the genuine.

*Raw, Raspy Throat! * It's a Sign, says Noted Specialist . . . * of Trouble Here * Eat Yeast *

GOT HIM BY THE THROAT! It's probably because he let Intestinal Fatigue weaken his resistance.

DR. JOSEF SORGO, specialist of famous Rainer Hospital, Vienna, says: "Yeast keeps intestines clean . . . strengthens resistance to colds, etc."

POISONS that breed here make you susceptible to colds, sore throat, etc.

© 1931, Standard Brands Incorporated

Watch out for that SORE THROAT!

It's a sign of a badly deranged condition of your system that may be due to INTESTINAL FATIGUE . . Here's what you need, physicians say

IF you catch cold easily . . . if you're subject to nasty sore throats and coughs . . . it's usually a sign of some underlying bodily disorder that needs attention!

This disorder is very often a common one that afflicts nearly everyone now and then. It's usually that old, disagreeable trouble . . . Intestinal Fatigue!

Internal stagnation is the price we pay for rich foods and "soft" living. It gives rise to poisons that spread throughout the system. These poisons undermine vitality . . . weaken resistance . . . make us easy marks for headaches, sore throats, colds, etc.

Then why not strike out at these troubles by correcting their chief underlying cause? There is a proved and very simple way, you know . . . a method recommended by leading medical practitioners throughout the world.

This sensible method is to eat Fleischmann's fresh Yeast regularly three times a day. Yeast is a food with the amazing power of keeping the system internally clean.

Added to your daily diet, fresh yeast softens accumulated waste matter in the intestines. It also "tones" and strengthens the sluggish intestinal muscles, helping them carry these wastes away promptly, naturally—completely.

Just as the famous Vienna specialist, Dr. Josef Sorgo, says, "Fresh yeast, unlike violent laxatives, will gently restore normal bowel action. Thus, by keeping the intestines open, it enables the system to resist colds and catarrhs."

And remember, Fleischmann's Yeast builds up your resistance in another way. It is the richest known food substance in vitamins B and G and the remarkable "sunshine" vitamin D! Every cake of Fleischmann's Yeast contains these three indispensable vitamins.

So try this winter to avoid at least one common cause of those awful sore throats and colds. Just drop in at any grocery store, or at a restaurant or soda fountain and get a supply of Fleischmann's fresh Yeast today.

And eat it faithfully, three cakes a day, one cake before each meal, or between meals and at bedtime. Eat it just plain or dissolved in a third of a glass of water (hot or cold), in milk or milk drinks, or any other way you like. Keep it up, and notice how much less susceptible you are to colds and infections—how much peppier and more alert you feel.

Remember, it's important to insist on Fleischmann's Yeast, in the foil package with the yellow label. It's fresh yeast, the kind famous doctors recommend. Why not start eating it now?

Fleischmann's Yeast is fresh yeast... the only kind that benefits you fully.

Eat 3 cakes a day!

Remember, it's important to ask your grocer for Fleischmann's fresh Yeast (with the yellow label) . . . the only yeast that contains the Sunshine Vitamin D! Every cake is "irradiated" to give it this added element so important for sun-starved indoor workers. It is rich in Vitamins B and G, too.

SOME WOMEN ALWAYS ATTRACT

You want to be beautiful? You want the tireless energy, fresh complexion and pep of youth. Then let Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets help free your system of the poisons caused by clogged bowels and torpid liver.

For 20 years, men and women suffering from stomach troubles, pimples, listlessness and headaches have taken Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets, a successful substitute for calomel, a compound of vegetable ingredients, known by their olive color. They act easily upon the bowels without griping. They help cleanse the system and tone up the liver.

If you value youth and its many gifts, take Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets nightly. How much better you will feel—and look. 15c, 30c, 60c.

COLDS

Frances Tescinski, 3136 N. Drake Ave., Chicago, says: "I had a very bad cold, my head ached terribly and thought I was catching the Grippe. I bought a bottle of VIZ and in twenty four hours I was greatly relieved. I keep a bottle on hand all the time now."

DEMAND TAX LAW TO SAVE CHICAGO FROM PARALYSIS

Business Men Act on Strawn's Warning.

The apparent approach of the climax in Chicago's long financial illness stirred several organizations to action yesterday. There was a warning that a cessation of city and county governmental functions is imminent unless corrective measures are adopted.

A special meeting of the executive committee of the Chicago Association of Commerce was addressed by Silas Strawn, head of the citizens' committee, organized to save the local governments when demoralized by lack of funds last year. Mr. Strawn painted a dismal picture of the municipal and county financial outlook.

Members of the committee were outspoken in their belief that it will be impossible to make further sales of tax anticipation warrants, by means of which the city was saved last year, and that payrolls falling due after Feb. 13 will be unpaid unless remedial legislation is adopted at once.

Will Campaign for Bill.

This legislation is embodied in house bill 24, now pending, which would abolish the offices of 38 county and township assessors, replacing them with a county board of assessment and revision of three members appointed by the president of the county board. The committee decided upon a state-wide campaign in behalf of this legislation.

"We cannot expect the banks to carry the burden any longer," says a statement from the committee. "The fact is that some of our property owners, not having paid taxes for two years, have got out of the habit and their vision is so myopic that they cannot see that a condition precedent to the maintenance of their property is government and that if they fail to pay their taxes and provide the funds to enable the city to employ police and firemen and other officials, their insurance will be canceled and their property subjected to destruction by mobs.

"But no improvement of present conditions can be effected until the present tax procedure has been materially changed and the political red tape that has put all of the local governments into virtual bankruptcy definitely ended."

Opposed by Job Holders.

The committee members acknowledged that efforts to pass the legislation will probably meet organized resistance by endangered political job holders. But they insisted that elimination of the present assessing system was necessary if conditions are to be improved.

The Civic federation, an organization of taxpayers, issued an appeal to home owners not to contemplate delay in paying their 1929 tax bills and warned that a general "taxpayers strike" would jeopardize police, fire, and health protection and other vital public services and also ultimately increase taxes.

Allowing property to be sold for taxes is an especially dangerous practice, the federation pointed out. It was pointed out also that it is especially perilous to permit mortgaged property to be sold for taxes, as an immediate foreclosure may result under the terms of most mortgages.

"Those who can pay their 1929 taxes should make every effort to do so promptly in their own interest," says the federation's appeal. "Those who are unfortunately situated should seek the best possible advice and make the best arrangements they can to pay their taxes as soon as possible and to protect their property in the meantime."

The warning was issued, the federation declared, "in the hope of saving many property owners from heeding dangerous advice as to nonpayment of tax bills. Property owners should investigate carefully when requested to sign up with some lawyer or so-called taxpayers' association which offers to fight their taxes for them."

At a luncheon of the City club, George O. Fairweather, chairman of the joint commission on real estate valuation, commented sharply on delays in completion of the assessment rolls. He also indorsed the house bill which provides for abolition of the present assessing system.

HERE ARE PENALTIES IF YOU FAIL TO PAY YOUR REALTY TAXES

The following table shows what will happen to an original 1929 tax bill of $100 if the realty owner fails to pay the bill when due, thus forcing the county to sell the property for taxes.

Original bill, due April 1, 1931	$100.00
Plus delinquent penalty, May 1, 1931	101.00
Plus delinquent penalty, June 1, 1931	102.00
Plus delinquent penalty, July 1, 1931	103.00

The property is sold for taxes shortly after July 1, and after that the bill mounts as follows:

Plus 12% penalty until Jan. 1, 1932	115.00
Plus 24% penalty until July 1, 1932	127.00
Plus 36% penalty until Jan. 1, 1933	139.00
Plus 48% penalty until July 1, 1933	151.00

The property owner may redeem his property within two years after the tax sale, on the basis of the above table, by paying an added fee and costs amounting to about $3. Should he fail to redeem within the two year period, the tax buyer is entitled to a tax deed to the property. After this is issued the owner must bargain with the tax buyer to clear the title to the property, the tax buyer being then in a position to demand as much as he can get, considering the value of the property.

DEATH OF MAIER IS HELD SUICIDE BY INQUEST JURY

Al B. Maier, brother of H. H. Maier, friend of Mayor Thompson, who was found dead in the chambers of Municipal Judge William R. Fetzer in the city hall on Monday, yesterday expressed the belief that his brother had been murdered and did not commit suicide. A coroner's jury which heard his testimony, however, held that the evidence indicated suicide and returned a finding that Maier had shot himself to death.

Maier said his brother was stabbed by an intoxicated taxicab driver three months ago while riding through Lincoln park and that the driver was later sent to prison. Maier expressed the belief that his brother had been murdered because of this.

Maier also testified that his brother sold all the Lincoln automobiles used by the police department and that he had the exclusive Chicago agency for the distribution of police sirens. He said that his brother made his money through politics and the sale of automobiles, stating that the dead man had been a member of "the Thompson gang."

Ike Weil, Judge Fetzer's bailiff and brother of Joseph [Yellow Kid] Weil, testified that H. H. Maier had somehow gained admittance to the judge's chambers between the time that he [Weil] left and, Clark Buster, colored janitor, arrived to clean the room and discovered Maier's body slumped in a chair in the corner.

Sure Way to Get Rid of Dandruff

There is one sure way that never fails to remove dandruff completely, and that is to dissolve it. Then you destroy it entirely.

To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, ordinary liquid Arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning most, if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and two or three more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly, and your hair will be lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

You can get liquid Arvon at any drug store and four ounces is all you will need. This simple remedy has never been known to fail.

DEPOSITORS JAM COURT TO HEAR OF LOST MILLIONS

Two Bank Officials Pass Blame Around.

BY TOM PETTEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 3.—[Special.]—The president and the chairman of the board of the Bank of United States shifted responsibility about like hot coals today while an unruly crowd stormed the doors of the state office building where the public inquiry into the failure of the bank on Dec. 11 is being conducted. Many of those who tussled with state troopers were depositors who wanted to hear about the lost millions which came out of their checking and savings accounts.

Evidence developed today that ill feeling existed among the highest officials of the bank and there was for the first time intimation of graft in real estate loans made to affiliates.

Two Officers Disagree.

Questioned by Max E. Steuer, special assistant attorney general, Bernard K. Marcus, president of the bank, testifying under court orders, characterized earlier testimony by C. Stanley Mitchell, chairman of the board, as "nonsense," and heatedly declared that Mitchell knew a good deal more than he had testified to regarding a $11,600,000 loan to three affiliated corporations to trade in the bank's stock.

"Mitchell was in town when that letter to the depositors, inviting them to buy bank stock went out in July, 1929," said Marcus with some spirit. "I know he saw the letter."

Mitchell earlier had testified that he was out of town on a vacation, and was amazed at "the worst banking practice in the world" when he heard of the letter and the $11,600,000 loan to the affiliates.

"By the way," remarked Steuer, "you took $11,600,000 out of the bank without Mitchell's knowledge and let the affiliates have it," didn't you?"

"Who said that?" shouted Marcus.

"Mr. Mitchell," replied Steuer.

"Mitchell was here every day that month. He was paid to be at the bank and knew everything that went on."

The suggestion of graft was brought in by Steuer during the questioning of Mitchell at the morning session. Steuer had turned to the state banking department's report, which included a strong criticism of real estate loans listed as "slow and doubtful." The report recommended that the making of such loans be stopped. Mitchell admitted that further loans had been made to the companies after the warning.

"There came a time when the state banking department charged that there was graft in that situation?" asked Steuer.

Denied by Mitchell.

Mitchell heatedly denied any such charge, but Marcus seated nearby did not even look up.

Steuer questioned Mitchell upon the procedure followed at the directors' meetings with references to approving loans made by officers of the bank, and Mitchell said that a large pile of the documents would be placed in the middle of the table, but that "in the press of business they were approved without security."

3 KILLED, 12 HURT AS A PASSENGER TRAIN HITS DYNAMITE TRUCK

Salt Lake City, Utah, Feb. 3.—(AP)—Three men were killed and more than a dozen injured, one seriously, when a Denver and Rio Grande passenger train collided with a truck loaded with dynamite caps on a crossing here this afternoon.

The dead included B. F. Rugg, engineer, James Prinsen, Salt Lake City, secretary of the Western Powder company and J. E. Bergeman, Salt Lake City, manager of the Tintic Powder and Supply company.

E. W. James, Salt Lake City, fireman on the locomotive, was badly scalded. None of the passengers on the train was injured, but a dozen employés of the Cudahy Packing company plant nearby were cut by glass.

The truck was demolished and half buried in the ground beside the railroad track. The cab was blown from the engine and the side of the locomotive was caved in. The baggage car and the two coaches continued down the track for about a quarter of a mile before the breaking of the air lines brought them to a stop.

GEN. ATTERBURY HERE; PREDICTS EARLY TRADE RISE

Gen. W. W. Atterbury, president of the Pennsylvania railroad, stopping in Chicago yesterday after a business trip to the Pacific coast, expressed the mildly optimistic opinion that the bottom of the depression that began in the fall of 1929 had been reached and that a slow upturn should occur soon.

He based the statement on the history of past business cycles, which show that the downward course usually lasts from sixteen to eighteen months. He added that the people in the west and middle west were more optimistic than those in the east.

President Atterbury was accompanied on his western trip, which has taken nearly a month, by Elisha Lee and J. L. Eysmans, vice presidents, and J. J. E. Weller, assistant vice president of the Pennsylvania. He was the luncheon guest of Silas Strawn and C. B. Pike at the Chicago club.

U. S. ON UPGRADE, BANKERS' LEADER ASSURES HOOVER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 3.—[Special.]—R. C. Stephenson of South Bend, Ind., president of the American Bankers' association, advised President Hoover today that business conditions are improving in all parts of the country and should continue to improve during the rest of the year.

Bottom Hit Dec. 20.

In his report to the President, Mr. Stephenson expressed the opinion that the business depression struck bottom on Dec. 20 and that conditions have been on the upgrade since that time. He said also that if there were less talk of unemployment those who are employed would spend more.

"About two weeks ago," Mr. Stephenson said, "at a meeting of the American Institute of Banking, attended by representatives from every federal reserve district, the feeling was expressed that the low point in business had been struck about Dec. 20.

"At this meeting it was stated that business was improving in all parts of the country. The bankers who attended the meeting, which was held in Shreveport, La., felt that we are on the upgrade.

Confidence Needed.

"One out of every 70 persons in the country is unemployed at present. If those persons who are employed could just be convinced that conditions are going to improve from now on I think it would have a wholesome effect on the general economic situation."

Asked why Dec. 20 was placed as the date when the improvement began, Mr. Stephenson replied:

"That was the date when the people began to loosen up. A vast amount of money which had accumulated in Christmas savings accounts had been withdrawn at about that time and was put into circulation."

ACTS TO PURGE SCHOOL LISTS OF IMPROPER BOOKS

Bogan Selects Group to Make Survey.

Definite plans to seek out school histories that may be deemed too lavish in their treatment of the romances of leading historical characters and to purge school libraries and outside reading lists of these books were being formed yesterday by William J. Bogan, superintendent of schools.

Mr. Bogan yesterday selected Dr. Eston V. Tubbs, director of the bureau of curriculum to head an investigating committee of school principals, one of whom will be Wilbur Wright, principal of the Austin high school. It was in a history class at the latter school that Miss J. Louise Hanna, a teacher, assigned a biography of Catherine II., 18th century empress of Russia to a class of 14 year old sophomores.

Acts After Complaint.

Mr. Bogan's action was taken after receipt of a letter of complaint from a parent of one of the pupils in Miss Hanna's class and after a reading of the book had convinced him, as he said, that, while Catherine's affairs may be recounted truly in the biography, the emphasis was "a bit too blatant." In the book, the empress is alleged to have had 13 lovers.

Upon instructions of the superintendent, the Austin principal withdrew the biography from the high school library. There was only one copy of the book there, and it was learned that most of the students had to buy the book which is sold for $1 and edited for popular consumption.

Concerning the book, Dr. Tubbs said yesterday, "The story of such a life as Catherine the Great led should be introduced in the schools only with the greatest caution. Readers whose mental attitudes are not yet definitely formed are bound to be influenced by that type of reading.

Deplores Some Biographies.

"While we are constantly endeavoring to teach the children the ability to think independently, we should be careful to wait until that time at which we can be sure they may safely go ahead under their own steam. Some modern biographers like to get down into the mire of a life. This tendency is to be deplored."

The teacher defended her assignment of the book on the grounds that it was an authentic story of a true historical character of importance and contended that, if it were to be eliminated from the curriculum, so should the works of Shakespeare and Spenser. Many passages in the book, one of which said, "Catherine was known as a loose woman," were objected to in particular by Mr. Bogan and school trustees.

Secondhand Man Hammers on Shell; 3 Dead, 34 Hurt

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BUDAPEST, Hungary, Feb. 3.—Three persons were killed, four are dying, and thirty others were injured today as a result of an explosion in the second hand bazaar in Teleki square. An old rag and bone merchant named Mandel was hammering on an artillery shell to remove the copper, and a crowd had gathered to watch him, when the shell exploded.

THIRD MARRIAGE OF COUNTESS OF CATHCART FLOPS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 3.—The latest matrimonial alliance of Vera, former countess of Cathcart, who in 1926 was in conflict with the United States immigration authorities, has gone to smash.

Her third husband, Sir Rowland F. Hodge, 71 year old millionaire ship owner, whom she married last September, has entered a deed of separation, it was revealed in a court squabble today over possession of jewelry which the former countess claims was given to her.

Sir Rowland asked that a receiver be appointed for the gems until the question of ownership is settled by the courts. She is leaving shortly on an extended tour of Africa and Sir Rowland said he was afraid something might happen to the jewels.

Vera's first husband, Capt. de Gray Warter, was killed in the war. She was married to the earl of Cathcart in 1919. He divorced her on Feb. 24, 1922.

50,000 CHEER AS PRINCE OF WALES LANDS IN JAMAICA

KINGSTON, Jamaica, Feb. 3.—(AP)—Greeted by an ovation from 50,000 persons who crowded the docks, the prince of Wales and his brother, Prince George, stopped over here today on their voyage to South America.

Despite the busy day which awaited him on this island, the heir to the British throne found time this afternoon to open a new golf course at Constant Spring, six miles from here, and to attend a polo match.

Tonight the royal guests were guests of honor at a reception given by Gov. Sir R. E. Stubbs and Lady Stubbs at government house. There they met the high dignitaries of the island.

After landing from the steamer Oropesa, which brought them across the Atlantic, the princes were given a hearty welcome by several thousand school children, who were waiting impatiently to catch a glimpse of them.

At the end of the official welcome the prince of Wales pleased the crowd by making a short speech. He said that brighter days were ahead and told the Jamaicans to face the future with courage.

Will Fly Over Canal.

BLAST ON BRITISH SUBMARINE; TWO BURNED, 10 HURT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 3.—Two men were seriously burned and 10 others were injured by an explosion this morning on the British submarine X-1, which was recently refitted at a total cost of $5,000,000. The X-1 has been known for a long time as the "hush hush" and the queen of Great Britain's submarines.

This was the second explosion on the X-1 in two years. The first occurred at Malta in 1929. No one was hurt in that mishap.

CONFUSING THE ISSUES.

It is a congenial rôle Senator Borah has seized, taking the center of the senatorial stage at the most effective moment—to champion "fundamental principles of humanity" against cruel and callous foes, and shake his leonine locks before applauding galleries. But however the eloquence of our leading histrion may reverberate in the senate chamber, his larger audience, we hope, will examine his lines with care.

Mr. Borah did not state the issues involved in the controversy over federal relief. He misstated them. He contributed what he could to the confusion of debate and the darkening of counsel.

To illustrate: Mr. Borah, we read, said that those in need were not being taken care of by the Red Cross. It was absurd to think the million and a half sufferers in the drought area and the five or six million unemployed could be cared for with from eight to ten million dollars. No one we know of has made any such assertions. Senator Borah has invented his own theory in order to win befuddled plaudits by abolishing it. This is a frequent device of unscrupulous oratory. No one worthy of the title of statesman will stoop to it. No one asserts that the Red Cross is caring for a million and a half drought sufferers and five or six million unemployed. The whole country is actively engaged in the effort to care for them. The Red Cross not only does not assert such an absurdity; it has publicly declared it cannot accomplish it.

Senator Borah himself, we know perfectly well, does not believe any responsible person believes in such an absurdity. It has nothing to do with the controversy. It was invented to hide the issues. Senator Borah willfully ignores or perverts these issues. He wants to know whether this government—that is, the federal government—will take care of its citizens when they have been grievously afflicted by an act of God. In the next moment he is talking of five or six million unemployed. We are not informed as to Senator Borah's theology. It may be as dubious as his politics. But we should like to know whether unemployment is an act of God. We should also like to know upon what grounds he holds that it is the duty and responsibility of the federal government to care for all stricken by an act of God.

Senator Borah has considerable pretensions as an authority on the constitution. He knows that the federal government was created for limited purposes and with strictly limited powers. Among these Senator Borah pretends to find an obligation to all "distressed and hungry citizens." Senator Borah knows better. He is exploiting a great social and economic crisis to his own personal advantage.

Senator Borah's speech is a masterpiece of false implication. There is no controversy over the need of help for the needy. If we were to accept Borah's speech as a reliable statement of the facts or the issues before the senate, we must be blind to both. If we were to accept Borah's speech we must ignore the fact that there are any other agents for relief than the congress of the United States and the Red Cross. The whole American people, all or most of the states, all or most of our cities and towns, and private and public agencies by the thousands are energetically and generously engaged in meeting the wants of the needy. They are assuming the obligation of a civilized people to hunger and distress, an obligation never imposed upon the federal government, and one which it could not meet.

The voting of $25,000,000 to care for the drought stricken districts is one question. As a special calamity, or, in Senator Borah's phrase, an act of God, its urgency may justify action by the national government. That is a question which deserves a fair consideration, which Senator Borah is stultifying. The other far more difficult question is aid for all the victims of unemployment throughout the nation. The measure passed by the senate which Senator Borah proposes to force upon the house by blocking the performance of the duty of congress to pass the regular appropriation bills does not provide a drop in the bucket, so far as relief of five or six million unemployed is concerned. If Senator Borah demands of the federal government relief for all distressed and hungry citizens he should demand not twenty-five millions, but two hundred and fifty, and then in all probability the federal government would fall short of the duty Senator Borah pretends it owes.

Pity for the unfortunate, those stricken by the drought and those found in every community who are hungry or in need because of unemployment, is universal among the American people, and so is the effort to relieve the suffering as promptly and adequately as possible. Neither is confined to the senate, much less to Senator Borah and the senators who are posing as the chief champions of the fundamental principles of humanity. That assumption is pleasing to these senators, but it is an insult to the American people. The question before congress and before the nation is not whether relief shall be given the needy. It is being given the needy throughout the nation. The question before congress and the nation is how relief may best be given and whether the measure demanded by Senator Borah and its other supporters in the senate is a wise measure. To doubt or disbelieve its wisdom is no offense against humanity and no evidence of indifference to the widespread suffering among our people. The attempt of Borah, Caraway, and other senators to make it appear so should not stampede congress into any action its judgment condemns. That attempt is not in the interest of humanity, nor of the efficient handling of the emergency.

TAXATION AND PROSPERITY.

The president of the New Jersey Taxpayers' association, Mr. Clinton Bardo, made some remarks the other day before an agricultural convention which deserve some serious consideration by every citizen:

"Fifteen years ago one-fourteenth of our national income was devoted to the purposes of government. Today approximately one-seventh is devoted to public expenditure. It has reached the colossal sum of approximately $13,000,000,000 annually and is increasing $500,000,000 each year, and about 27 per cent of all the net profits of our corporations now goes to run the government. It is no wonder that business halts, that money ceases to flow, that capital seeks refuge in bank vaults in nontaxable securities, that there is unemployment and that farm lands and other real estate property languish in the hands of the owners."

Mr. Bardo points out that it is primarily the local situation in the towns and counties throughout the country that is piling up this burden and illustrates from New Jersey statistics which show that state salaries are increasing $1,000,000 a year, that the average tax rate has risen from $2.297 in 1918 to $4.055 in 1930, a 76 per cent increase in twelve years; while tax delinquency has grown from $51,000,000 in 1928 to $59,000,000 in 1929.

"There is a waste," he said, "in things we do not need, waste in public contracts, waste in duplicated effort. And this ruinous waste in local government is mounting. We are appalled by tax figures."

While this enormous burden is being piled up by the states and local spending bodies, there is an ever increasing tendency, now greatly intensified by the general business depression, to increase federal expenditures on a huge scale.

That this process cannot go on without not only retarding our economic recovery but compromising our future prosperity permanently ought to be plain. But it is not. The general public is not what Mr. Bardo calls "tax conscious." The direct taxpayer is conscious of the tax he pays to the gatherer on his home, on his car, on his business. But the great majority of taxpayers, who pay without knowing it in high rents, in higher prices, in insecurity of work and business, think taxes are paid by some one else, by the rich or well to do. They do not know they cannot escape paying their share, often a very large share, of the burden of public expenditure. The so-called nontaxpayer would not be so favorable to schemes for spending public money if he realized that in the long run he himself will have to pay a good part of the bill in one form or another.

THE SHIP OF THE FUTURE.

At regular intervals during the navigation season a ship of unusual design may be seen unloading at Chicago river docks. The vessel is a self-propelled canal barge; but what is a canal barge doing in the Chicago river and Lake Michigan?

A half dozen or more vessels of this design are already in service between the Atlantic coast and the ports of the great lakes. They load at Atlantic ports and reach the lakes by way of the Hudson river and the New York barge canal. This canal has a minimum depth of 12 feet. The barges are designed for that draft.

Unfortunately, Chicago, or rather Lockport, is the terminus beyond which these highly efficient ships cannot move in a southerly direction. The present plans call for a depth of nine feet in the Illinois waterway from Lockport to Grafton on the Mississippi. If these plans are adhered to the nation's inland waterway system will suggest a railroad with a variety of gauges. Cars and locomotives can go only so far when freight must be transferred to another carrier at considerable expense for handling.

An efficient internal waterway system would provide a uniform minimum depth so that any vessel operating on any of its branches could operate on all of them. In this way equipment could be readily mobilized for seasonal shipments and flexibility and economy of operation would result.

As a first step toward this goal, congress and the war department should revise the plans of the Illinois waterway to provide the 12 foot depth desired.

SCENTLESS FLOWERS.

[Boston Transcript.]

A series of laboratory experiments made in England tends to show that the fragrance is being bred out of certain flowers. The infinite pains that florists have taken to produce blossoms of extraordinary size and exquisite color have been rewarded at the expense of the quality of perfume—a quality which many flower lovers prize far above show. It is as though some plants had not vigor enough to develop transcendent beauty and intoxicating odor together. Who knows but that an ornithologist who should succeed in breeding a skylark or a nightingale until in its plumage it rivaled the brilliance of some tropical birds would find that in doing so he had somehow changed its song to a raucous croak?

There are flowers that are scentless, or nearly so, and most of us would prefer that the florists whose one aim is to please the eye would confine themselves to those—to the larkspurs, the foxgloves, the dahlias, the snapdragons, the giant cosmos, and the like. That is, we would prefer to have them do that rather than to find they had experimented upon roses and phlox and violets and mignonette and bee-balm until their perfume had become enfeebled or extinguished. There are persons who, having always set the rose above every other flower for the perfection of its fragrance, take no pleasure whatever in the glory of the pink and crimson ramblers, whose profuse bloom is well-nigh scentless. They deem it the bounden duty of a rose to please the sense of sight and of smell alike, and if it fails in either they think that it deserves the name of rose as little as Fortia's suitor, the sissified Monsieur Le Bon, deserved that of man.

SKATING AS TONIC.

WINTER is regarded as a season of athletic inactivity. The newspapers think of it as a season of hard sledding for the sports page. The high speed sport writers fly to Florida and California to rest. The ordinary man follows the example of the bear, curls up and hibernates. Meanwhile, the sickness rate rises.

There is need and a remedy must be found. Indoor sports is better than nothing. If is better to watch a game of basketball than to stay at home. Playing is better than watching. This holds true of volleyball as well as basketball. As to all games except for the crippled, the lame, and the halt, to play is a hundred times better than to be a spectator.

The indoor ice games come nearer to meeting the standards of the health sharks, both for the players and the spectators. The best of the games, however, are those played in the open.

Skating leads them all. Almost no equipment is needed. If there is no nearby river or pond, a piece of flat ground can generally be flooded. In cities, vacant lots suitable for flooding and conversion into skating places are found in every neighborhood. Most skaters are dubs and the dub skater does not need ice kept in the finest condition. Skating does not require much illumination. During half the month moonlight suffices. There is no better way to keep up muscle tone, to build up the heart strength, and to ward off colds and pneumonia than to skate.

The refrigerating industry is willing to make skating possible for those who live in sections of the country where nature does not supply ice.

STUTTERING.

G. E. writes: In a letter which appeared in your column recently the writer asked if it were possible to cure a case of stuttering. He forgot to mention the salient point of whether or not the stutterer was left handed. The phenomena of stuttering and left handedness are intimately associated. The following is an abstract from an article entitled "Diability in Reading and Personality" which appeared in Howard Monographs in Education: "Jones finds that stammering is intimately associated with writing with the potentially minor hand; that one-third of those transferring from left to right handedness and one-sixth of those transferring from right to left handedness are afflicted with stammering, whereas not more than one per cent of pure right or pure left handers are afflicted."

Stuttering is somewhat prevalent among people who use the left hand in all operations except writing. I speak from personal experience because I have been one of the many unfortunates who, though naturally left handed, has been forced to use the right hand in writing and suffer the consequences thereof. I met a person about a year ago who furnished me with the cure.

I am confident that if the stutterer in question happens to be left handed he may be cured in the manner suggested. Stuttering begets self-consciousness and this begets neurosis, so that the cure becomes more difficult as time passes, but there is every hope of success provided the individual is young and his brain is still in a plastic condition.

REPLY.

MARKETING FOOD PRODUCT.

Chicago, Jan. 17.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—What steps are necessary to put a food product on the market? If a patent and pure food law stamp is necessary, is the cost high, and also where do you apply for this? G. E. S.

No preliminary legal steps are necessary unless you wish to secure a monopoly in the product by patent, or a monopoly in the name by trademark. In the case of trademark, some use would be necessary before your application.

DOGS AT LARGE.

Chicago, Jan. 28.—[Friend of the People.]—Have noticed lately that there are quite a number of unmuzzled dogs running around loose in the Beverly Hills section, especially between 91st and 95th streets and Ashland avenue to Longwood drive, which section I have occasion to travel.

On several occasions I have seen people frightened by these animals barking at their heels, and hope that something can be done to eliminate this nuisance.

A. E. L.

Capt. James L. Mooney, commanding the 14th district, reports as follows:

"The attached complaint regarding a number of unmuzzled dogs running around loose in the Beverly Hills section, especially between 91st and 95th streets and Ashland avenue and Longwood drive, was read at all roll calls and same is now covered by S. O. No. 467467.

"Instructions have been issued to all officers traveling these posts, both uniformed and citizen dress men, as well as all squad men to take proper action and dispose of all unmuzzled, unlicensed dogs found running at large in this, the 14th district."

BORROWED CAR.

Chicago, Jan. 20.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—When there is an accident with an automobile being borrowed by the driver when the accident occurs, who is responsible for the damage done, the driver of the car or the owner? B. A.

The owner would not be liable unless the trip was taken on his business. Liability of the borrower would depend on the proof as to negligence.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

IF THE WICKERSHAM COMMISSION REPORTED ON THE BUTLER CASE.

After months of painstaking investigation your commission finds that the after dinner speech of Maj. Gen. Smedley D. Butler in Philadelphia, insulting Premier Benito Mussolini of Italy, was made after dinner in Philadelphia by Maj. Gen. Smedley D. Butler, and that Premier Benito Mussolini of Italy was insulted.

We find that after dinner speeches are usually made after dinner.

We find Gen. Smedley D. Butler guilty on all counts and that the charges against him are entirely unjustified and unfounded.

We find that Premier Mussolini was right in taking high umbrage at the story about him by the said Maj. Gen. Smedley D. Butler and fail to see that he had any license whatever to get sore.

We concur in recommending that Maj. Gen. Smedley D. Butler be severely reprimanded for his indiscretion, and at the same time a majority of your commission recommend that he be given three medals, a box of cigars, and asked what he wants for Christmas.

We recommend that in order to uphold the dignity of the United States and preserve the friendly relations now existing between the United States and Italy that said Gen. Smedley D. Butler shall say to Premier Mussolini, "I am very sorry," immediately adding the words, "Lykell, lykell, lykell!"

We further find as to the merits of the case that Maj. Gen. Smedley D. Butler is entirely right, except where he is wholly wrong.

That as to whether or not Maj. Gen. Smedley D. Butler insulted Mussolini we would say yes and no. Also fifty-fifty. And that much could be said on both sides.

THE MODERN PARADOX.

Like the furrows of his plow;
On his chin is frosty stubble,
In his eyes a look of trouble
And perplexity and care,
Tinged with shadows of despair.

All his life has Farmer Brown
Helped to feed the folks in town,
Toiling, sweating, night and morn,
Raising wheat and raising corn,—
Sweating, toiling, through the years,
Fattening sheep and shoats and steers.

Working early, working late,
He is puzzled by the Fate,
Strange, that haunts him, now, and mocks
With this modern paradox:
You, who grew such crops of wheat
And produced such loads of meat,

EOLUS.

YESTERDAY in New York—thirty-five degrees below zero. In Chicago, 54 in the shade, with cloudless blue skies, buds swelling on the trees, balmy south wind, bathing in the lake, first robins. Ah, it isn't the number of people that live in Chicago—nor its art, its culture, and its wealth. Oh, my dear! It's the climate.

THE NATIONAL CONVENTION of the women's patriotic conference in Washington has passed resolutions indorsing the house resolution to make "The Star-Spangled Banner" our national hymn. Francis Scott Key wrote the thing over a hundred and twenty years or so ago, but it hasn't been officially recognized as the national anthem yet. Perhaps if Rudy Vallee will croon it a few times over the radio it might make it more popular.

THREE things seem to be the trouble with "Oh, say, can you see?" [1] the only people who can sing the high notes in the song are grand opera sopranos, and so few of our patriots, even the 110 per centers, are grand opera sopranos; [2] nobody knows the words; [3] the third verse is a dirty crack at the British and puts an awful crimp in the earnest work of the English Speaking Union.

GEN. BUTLER'S court martial is going to be public, which is just as well. Trying Gen. Butler in private would be like keeping an earthquake private or the Alps a secret, or keeping an elephant in the flat without the landlord finding it out.

A MEMBER of the Wickersham commission has been refused the privilege of addressing the legislature out in the state of Washington. Maybe they were afraid he would say that instead of making a speech he would just read the report of one hundred thousand words. Life is so short!

THE AUTOS in the United States have killed 50,900 people in the last 18 months, which beats our world war record for a similar period. We should worry about an army or navy. If a haughty foe ever invades our shores we'll turn loose our motor cars on 'em.

LAGNIAPPE.

THE HAUGHTY air leviathan, the DO-X, has to lie idle three days undergoing repairs because of its big strut. Pride goeth before a fall.

WAITING FOR SOMEBODY TO PAY 'EM TO LEAVE

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

FEBRUARY 4, 1915.

BUENOS AIRES. — The Buenos Aires newspapers announce that a German auxiliary cruiser, formerly of the Woermann line, was sunk on Jan. 7 off the Patagonian coast by the British cruiser Australia. The crew was taken to the Falkland Islands.

CAPE TOWN.—[Via London.]—It is officially announced that Lieut. Col. Kemp and his command of Boer rebels have surrendered to the British forces.

EL PASO, Tex.—Gen. Francisco Villa has proclaimed himself in charge of the presidency of Mexico. He sent this word to his agents here. He appointed three ministers to take charge of the civil government.

PARIS.—The official statement by the ministry of war declares four attacks by the Germans were repulsed. "In Champagne," it says, "three German attacks were repulsed, to the west of Perthes, north of Mesnil-les-Hurlus, and to the north of Massiges. In the Argonne an attack at Bagatelle was repulsed by our troops. Between the Lys and the Oise, in the Nouvette sector, to the west of Lens, French batteries put an end to a spirited fusillade from the enemy."

BERLIN.—A German official statement says: "The attacks made by the French on the German positions near Perthes have been repulsed."

PARIS.—An official statement from Petrograd says a German torpedo boat destroyer was sunk by a Russian submarine in the Baltic on Jan. 29. The submarine attack was made off the Danish island of Moen.

30 YEARS AGO TODAY

FEBRUARY 4, 1901.

CHICAGO.—The city is in the grip of a snowstorm which has continued for thirty-four hours and which is the heaviest fall for a year. Street car lines are being kept open with difficulty and railroad trains are delayed. One man lost his life as a result of the storm and a boy is missing.

TOPEKA, Kas.—Policeman Luster has reported to City Marshal Stahl a plot to tar and feather Mrs. Carrie Nation, the saloon wrecker. The report has frightened Mrs. Nation and her sister crusaders, but they declare they will continue the work.

LONDON.—The war office issued a dispatch from Gen. Kitchener dated Pretoria, Feb. 2, saying that a force of 1,000 Boers attacked and captured the British post at Modderfontein, on the Gats Rand, southwest of Krugersdorp. A dispatch from Bloemfontein says the British have reoccupied Petersburg.

MANILA.—Three hundred insurgents have surrendered in Panay, with 150 rifles. The Federal party held a meeting in which Señor Buencamino advocated a reform in the Catholic church and dramatically asked his applauding audience to choose between the church and the friars or the new freedom of thought. He skillfully advanced Protestantism as the remedy for many of the evils of which the people complained. The people seem to be approaching a political and religious climax.

50 YEARS AGO TODAY

FEBRUARY 4, 1881.

MOUNT VERNON, Ind.—Henry Lame, who acted as a body servant to Gen. Mercer during the revolutionary war, died here in his 123d year.

CHICAGO.—A diabolical outrage was committed at Colehour, near South Chicago. Early in the morning two men went to the residence of Charles Clarkson, a railroad engineer, and when he appeared at the door they threw a cup of vitriol in his face. It appears he had had trouble with some women and it is believed this was the cause of the acid throwing.

DUBLIN.—Michael Davitt, one of the leading Irish Land league agitators, was arrested here by two English detectives. Davitt was convicted and imprisoned for his connection with the Fenian conspiracy in England in 1866 and served seven years of his fifteen years' sentence. He was released on ticket-of-leave, with certain conditions attached. The immediate charge on which he was arrested today was not reporting to the police. He was placed on a steamer for London. The arrest is generally condemned as a blunder by the English.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

Writers should confine themselves to 200 or 300 words. Give full names and addresses. No manuscripts can be returned. Address Voice of the People, The Tribune.

THE BONUS.

Chicago, Feb. 2.—Any one who read Mr. Mellon's wails five years ago can hardly swallow his hokum again. Since then the treasury has squandered many millions trying to enforce prohibition, on Wickersham reports, and in tax refunds to big corporations, yet Mr. Mellon howls like a poisoned pup every time some sort of aid is recommended for the war veteran.

The same people are arrayed against the movement today as five years ago, viz., big business, bankers, chambers of commerce, Wall street, and capitalistic newspapers. The majority of the people are for the veterans, but as in everything else their opinions do not count.

Why should it always be up to the veterans to save the country? We saved it from the Germans and—by Mr. Mellon's own admission—from bankruptcy in 1925—and again we are called upon to make a further sacrifice.

If war broke out tomorrow, my suggestion would be that we let Mr. Mellon and his kind go. They hold the interests of our country so highly that they fight like devils lest those ungrateful veterans bankrupt it.

A VETERAN.

AN ADMIRER OF BIGNESS.

Chicago, Jan. 21.—I'm for Big Bill for reelection, because I do not believe in being a piker. I like to see things done big, and Big Bill certainly does them that way. Where $5 a day was good wages, he introduced $100 a day's pay. That's something!

Contractors wanted to do bridge excavation for $2 a foot. Why cater to pikers at $2 a cubic foot when the same work could be done for $10 a cubic foot?

Formerly a home owner struggled along with a $40 or $50 tax bill for his cottage. Only pikers get such bills. Now the home owner is somebody. His tax bills are around $200.

Chicago formerly was just another city in the eyes of the world. Now we are the biggest something or other, but anyway—we're big, and you can't take the credit away from Big Bill!

BIG BOOB.

A PRESENT FOR THE RAILROAD.

Chicago, Jan. 21.—Announcement is made that the Hamilton Park Women's club donates $300 to the Rock Island railroad to be used in beautifying stations. Has the corporation been reduced to donations and how would the company enter such a collection in their books? The penny ante game starts in the back room at 3 p. m.

IRATE HUSBAND.

THE RED CROSS IN RUSSIA.

Chicago, Jan. 20.—In today's TRIBUNE McCutcheon pictures the Red Cross rushing to the aid of starving Russians, among others. I would like to know just when this occurred. O yes, I know about the Hoover relief, but what did the Red Cross have to do with that? As I understand it, the Red Cross assisted the Russian Whites with medical and surgical supplies and when these supplies were in danger of falling into the hands of the blockaded Reds who needed them most desperately the Red Cross, very promptly and in true humanitarian spirit, removed these supplies to a safe place. R. S. S.

ON REDUCING WAGES.

Chicago, Jan. 30.—In today's TRIBUNE I read that Mr. Melvin A. Traylor, the president of the First National bank of Chicago, implies that wage scales should be cut. It is very easy for a man of means like Mr. Traylor, with money jingling in his pockets, a steady income and a sure job, to suggest a wage cut for others, but let some one suggest a cut in his salary of about 25 per cent and see what he would say. What made his bank or any business prosperous if not the American wage earners' high standard of living? It is only logical that if a person earns money he will spend money, and the more he earns the more he will be able to spend. In the long run the money spent by the wage earner is deposited in the bank.

Mr. Traylor suggests this for the purpose of checking the recurrence of depressions. What happened in previous years when wages were low? Did a low wage scale prevent depressions? Were banks as prosperous? Was any business as prosperous as during the period of high wages? A wage cut is the poorest remedy to end depression that any man could ever think of.

G. Z.

NOTARY'S FEE.

Chicago, Jan. 20.—It is now time for the public chauffeurs to renew their annual licenses. Last year, in addition to the renewal fee of $3, they tacked on a 25 cent fee at the city license bureau because, they said, they were making all new records and this was a notary fee. Well, it must have worked pretty good last year, for they are collecting the quarters again, and it will probably be an annual affair. I would like to know where the money goes to. This sum amounts to thousands of dollars. At the state license bureau we are given free notary services. J. O'B.

A CROWDED TRAIN.

Villa Park, Ill., Jan. 21.—I would like to know why it is necessary to crowd so many passengers in the Chicago, Aurora and Elgin's late trains to the west suburbs. I came out last night on the 12:30 o'clock local. Passengers were standing when we left the Wells street terminal, and by the time the train passed Laramie avenue there were over twenty standing. Is this the rush hour?

I would like to know why persons riding on free passes are allowed to occupy seats while paying passengers stand. COMMUTER.

EUREKA.

Grand Junction, Ia., Jan. 25.—I have invented perpetual motion. This machine has been coming to my mind for thirteen years, a piece at a time. A few days ago the machine was assembled right in front of me. And now I have a picture of it in my mind, running. It will produce power to run itself, and great power besides. I thought the American people would be glad to know of this invention.

E. A. KIRBY.

MONEY FOR CHINA.

Chicago, Jan. 21.—I see where the U. S. government has offered a loan of 200 million ounces of silver to China for 10 years. Interest at 2 per cent. But the veterans of the war are compelled to pay 6 per cent for a very small loan on the cash bonus that is not due for 10 years. H. FARRELL.

INAUGURATE NEW PLAN TO BOOST FUND FOR NEEDY

Drive Is $798,000 Short of $5,000,000 Goal.

In a final effort to raise the $5,000,000 relief quota before completion of the drive by the governor's unemployment commission on Feb. 11, Philip Clarke, chairman of the fund raising committee, last night announced the inauguration of a "provisional plan" of donations.

Under this method companies and individuals who have already donated will give an additional subscription provided the full amount of the relief funds is raised or pledged before Feb. 11. In the new appeal $78,000 has already been pledged by four Chicago concerns.

The Insull companies pledged $50,000 in addition to $600,000 already contributed by the companies and their employés. The First National bank will add $20,000 to its corporate and employés' subscriptions of $40[illegible]. The Central Trust company will add an additional $3,000, having already subscribed, with its employés, $27[illegible]. Lee, Higginson & Co. will add $5,000 to its corporate and employés' subscription of $8,17[illegible]. All such contributions will be void if the entire $5,000,000 is not pledged before completion of the drive.

$798,000 Still to Be Raised.

Subscriptions last night stood at $4,202,000, having $798,000 still to be raised within the next seven days.

"The plus campaign is inaugurated at the request of several firms that have already contributed but will do so again if necessary to put the campaign over the top," Mr. Clarke said. "Their plus effort is therefore intended on the specific condition that it is to be canceled unless the Drive Is $798,000 Short of $5,000,000 Goal.

In a final effort to raise the $5,000,000 relief quota before completion of the drive by the governor's unemployment commission on Feb. 11, Philip R. Clarke, chairman of the fund raising committee, last night announced the inauguration of "provisional plus" donations.

Under this method companies and individuals who have already donated will give an additional subscription provided the full amount of the relief funds is raised or pledged before Feb. 11. In the new appeal $78,000 has already been pledged by four Chicago concerns.

The Insul companies pledged $50,000 in addition to $600,000 already contributed by the companies and their employés. The First National bank will aid $20,000 to its corporate and employés' subscriptions of $46,934. The Central Trust company will give an additional $3,000, having already subscribed, with its employés, $37,000. Lee, Higginson & Co. will add $5,000 to its corporate and employés' subscription of $3,170. All such contributions will be void if the entire $5,000,000 is not pledged before completion of the drive.

$798,000 Still to Be Raised.

Subscriptions last night stood at $4,202,000, having $798,000 still to be raised within the next seven days.

"The plus campaign is inaugurated at the request of several firms who have already contributed but will do so again if necessary to put the campaign over the top," Mr. Clarke said. "This plus effort is therefore extended on the specific condition that it is to be canceled unless the adequate result is obtained. Corporations that have matched their employés' contributions in the past cannot be expected to make as large a plus subscription now as corporations who have not. But we find that most firms are glad to do as much as their wage earners.

New Donations Reported.

Among gifts reported yesterday were those made by Richard T. Crane Jr., who added $5,000 to his previous donation of the same amount; Allen B. Wrisley & Co. and employés, $2,500; Cudney & Co. and employés, $530; employés of W. F. Quarrie & Co., $1,135; Morris Katz, $250, and employés of Berghoff restaurant, $346.

The Veterans of Foreign Wars of the United States yesterday started a drive to feed families of the unemployed by giving weekly baskets of staple provisions. Funds for the baskets will be obtained by the placing of contribution boxes in all restaurants. Each contribution is to be 1 cent.

Spain Lifts Martial Law Everywhere but in Madrid

MADRID, Feb. 3.—(AP)—Martial law was ordered lifted today in the Saragossa region, embracing Huesca, leaving only Madrid subject to the extraordinary measures for the maintenance of order taken after the abortive revolutionary attempt last December. Martial law was annulled throughout Spain, with the exception of Saragossa and Madrid, ten days ago.

$1,254 IS GIVEN TO GOOD FELLOW FUND IN A DAY

It was a happy day yesterday at THE TRIBUNE Good Fellow headquarters. When the cashier had finished counting checks and cash he found that the day had brought $1,254 toward the support of needy families adopted by the Good Fellows.

Yesterday's gifts brought the total received by the Good Fellow fund since last October to $87,279. That means that 304 families or approximately 1,500 persons are being given food, shelter and other necessities while the head of the family is unemployed.

Your gift to THE TRIBUNE Good Fellows, however small, will help keep a family warm and well fed. Many small contributions have been added together to provide for a needy family.

The worthiness of these families has been investigated by four recognized charities: The Catholic Charities, United Charities, Jewish Social Service bureau and Salvation Army. THE TRIBUNE pays the cost of administering the fund.

TWO ASK JOBS TO HELP THEIR AILING PARENTS

Sally Cheered by Offers of Employment.

Two of the most pathetic cases in the experience of Sally Joy Brown during her weeks of effort to assist the jobless were encountered yesterday in her mail. One was the plight of Raymond P——, a young man of 25, who is the only support of his parents, a crippled mother and a father afflicted with tuberculosis, who has been unable to obtain any work. He has had temporary jobs during the last few years as trucker in a freight house, at foundry work and at warehouse work, and is desperately anxious for any kind of a job.

Similar in character, the second case is that of a young Spaniard, Robert C——, who is 17 and the only breadwinner for his parents, and has been unable to find any sort of position. He has training as a printer, and one year of a commercial high school course, and is willing to do any type of work. His father is out of work and sick.

Writes Plea for Work.

"I would rather come in person than write, but I cannot afford the carfare, as that money we can use to buy at least a bottle of milk for my sick father," Robert wrote. "Before he was working but not every day, and the few pennies we had are already spent on the doctor and medicines. We have no food for him or for us, my mother and I, our credit has been stopped, we owe two months' rent and we have been eating what other people give us, but this cannot keep up much longer and we don't know what to do."

Sally was cheered yesterday with a number of jobs for men. All were reported to the Illinois Free Employment service at 116 North Dearborn street. The M. laundry on west Madison street called for a man to wash walls at good wages; J. K., in the 1200 block on Congress street, requested a carpenter for a few hours' work, to be paid $5.

Other Jobs Offered.

R. G., in the 4200 block on Gladys, had a job for an upholsterer. W. S., in the 4700 block on Greenwood, needed a piano tuner.

S. J., in the 8400 block on Seeley avenue, and A. C., in the 400 block on Barry avenue, each gave employment to window washers. M. S., on East Chicago avenue, reported that he could use a carpenter to build some book shelves. And so it went.

Sally Joy Brown can be reached at Superior 0100, and will be delighted to hear of any available work for either men or women.

'Jake' Paralysis Cases in Los Angeles Mount to 20

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 3.—[Special.]—Dr. George M. Stevens of the city health department said that the cases of partial paralysis resulting from "Jake" Jamaica ginger drinking today mounted past twenty. Seven cases were removed to hospitals today.

DOCTOR, HELD IN WOMAN'S DEATH, FREED BY JUDGE

Dr. Frank L. Nathanson, 3216 Lake Park avenue, who was charged with attempted abortion in connection with the death of Mrs. Mae Johnson, 30 years old, 4306 North Crawford avenue, a divorcée, was freed yesterday by Judge Frank M. Padden in the Felony court on the recommendation of Assistant State's Attorney Frank Mast.

"A coroner's jury, unable to establish sufficient evidence in this case, recommended that the police charge Dr. Nathanson for an attempted abortion because of his past reputation," said the prosecutor. "It is a clear case of the coroner's jury passing the buck to the court. They had no evidence at the coroner's inquest and we have no more at this time."

The federal government investigated Dr. Nathanson's income taxes some time ago. In 1927 the physician shot and killed two men in his office. He said they had tried to rob him.

RUINS OF FIVE TOWNS AFLAME AS EARTH ROCKS

125 Known Dead; 1,000 Hurt; Dig for Bodies.

Sydney who arrived here last night, said two story buildings came down like a pack of cards. In one street, the two sides of buildings met, burying a row of taxicabs with their drivers.

Lewis said he was sitting in a car outside the postoffice of Napier. Suddenly the car was shaken violently. He leaped out to see what was wrong, but was thrown down by the plunging earth. Looking up, he saw all buildings on the opposite side of the street collapsing. Then clouds of dust enveloped the whole place, as tenants rushed out screaming.

1,000 Sleep on Beach.

This morning 1,000 homeless persons were trying to sleep on the beach at Napier or on the plains around the other ruined towns, afraid to seek shelter in such buildings as still stood lest they, too, collapse.

Under the leadership of British sailors, rescue work was well organized at Napier before dark. Two warships, with large staffs of doctors and nurses and plentiful medical supplies, were steaming under forced draft from Auckland, and other parties were hurrying from the nearest towns.

With the coming of daylight it is expected the rescue work will be organized more thoroughly and before another day it is hoped that if no serious new shocks occur the worst will be known.

The first refugee to arrive here today from Hastings said indescribable confusion had followed the disaster.

"After the first shock," he said, "a great cloud of dust covered the whole town. There were screams from the injured, partially drowned by the crash of falling buildings.

"Then the fire broke out. It seemed to be in a dozen places at once. I saw automobiles completely buried in the wreckage. The Grand hotel collapsed like a pack of cards. Its whole front was blown out and hurled across the road."

Relief is being rushed to the stricken area from all available places by warships, train, and airplanes.

Material Loss Huge.

Rescuers dug frantically into the crumbled ruins of the five devastated cities all through the night. Large numbers of persons were still imprisoned in many toppled buildings. The material loss will run into millions of pound sterling, very little covered by earthquake insurance.

The Hawke's bay district is a rich agricultural district and also the center, at Waikaremoana, of one of the dominion's largest hydro-electric developments.

Napier is 210 miles by rail northeast of Wellington. The main portion of the town stretches along the flat shoreland of Hawke's bay, while the suburbs extend over the hills to the north. The site consists of a picturesque peninsula and the harbor.

Exports Frozen Meat.

The district is agricultural, pastoral and fruit growing, and from Napier are exported large quantities of frozen meat, wool, and other products. Napier's industries include engineering and refrigerating works, a tobacco factory with a large output, soap works, sash and door factories, woolen mills and dairy factories, numbering about 100 establishments in all. They city has two daily newspapers.

Hastings, also stricken by the earthquake, has a population of 15,000 with 25,000 additional in suburbs and the surrounding district. Hastings is the center of a rich agricultural, pastoral and wine growing country.

VOLCANO EMERGES FROM PACIFIC DURING QUAKE IN MEXICO

OAXACA CITY, Mexico, Feb. 3.—(AP)—Discovery of a new island or volcano, six miles off Puerto Angel, Oaxaca, in the Pacific, was announced today by Dr. Daniel Rueda, in charge of the observatory here.

He said the discovery had been communicated to him by the captain of the steamship City of San Francisco. It is believed to have emerged from the sea during the earthquake which rocked this state Jan. 14. Prior to the discovery the sea along that section of the coast had been reported covered with oil.

Quake Damages Bavaria Houses.

HOF, Bavaria, Feb. 3.—(AP)—Light earthquake tremors, heralded by subterranean rumblings, damaged several houses in the town of Gumpersreuth last night. Reports from the town of Asch in Czecho-Slovakia said several houses there were damaged at the same time.

Dies of Rabies Attributed to the Bite of a Cat

Mount Vernon, Ill., Feb. 3.—[Special.]—Walter McAtee, about 40, died here tonight about 7 o'clock, of what is declared to have been rabies, resulting from the bite of a cat six weeks ago.

UNGUENTINE RECTAL CONES

This Hemorrhoid Treatment Quickly Banishes All Distress

Doctors have proven to their own satisfaction that pile trouble swiftly vanishes when UNGUENTINE RECTAL CONES are used. That's the reason they've prescribed them for their own patients for over 30 years.

The relief they bring is instant. But that's not all. In a very few days the swelling disappears—irritation and inflammation no longer make your life miserable. Finally, your trouble is gone.

So put your faith in UNGUENTINE RECTAL CONES. They're but 75c a box. And when you can get such blissful relief and certain satisfaction, why wait? Ask your druggist—he knows. Every drugstore in America carries them. The Norwich Pharmacal Co., Norwich, N.Y.

BRITAIN RULED ON U. S. GANG SYSTEM, COMMONS HEARS

LONDON, Feb. 3.—(AP)—By a comfortable majority of 65 votes, Prime Minister MacDonald's Labor government tonight carried the electoral reform bill on second reading.

Directing their fire on what they called the "racketeering" methods of the Liberals, alleging that the latter had held up the government and made it adopt a bill in return for Liberal support, Conservative members made several references to American gangsters during the debate.

The chief such comparison was drawn by L. S. Amery, dominions secretary in the last Conservative government, who said the house of commons had wandered far from the idea of being a counsel of the state and was much more redolent of arrangements between the racketeering gangs of Chicago.

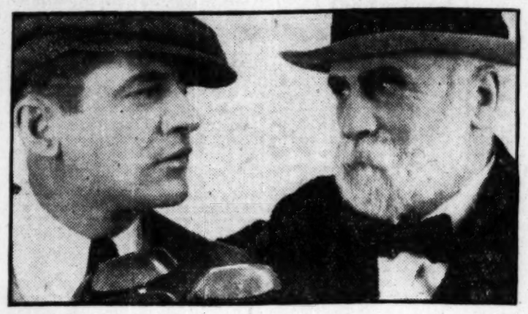
"I have just read the biography of Al Capone," he said, "and in that work there are descriptions of him and Bugs Moran which admirably fit this situation. I am consoled, however, by the fact that these gangster treaties, under which third parties are to be bumped off or taken for a ride, hardly ever last."

RUSSIA'S THREAT TO HALT FISHING ANGERS JAPAN

TOKIO, Feb. 3.—(AP)—Feeling against soviet Russia is rising rapidly in Japan at the report that the soviet union has threatened to cancel the Japanese fishery concessions in Siberian waters because of a default by Japan in payment of royalties, which were due yesterday.

The dispute, which was brought to a head recently by the forcible closing of the Vladivostok branch of the Bank of Corea, centers about the soviet demand that the royalties be paid at the soviet rate of exchange of the ruble.

Baron Shidahara, the Japanese foreign minister, received the soviet ambassador today and it was believed he suggested a rate of 27½ yen per ruble. The soviet ambassador insisted on his country's rate of 40 yen, but promised to refer the matter to Moscow. The royalties amount to 4,000,000 yen.



REAL Doctor's Remedy

safest aid to bowels

A DOCTOR knows the best and safest way to stimulate the bowels when bad breath, coated tongue, sluggishness, or a bilious, headachy, gassy condition shows they are lagging. There could be no better proof of this assertion than the overwhelming sales and popularity of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.

Syrup Pepsin is a doctor's prescription for the bowels—made by the same formula Dr. Caldwell wrote and prescribed over and over during his forty-seven years of practice. He tested its gentle action with women, older people, babies and children; saw that it does not gripe, sicken or cause any discomfort. He proved its action thorough, complete, with the most robust men. Then as its pleasant taste and perfect action caused it to grow in popularity, he permitted it to be bottled and kept by drugstores everywhere, ready for use.

Get a bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin from your drugstore today. Then, next time you or any of your family feel the need of a bowel cleansing, you will have a doctor's choice of what is best.

UNITE TO FIGHT ORDER UPHOLDING SO. LOOP TRACKS

Trade Groups Hit Rails on Plymouth Court.

United support by south side organizations in the legal fight against the Illinois commerce commission order authorizing a railroad blockade of Plymouth court was pledged to the city yesterday by William A. Dudley, managing director of the Greater Central District association.

Mr. Dudley contended that the commerce commission overstepped its authority in ruling that the Chicago and Western Indiana railroad has a right to continue the use of its tracks across Plymouth court and Taylor street without the consent of the city. Should the order stand, he said, the city will have lost the right to control its own streets.

See Threat to City Plan.

James Simpson, chairman of the Chicago Plan commission, has warned that failure to open Plymouth court would threaten the entire plan commission program for the opening of streets south of the loop.

Attorneys for the city will petition for a rehearing before the commerce commission which decided that public service by the railroad warranted the continued use of the tracks without the consent of the city and despite a franchise provision in which the railroad had agreed to remove the tracks when ordered by the city. It is expected that the case will go into the courts regardless of the final decision of the commission.

"My organization and a half dozen others are intensely interested in this case as we agree with Mr. Simpson that opening of Plymouth court is essential to development of the south side," declared Mr. Dudley.

Blow At City, Claim.

"We also feel that every part of the city is affected, for unless this decision is reversed it means that a state body has assumed complete jurisdiction of our streets. The commerce commission by it own act has sought to assign powers to itself not delegated to it by law, and the courts will have to decide if it can do so."

The chairman and members of the commerce commission were in Springfield yesterday. It was said at the commission offices that the records of the Plymouth court case also are in Springfield.

KIDDED HER, SAYS BANKER IN BALM SUIT OF $100,000

Denies Offering to Wed Miss Harseim.

Peoria, Ill., Feb. 3.—[Special.]—"I was only joking," David C. Belsley, 60, wealthy retired banker, testified in the $100,000 breach of promise suit filed against him by Helen Harseim of Secor, when asked if he did not promise to marry her.

HELEN HARSEIM.

Thirty letters Miss Harseim wrote to her "Little David" while she was residing in Reno awaiting a hearing on her suit for divorce from Dean Graybill were introduced by the defense in an effort to show that she was "milking" him out of money, clothing, and other valuables as well as large sums of money.

"Did you ever intend to marry her?" George Sprenger, attorney for Miss Harseim, shouted at Belsley.

"I did not," Belsley replied.

Never Talked Love?

George W. Sprenger conducted Belsley's cross-examination. Belsley said he did not tell Miss Harseim in May, 1924, that he loved her. They never discussed love on any automobile rides he took with her at that time, he said. Sprenger handed him one of the "Little David" letters.

"The word 'love' isn't there," Belsley said.

"Tell the jury what you meant when you said 'yours with lots of—?'" Sprenger asked.

"I don't know."

"You don't know what you meant?"

"I don't think I ever did."

Miss Harseim's attorneys then took up another letter from "Little David" to Helen, written in October, 1924.

"I'll ask you if you didn't ask her to be your lady friend for dinner," Sprenger inquired.

"I may have," Belsley admitted.

"Did you mean it?"

"I did not."

"You were kidding her, were you?"

"I was."

Says Good-By at 2 A. M.

The story of how Miss Harseim received her "engagement" ring, an incident when she got him out of bed between 1 and 2 o'clock in the morning to say good-by before leaving for Milwaukee, and his version of their break on Christmas, 1929, the day before she filed her $100,000 suit, were related by Belsley.

Over the objections of plaintiff's counsel, Belsley insisted that Miss Harseim was "always asking for a ring" until Judge Joseph E. Daily admonished him to answer questions specifically.

TAKES 'SUSPECT' TO POLICE; HELD AS EXTORTIONIST

Charles Zoris, 910 South Winchester avenue, who, the police say, has a long record, was charged with impersonating a policeman and extortion yesterday after Chief of Detectives John Norton had heard the story of Anton Drux, 39 years old, a recent arrival from Germany, who lives with his sister, Mrs. Helen Penzleck, 4425 North Racine avenue.

Drux said that while walking in the loop late Monday night he met 12 year old Gertrude Reiger of 5625 Washington boulevard. They had lunch together and he then took her to his sister's home in the belief that she had no place to go. Zoris followed him, told him he was a policeman, and demanded $50 to fix the case, Drux said. Later Zoris raised his demand to $250 after seeing Drux's bank book, according to Drux.

Zoris made the mistake of accompanying Drux to the detective bureau, representing himself as a citizen who wished to protect a juvenile. Chief Norton identified him after he had been finger printed. Drux was charged with contributing to the delinquency of a minor.

NAB 21 IN N. Y. ON CHARGE OF BIG RUM PLOT HERE

Nineteen men and two women were arrested in New York yesterday on an indictment returned in Chicago early last year charging 155 individuals and 31 corporations with conspiracy in a nation-wide alcohol diversion ring. The New York defendants were held in bonds ranging from $50 to $22,500 pending a removal hearing on Feb. 9, according to dispatches.

Assistant United States Attorney Victor E. La Rue said last night that special prohibition agents were engaged in rounding up the defendants from New York to the Pacific coast and that the huge conspiracy case probably would go on trial during the summer.

The principal New York concerns involved are the Allied Drug and Chemical corporation, the E. M. Lanning company, the Norda Essential Oil and Chemical company, and the C. H. Selick company, all former holders of permits to manufacture perfumes and toilet preparations. Anastassoff Sreben, a chemist of Chicago, is the alleged central figure of the ring and many Chicago permit holders are under indictment. Millions of gallons of alcohol allegedly was diverted into bootleg channels.

Here's Quick Way To Break Up a Cold

Makes you feel like a new person almost before you know it

Take two tablets now.

Better almost before you know it.

THE thing to do with a cold is to break it up in a hurry—with something you know does the job; not to trifle with a lot of trick ideas and remedies. Colds are too dangerous to experiment with.

Get a box of Hill's Cascara Quinine at any drug store. Take two tablets now. Then follow directions on box. Drink lots of water, too—that's all.

Soon that miserable, aching feeling begins to go. The cold breaks up. The poisons are moved from your system. The world looks like an altogether different place.

Those results come because Hill's goes back to first principles by going to the seat of the trouble. It's not a newfangled fancy idea but a tried and proved way that's made to do ONE THING WELL: to knock a cold in a jiffy.

Hill's costs only a few cents. Use it for quick relief after everything else you've tried has failed.

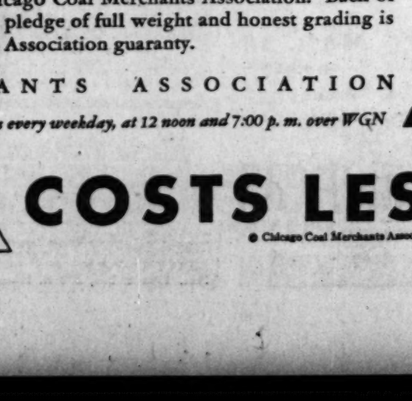
COAL HEAT COSTS LESS

FACT not Fluke



The Eastgate Hotel, 162 E. Ontario St.
Oman & Lilienthal, Architects

Again Coal Heat Proves Its Savings

A few days ago the results of a scientifically conducted test on the comparative cost of fuels were published. Under conditions matched in every respect, coal had proved its ability to heat the St. Clair hotel for 25 to 35% less than fuel B.

The test left only one possible question unanswered. Would coal burned under different conditions in a different building show the same saving? To answer this question, Oman & Lilienthal, the architect-owners-managers who had asked for the test, requested the Commercial Testing and Engineering Co., under whose supervision the St. Clair test was being conducted, to run a parallel experiment in the Eastgate Hotel.

Here as in the St. Clair every precaution was taken to make the test fair beyond bias or question. Identical boilers were used for both fuels. Conditions were equalized in every way. The testing engineers were present constantly, checking and rechecking. Representatives of both the coal industry and of the other fuel were there.

It was proved at the end of the test that the St. Clair results were unquestionable. For although the Eastgate experiment was conducted independently, although no relationship existed between it and the St. Clair, coal heat again proved it would save 25 to 35% on this Hotel's fuel bills; the same savings it showed at the St. Clair. To Oman and Lilienthal this saving amounts to $3,500 to $5,500 every year; even after ash removal has been charged to coal and the salary of one man for 12 months a year and that of another for five months a year has been added to its cost; although only a portion of their time would be needed in the boiler room.

Just as coal heat definitely proved its great savings in these hotels, it will prove it in your home. The savings will be proportionally greater if anything. For in your home you cannot have the very expensive equipment used in the St. Clair and the Eastgate to burn the 4¾c per gallon grade of Fuel B that they used. Nor in your home will you require the services of two firemen.

Make sure you get the last cent out of coal's saving, by buying your coal from a member of the Chicago Coal Merchants Association. Back of his pledge of full weight and honest grading is the Association guaranty.

How Weak Nervous Women Grow Stronger.

Feel Better, Look Younger and Have Steadier Nerves.

If you only knew—you rundown, enemic women—who are dragging yourself around on your "nerve"—what a wonderful increase in strength and health Tanlac will give you, you wouldn't hesitate a moment about going to your druggist and getting a big bottle of this splendid medicine.

Mrs. Dora Robillard, of Bellingham, Mass., R. F. D. 1, Box 17, says: "I had no digestion nor appetite. Sick headaches laid me up in bed three days at a time. I couldn't even do light housework. Now I do all our cooking and washing in addition to the other work."

Tanlac is as free from harmful drugs as the water you drink—only Nature's own medicinal tonic herbs. Druggists know this and for the past 10 years have recommended it to men and women who need a quick "pick up" that will put them on their feet and give them a new interest in life.

So confident are the makers of Tanlac that if you are not helped by it, you get your money back on request.

Dr. Frank Gives Surgeons Economic Interlude.

Glenn Frank, president of the University of Wisconsin, expounded his views on economics and proposed a remedy for financial depressions in an address last night before a capacity audience of 2,500 dental surgeons in the grand ballroom of the Stevens hotel.

Dr. Frank was the principal speaker at the annual banquet of the Chicago Dental society, whose midwinter clinic and annual convention have attracted to Chicago more than 8,000 members of the profession for four days of study of the problems and advancements of dentistry.

A Clinical Interlude.

Dr. Frank's discussion of economic ills was an interlude for the dentists, who, since the convention opened on Monday, have been hastening from one clinical session to another, cramming up knowledge on oral maladies, studying the latest developments in such technical subjects as orthodontia, periodontia, full and partial dentures, therapeutics, and mouth hygiene.

Dr. Frank was introduced by President Walter Dill Scott of Northwestern university. Dr. Harris W. McClain, president of the dental society, presided as toastmaster, and other speakers were the Rev. Robert M. Kelly, S. J., president of Loyola university, and Health Commissioner Kegel.

Points Way to Prosperity.

"The way to national prosperity is the release of the present inactive surplus of buying power," said Dr. Frank. The national income, he contended, must be redistributed on a broader basis so as to afford the consuming millions a higher purchasing power and greater opportunity for leisure.

"When the industrial slump came late in 1929 it was not for lack of purchasing power," Dr. Frank asserted. "The trouble was that this purchasing power was improperly distributed, much of it being held idle in the hands of a few."

Considering various ways of achieving redistribution, Dr. Frank mentioned large scale charity, a vast public works program, and unemployment insurance. In any case, he said, high wages must be maintained, hours further shortened, and prices carried still lower.

New Ruling on Alcohol.

A cheering note at yesterday's session was the announcement that the dental surgeons on March 1 would attain equality with the medical profession on the right of withdrawing spirituous liquors and grain alcohol from government stores for professional purposes. Dr. Homer C. Brown of Columbus, O., chairman of the legislative committee of the American Dental association, received notification of the new ruling in a telegram from the prohibition administrator in Washington.

The new regulations permit the dentist to withdraw annually six quarts of whisky or brandy and two gallons of grain alcohol for office use.

ARGUE FALL AND BLACKMER "OIL" CASES SAME DAY

Bribery in One Case; Contempt in Other.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 3.—(AP)—Two angles of the naval oil scandals, which startled the nation nine years ago, today held the attention of the District of Columbia Court of Appeals. One man convicted of bribery and another found guilty of contempt of court sought reversal of their sentences.

A. B. FALL.
[Acme Photo.]

Arguments in the appeal of Albert B. Fall from his conviction for accepting a bribe from Edward L. Doheny were concluded and those in the case of Harry M. Blackmer, Denver oil man, fined $60,000 for contempt of court, were begun. The Blackmer arguments will be concluded tomorrow. Fall's charges grew out of a lease of oil lands to Doheny's company, and Blackmer's from failing to appear as a witness at the conspiracy trial of Fall and Harry F. Sinclair.

Had Acted Officially.

Atlee Pomerene, special government prosecutor, contended that Fall had legal responsibility for handling the oil leases and even if he did not he awarded them to Doheny's company. He said the defense contention that the former secretary of the interior could not be charged with bribery because the leasing was not a statutory act, was immaterial.

Franklin Harrison, Pomerene's associate, told the court the Supreme court had held that fall had acted officially in awarding the leases. Pomerene assailed the contention that Fall did not have a fair and impartial trial:

Frank Hogan, chief counsel for Fall, closed the arguments by reiterating his contention that a government officer could not be indicted for an act not included in his statutory duties. He contended that the secretary of the navy had jurisdiction over the oil reserves.

Pleads for Blackmer.

Karl C. Schuyler of Denver, representing Blackmer, argued that the Walsh law of 1926, under which an American citizen residing abroad may be fined up to $100,000 for refusal to return and testify in a criminal case, was unconstitutional because it attempted to extend the authority of the courts beyond the limits of the United States.

TRIBUNE HELPS 386 EARLY BIRDS ON INCOME TAX

A total of 386 persons had been assisted with their income tax returns at THE TRIBUNE Public Service bureau, 1 South Dearborn street, last evening, since the opening of the free service on Jan. 20. Notary service and income tax return forms are provided and a deputy collector of internal revenue is on hand to assist the public. Another deputy will be added on Feb. 15, one month before the deadline for the filing of returns.

5,000 MERCHANTS ATTEND BUYING CONVENTION HERE

More than 5,000 store owners from throughout the United States assembled yesterday for the opening of the annual convention of the Interstate Merchants' council. Exhibits in styles and displays of staples of manufacturers and wholesalers were on view at the Merchandise Mart, the Hotel Sherman, Morrison hotel, Stevens hotel and Palmer house.

John McKinlay, president of Marshall Field & Co., addressed members of the council at a luncheon in the Sherman after the buyers had been welcomed by Robert Isham Randolph, president of the Chicago Association of Commerce. Mr. McKinlay declared that newspaper advertising was a most effective means of disposing of stock despite intense competition and hard times.

"My company is consistently the largest purchaser of newspaper white space in the west, and only because we find it profitable is this true," he said. "Conceding that a merchant must sell good merchandise correctly styled, fairly priced and courteously presented, he will, in our opinion, find newspaper advertising the most trenchant of all helps in correctly and profitably disposing of the merchandise.

"Newspapers have retained the keen interest of practically every one of the 30 million families in the United States. They reach the public upon such a scale that they can afford to distribute the merchant's publicity at a cost which is lower than any other form of successfully demonstrated propaganda."

Deaf Hear Again Through New Aid

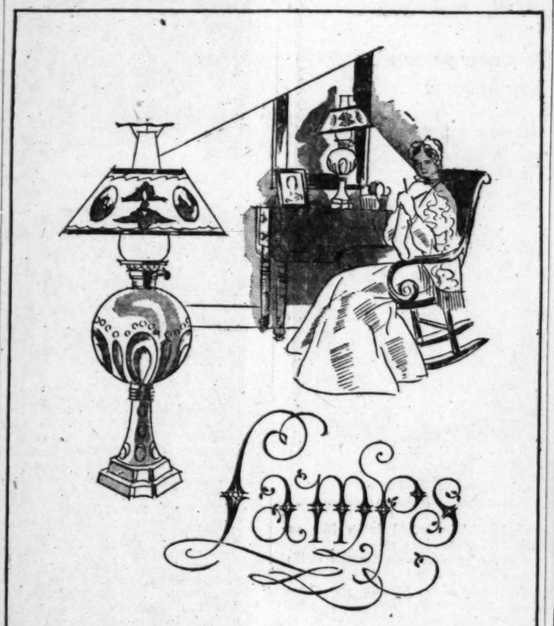
The makers offer an absolutely free trial for 10 days to any person who may be interested, and a letter will bring one of these remarkable aids to your home for a thorough and convincing test. Send them your name and address today! (Advt.)



The kindly glow of a quaint or stately lamp seems only to be a portion of the duty performed in its modern existence, for its value as a decorative unit is quite pretentious. The gently shaded affair of glass, with its staunch but graceful pedestal and old thumbprint bowl, either electrified or in original form, shares interest with myriads of artistic designs in wood, metal, china and various materials. All are equal in the gracious offering of light, but many become fascinating units of colour and charm when arranged by skilled Decorators and knowing Merchants. The origin, history and worth of old and modern Lamps are ably discussed, on occasion, in the Antiques & Interior Decorations Section of The Sun. Published every Saturday.

THE LONG LOOP

BY B. M. BOWER

SYNOPSIS.

Dixon Zarrabee, head of Whistling Creek ranch, was swindled in an oil well frameup by Owen Gray, neighboring rancher and banker. Everything he owned, except the home ranch, was mortgaged. Dix, an orphan, keeps from his grandmother and his young brother, Chuck, the true state of affairs. Gram has her heart set on seeing Chuck a doctor. Chuck has expensive tastes and his indulgent older brother has a hard task saving for his college tuition and material demands.

Mart McGuire tempts Dix with the idea of changing the brand of the cattle from Gray's O T ranch to a coffeepot, symbol of Dix's own.

Tom, an Indian helper, discovers a lost valley with a geyser on the Coffeepot ranch. Only one passage leads to it, through what is seemingly a blank cliff wall. It is an ideal pasture for cattle.

With varue misgivings Dix begins rustling from Gray's herd, hiding the stolen cattle in Lost valley. A blizzard obliterates all traces of the crime. After a second foray Dix was ready to call quits, but Mart and Tom continued night riding on their own. Dix's profits mounted steadily after every shipping.

Chuck and a flyer friend, named Frosty, arrive at the ranch. Chuck confesses to Dix that he has given up a medical career for aviation. He and Frosty plan to build secretly a competitive plane for a prize. A shed built against the crevice, hiding the entrance to Lost valley, seems to them the ideal place for their work.

INSTALLMENT XV.

UPSET PLANS.

Chuck was biting his lip thoughtfully with frequent side glances at Dix. Now he hunched his shoulders and squared himself for argument.

"It burns me up to be hampered now, just when we're getting squared for the job," he declared. "I can't see us doing without a plane. We've got to have one. As you say——"

"You're aiming to build one, I thought you said." Dix was bracing himself, just as he always did when he opened a letter from Chuck.

"What's the matter?" Chuck turned on him with a shade of defiance in his tone. "Aren't the old Coffeepots good for a couple or three thousand —when there's a fortune in sight? It isn't as if I was going to continue in school. I'm through with that, so that expense is eliminated right now."

"What you going to use for money to buy the stuff to make your prize contest plane?" Dix came back at him. "I ain't observed any elimination of any expense so far. Not in this last scheme. Looks to me like it's going to run into money pretty fast, but of course I might be wrong."

"Not only might be, but are. All our material is bought and paid for; most of it, anyway. That's why we haven't got any plane now. Frosty said his before we left Baltimore and we used the money to pick up bargains in parts all the way to St. Louis. That's how strong Frosty is for this competition. He's in to the last white bean and we've still got the motor to buy. And a plane to test the currents here and to stall off anybody that happens along and gets curious."

"Well, we can go into that later," Dix said, and looked at Mart. "About using this shed—I'll think it over. I don't see how——"

"You leave that to us, my boy." Chuck reached out and slapped Dix rather hard on the back. "We'll make what alterations are necessary ourselves. You and the boys won't need to give it a thought."

"The hell we won't!" blurted Mart, turning a peculiar shade of purple. "O, don't think we are too ritzy to don the faded overalls and toy with a hammer and saw. Frosty and I will give you a perfect example of honest toilers in action. Just consider the shed remodeled into a workshop for two competitors in a hundred thousand dollar safety contest."

"Safety contest!" choked Mart and looked imploringly at Dix. "Safety! By godamighty!"

"You're not air minded, Mart. That's what ails you," Chuck stated with conviction and started for the spring pool. "Come on, Frosty, let's take one nose dive anyway before we forget it. Gram will certainly have words to remark if we fail to show up with our heads wet after all that talk we made about a swim."

While the two stripped for their plunge into the lukewarm, transparent water of the pool, Mart and Dix withdrew into the shed for a conference. Black braids frowsled and rock dust on his overalls, old Tom sidled out from a crack which had opened slowly in the back wall where the mangers stood; a six foot section of wall and manger pushing outward like a huge door.

"Filium gap," Tom announced in a guttural undertone. "I think mebbyso hell-to-pay bimeby."

"Hell to pay right now if yuh ask me," Mart grunted. "What y' goin' to do about it, Dix?"

"What can I do?" Dix stood leaning against the side of the doorway where he could look both ways. The shouts and splashing in the pool punctured his words and his desperate thoughts. "Wedge that door shut and let 'em have the shed, I guess. I don't know what else."

"Yeah, and what about that stock we got t' move?"

"I can't see as there's anything about it. We sure can't move it now while they're here. I wouldn't take the chance."

"You leave that to me an' Tom."

"They aim to be here all summer, by the looks. How about them beef steers we just worked over?"

"They'll have to stay there, far as I can see."

"An' what about them yearlin's we was goin' to feed back to the range?"

"Nothing about 'em!" Dix looked ready to strike Mart in the face. "You two just forget about Lost valley, you hear me?"

"Git hold of yourself, Dix. You can't afford to stampede right now. Why don't yuh take Chuck off to one side and tell 'im? I would. Hell, it was for him you done it——"

"Don't talk like a damn fool. No, I'll come back tonight and spike that door shut. Let 'em go on and use the shed. They never'll get wise to anything, not in a thousand years. We'll have some four year olds to ship, will be the worst that can happen. I'll manage somehow. I've got to. They've got their hearts set on building that airplane here and you know Chuck."

"Yeah, I know Chuck." Mart spat out into the cliff shadowed corral, his eyes turning toward the hilarious uproar at the pool. "Damn right. I know Chuck to a fare-ye-well. I know that between him an' Owen Gray they'll make a hum outa you, Dix——"

"Say, that'll be about all from you!" Dix's gray eyes flashed fire. He walked away straight backed and with his head held stiffly erect and stood beside the pool with his lips pulled into a grin and his mind registering no part of the jibes flung at him by the two human porpoises diving and struggling together naked in the pool. And after a moment or two of that ache of his hurt compelled him to speech.

"I'll ride on back," he shouted, still grinning. "I've got things to see to. You fellows come when you get ready."

Dix went over and pulled his horse's reins off a crooked bush where he had looped them, lifted them over Coaly's head, thrust toe in the stirrup, and went into the saddle like a man of sixty. He was pulling open the upper pasture gate before he really sensed his surroundings.

There it was, the nine hundred foot jagged brown wall of rock that held his secret safe from prying eyes. All around and beyond, the mountains thrust themselves high into the cloud-flecked blue. Backed against the wall stood the shed that had been his insurance against discovery; ringed around by the high, stout pole corral, the poles purposely set so near together that one must ride close to look through the interspaces and see clearly what was within. And faintly to his ears came the shouts of Chuck and Frosty. It wasn't their fault that they had come with their own plans and enthusiasms and smashed the deep and carefully laid plans of Dix. It wasn't right to blame Chuck for that. Mart was just too pinheaded to see any sign of a subject save the one that concerned his own pocket or his own skin.

And yet Dix had to admit Mart struck a true note after all. It was to make a doctor out of Chuck that Dix had first ridden with a long loop. And Chuck had never had any intention of being a doctor. Chuck had taken the money and used it as he saw fit, to play the game of life in his own way. And the bitter irony of it all lay in the fact that Chuck's way of playing the game seemed likely to push Dix over the edge of the precipice.

"Well, I can't holler," Dix muttered as he reined Coaly around in the trail and started homeward. "I laid myself liable. Whatever happens, I guess I got it comin'—but I sure ain't going to spoil Chuck's game for him. Come hell or high water, Chuck's going to make a flyer—if that's what he wants."

That night Chuck slept untroubled in the middle of Dix's bed and Dix lay on the front edge staring out at a black, swaying branch of the cottonwood tree against the purple background of the sky and thought and thought without seeming to arrive anywhere with his thinking. Frosty was down occupying the extra bed in the bunk house and Dix wondered now and then whether Mart was sleeping the sound sleep of the unjust or whether he, too, was lying awake with his thoughts.

Good morning!

This Edna Ferber-George S. Kaufman-Jed Harris satirical comedy, relative to the life and works of a family of actors, is supposed to have been written around the Barrymores, and the Barrymores—Ethel especially—are said to have been very mad over what they deemed no less than a caricature of themselves. However that may be, a grand play has been developed into an impishly clever and highly entertaining altalker.

At the start you have the feeling that the movie is going to be tepid as compared to the play. And never, I thought, does Ina Claire convince you that she is the "greatest" actress she's supposed to be. The charming comedienne is a little light for the rôle. But after a few minutes the action gains momentum, Miss Claire grows on you, being deft, lovable and pretty, and after Fredric March zooms in—John Barrymore to the wave of a long forefinger!—your contentment is complete. You have got fun and you are getting an eyeful of some rare mummery, conducted under adroit direction. Certainly Henrietta Crosman's impersonation of the "queen mother" is a treat none of us will forget.

There are three generations of Cavendishes in this "royal family"—Fanny, Julie, and Gwen. There was a fourth in the play—Gwen's baby—but I suppose Ina Claire didn't want to be a grandma. Anyhow, she doesn't look like one. Fanny knows and gloats over the fact that she is bound, soul and body, to her beloved theater. Julie yearns between rehearsals, hectic home life and performances for peace and the harbor of a safe and happy married life. So does Gwen. Julie has her chance for it—and the golden prospect, brought close to hand, loses all its glamour. Gwen marries—and decides she must have the theater too.

The play's finale showed the great-grandmother dedicating Gwen's baby to the "royal family's" tradition; but there being no infant in the picture—something else happens.

The piece is ebullient with rich humor. It is a colorful, sympathetic and understanding study of trouper temperament. It is clean cut, witty, spontaneous and constantly and mirth-provokingly successful. It is beautifully produced.

The "royal family" take themselves with tremendous seriousness—but why shouldn't they? The old world is pretty dependent on the theater for a number of things and the folks who make up the cosmos of the theater matter more than most of us ever stop to think that they do.

A vital, pulsating, thrilling movie—"The Royal Family." I hope you'll see it.

Hayes.....John Loder
Drake.....Claude Fleming

KIND: Underworld "meller."

ACTING: Good in the main, with Helen Ware, that fine stage trouper, giving far and away the best performance.

PHOTOGRAPHY: Not bad.

DIALOGUE: Unimpressive.

DIRECTION: Better than the story.

STORY: Susie is a queen of the underworld, loved and feared by gangsters. "Plank down your rods!" she says, and they plank down their rods. "Make up and be friends!" she commands, and rival racketeers shake hands and call each other "Buddy." What is her strange power over these men! A little bit of good in every bad little boy and Susie brings it out. She herself cares not a whoopla for anybody save young Dick Rollins, whom she's raised from a pup and loves like a son. Does she feel badly when he falls for a chorine? She sure does. She feels much worse when, to save her honor . . . Mary's, not Susie's . . . the chorine murders a theatrical man and Dick takes the rap for her.

Paul Revere's Earlier Ride Finds Booster

Boston to Portsmouth Dash Is Praised.

Concord, N. H., Feb. 3.—(AP)—And now New Hampshire offers the information that the first battle of the revolution was fought in the Granite state, not down at Concord, Mass., and Paul Revere's first ride was from Boston to Portsmouth, N. H., and not through Massachusetts' "Middlesex villages and farms."

Maj. Otis G. Hammond, director of the New Hampshire Historical society, is the authority for New Hampshire's claims. He bases his claims on letters written to Gen. William Gage, British military governor of Boston, by Gov. John Wentworth of New Hampshire back in the revolutionary days.

If Maj. Hammond is right, Paul Revere brought to Portsmouth's minute men the "cry to arms" which influenced Gen. John Sullivan and 400 patriots to attack and seize the royal stronghold, Fort William and Mary, on Dec. 14, 1774, four months and five days before the firing at Concord bridge of "the shot heard 'round the world."

Revere's midnight gallop to Boston suburbs in April, 1775, was all well enough in its way, Hammond admits, but he insists that the ride to Portsmouth, in view of its circumstances and its consequences, was the most momentous of all the exploits of the much-storied Boston silversmith dispatch bearer.

Maj. Hammond contends that the successful storming of Fort William and Mary at Portsmouth harbor by the Granite state volunteers set aflame the torch of active rebellion in the colonies and resulted in the capture of powder, small arms, and cannon which were later used with telling effect in the battle of Bunker Hill.

The documentary evidence, brought forward by the Historical society director today in support of his Paul Revere exploit, has been unearthed in the course of Hammond's recent nation-wide study incident to his compiling of a biography of New Hampshire's fighting Irishman, Gen. Sullivan.

Charlie Chaplin came to town yesterday. Not as the comedian who twirls a cane, walks toeing out in shoes twice too large, and wriggles a mustache, but as a business man in a gray business suit. The women admirers among the half hundred who glimpsed him at the Dearborn street station upon his arrival from California on the Santa Fe Chief thought him a lot handsomer in real life than in the old custard pie throwing days.

Charlie was proud of two things: That he composed the music for his new comeback in the movies, "City Light," the first nontalker to emerge from Hollywood in a long time; and the fact that Scientist Albert Einstein was his guest at the world premier of the film the other night.

"There we sat," related Charlie, "a scientist and a clown, laughing at the picture. It was very amusing."

The comedian was anxious that folks should understand that this new picture may be a nontalker but it isn't silent. The music he wrote forms the background for the film, and is his very first effort at composing, he explained.

Stell Andersen and Silvio Scionti Give Two-Piano Recital

Stell Andersen and Silvio Scionti, who for several seasons have been giving recitals of music for two pianos, appeared at Kimball hall last evening. The frequent reproach that there is not enough music for two pianos to make up a full size repertoire would seem not to apply to them, for if the supply of actual two-piano music is limited, there are many persons willing to make arrangements for the two instruments.

Thus, Louis Victor Saar arranged the Vivaldi Concerto Grosso in D minor, Lee Pattison did the same for the Chopin Rondo, there are variations by Saint-Saëns on a theme by Beethoven; and Ernest Hutcheson tried his hand on Mendelssohn's Scherzo from "A Midsummer Night's Dream" and the Rakoczy march.

All this was played, as well as a group in the actual two-piano mold by Arensky, Castelnuovo-Tedesco, and Saint-Saëns. The two artists played with much spirit and good teamwork, generally clearly, though sometimes, as in the Bach Invention in F, losing some of the extra contrapuntal tracery added with considerable ingenuity by the arranger.

Mary Wigman Here Again.

THE STAGE

JANE COWL'S engagement at the Harris theater in two plays under the auspices of the Dramatic league of Chicago will be arranged as follows:

"Art and Mrs. Bottle," three weeks, from Feb. 23 to March 14.

Shakespeare's "Twelfth Night," one week, from March 16 to March 21.

The league issues this bulletin of advice to its patrons:

"Subscribers to the first three weeks who may prefer 'Twelfth Night' will be transferred into the fourth week, and fourth week subscribers who may prefer 'Art and Mrs. Bottle' will be transferred into the first, second, or third week, as they may desire. Subscribers who wish to see Miss Cowl in both plays may have the advantage of the subscription rate for such extra seats as they wish to purchase. Seats for the general public will not be placed on sale for either play until the subscribers have made their transfer and had the opportunity to select their extra seats."

Marika Cotopouli, an actress from Athens, who has been called the foremost tragedienne of Europe, will appear at the Studebaker theater next Sunday and Monday evenings, giving "Elektra" and "Stella Violanti" in her native tongue. She made a favorable impression on New York audiences recently. Descriptions of her acting recall Mimi Aguglia, a Sicilian actress who toured the United States about fifteen years ago.

Al Jolson and forty-four others have begun rehearsals of "Die Wunder Bar," the operetta from Germany which has been mentioned in dispatches so often during the last year that it already sounds like a great show. Among Mr. Jolson's assistants in his return to the stage will be Rex O'Malley, Patsy Kelly, Adriana Dori, Gustave Rolland, Jean Newcombe, Vernon Steele, Adrian Rosley, Arthur Treacher, Henry Crosby, and Mohammed Ibrahim. The première is scheduled for five weeks hence at the Bayes theater, New York. The producers are going to keep right on calling this show "Die Wunder Bar," apparently with the idea that American playgoers ought to be able to understand a German pun.

"As You Desire Me," which was shipped to New York after its Chicago engagement under the auspices of the Dramatic league, appears to be a Broadway hit. It opened at Maxine Elliott's theater a week ago, and is now said to be running neck and neck with "Tomorrow and Tomorrow," not far behind the leader of the playgoer's schedule, which is "Grand Hotel."

The name of John Drew Colt, Ethel Barrymore's seventeen year old son, now appears on the programs of "Scarlet Sister Mary," at the Harris theater. He is assigned to the rôle of Nero, a character without a word to say. It is not theatrical custom to list a nonspeaking part on the program of a play, but Miss Barrymore decided that her Jack's name should be printed in order to make official record of his stage debut. Later on she may ask Julia Peterkin and Daniel Reed, the authors, to write two lines into the manuscript in order to justify Jack's existence on the playbill.

The lively little actor named Ernest Truex, who was the Kinesias in the New York company of "Lysistratra," will have the central rôle in a comedy from the German called "Napi," which went into rehearsal this week. The original title was "Napoleon the Second." Mona Smith, who played the deceitful secretary in "Ladies of the Jury" for a night or two at the Blackstone, will be the leading woman. Others in the cast are Henry E. Dixey, Max Figman, Frieda Inescourt, and Beatrice Blinn.

"Dizzy World" Bishop Says, Taking Throne

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

The Rt. Rev. George Craig Stewart was enthroned in the bishop's chair of the Episcopal diocese of Chicago yesterday morning. The ceremony took place in St. James cathedral before the delegates to the 94th annual convention and a congregation that filled the edifice.

In his charge to the diocese that followed the enthronement ceremonies Bishop Stewart declared the position the Episcopal church must take to meet the needs of a "dizzy world." He first drew a line between opinions and convictions. He said the latter have been tested both by individual and general human experience.

"These invincible surmises," Bishop Stewart said, "are asserted age after age and triumph over doubt. Defeat them in this part of the field and they reappear in another; force them in this age down in the valley of apparent humiliation, in the next age their banners are flying upon the mountain tops."

Universal convictions of all religion, Bishop Stewart summarized in nine affirmations. They are:

"The existence of God.

"The dignity and responsibility—and therefore, to some extent—the freedom of man.

"The dependence of man upon God, and therefore the necessity of grace. This may appear in the lowly form of magic 'mana' or in its modern form of the influence of person upon person.

"The necessity and efficacy of prayer.

"The indestructibility of beauty, goodness and truth.

"The imperishable splendor of vicarious suffering.

"The heroism of suffering patiently endured.

"The redemptive value of sacrifice.

"The final triumph of the soul over death and in some mysterious way it shares its life with the Eternal."

Bishop Stewart declared Christianity takes all these convictions and "sharpens, illuminates, enriches and elevates them by bringing them all into focus in a life of such surpassing intellectual moral and spiritual splendor that He can be called both perfect man and perfect God.

"I can express my own deep conviction that all of modern science and philosophy, all modern psychology and sociology, and political sciences, ethics and esthetics are but italicizing the sanity and solidity of the convictions which constitute the Christian faith."

The new bishop asked this diocese to look toward the establishment of a million dollar endowment fund for missionary work in the diocese of Chicago. He pointed to the $4,000,000 endowment of the Congregational church in Chicago as an example and stated the Episcopal church has but $15,000 annually for promotional work in the city and outlying suburbs. He then asked for the appointment of two archdeacons whose work would be under his direct supervision. This number, Bishop Stewart said, would some time be raised to five. He urged the establishment of a home for retired clergymen.

Red Cross Assisted by Smaller Gifts; Letters Tell Interest

Small gifts poured into the Chicago chapter of the American Red Cross yesterday as an echo of the report on Monday of the generous contributions to the $10,000,000 American Red Cross drought relief fund from corporations and wealthy individuals. These brought the Chicago area's total toward its $940,000 quota to $375,000.

"Here is our check for $12, which represents January's fifth week in our budget," wrote one family. "Please accept it and use it for the relief of drought sufferers. We wish we could give more but this is one-third of our week's salary."

From a north shore community came $2 with a note from an employed young woman as a thank offering for having a job in times of unemployment.

BEG YOUR PARDON!

An item in THE TRIBUNE stated that William Matlock, 8089 South Green street, was suing for a divorce. Mrs. A. Howard of that address states that Mr. Matlock has never lived there.

SOCIAL ADVANTAGES, HIGHER EARNINGS AIM OF COLLEGE STUDENTS

Syracuse, N. Y., Feb. 3.—(AP)—Why has young America gone "college mad"?

At Syracuse university 3,515 students have given answers in a questionnaire.

For general improvement in culture and ideals.

Because a person with a college degree can obtain a better position and earn more money.

Because a person with a college education has more prestige and a higher social position.

Only an average of 20 in a hundred said they entered college because parents wished it, only eight in a hundred because of the social attractions or athletic opportunities of college life, and only five in a hundred because so many friends and relatives had gone to college.

Punishment May Get Children "All Mixed Up"

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

Suggestions for curing speech defects will be sent by Mrs. Bevans on receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

They were little chaps—only about 3 years old—and they were visiting.

Every object came in for its share of their attention. But when they began to investigate the new Christmas portable typewriter which was within reach, their aunt, who was in charge of them, remonstrated. But one of them kept going back to it again and again, and finally his aunt, in desperation, slapped his hands. This meant tears and a sad little face, which was too much for the hostess.

"Here, I'll take him on my lap," she said, "and put a piece of paper in and show him how to tap the keys. He can't possibly hurt it."

The young daughter of the family, about ten years old, who had been watching the scene with great interest, spoke up:

"No, don't, mother," she said, "you'll get him all mixed up if you do."

And it would have gotten the small boy all mixed up. Slapped one moment for touching the typewriter, and then allowed to play with it the next. How could he have understood what it was all about? The little girl who was looking on had a head on her shoulders.

And there's many a mother who would do well to keep her mind that much at work when she is laying the foundations of obedience.

How can we expect obedience of a child who is confused by prohibition one moment and indulgence the next; who is allowed to do a thing a dozen times without reproof but is punished for it the thirteenth time; who is not led to understand why some things are permissible and some are not; whose parents show an utter lack of consistency which bewilders him completely?

We can't expect to gain obedience by those means. Yet many parents do expect it, acting as though they could be unreasoning and arbitrary in their own demands, and yet expect sweet reasonableness in their children.

We need to do two things to keep a child's mind from confusion—to be fair, and to be intelligent in trying to gain obedience.

A FRIEND IN NEED

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Need Twin Baby Carriage.

"In an extremely large family where the father has been out of work for many months and is now employed only irregularly, there are twin babies, not doing well because the mother hasn't been able to take them to the infant welfare. I feel sure some generous reader of your column will gladly donate a twin buggy so the mother may take the babies to the welfare.

"F. D."

Carrying two infants, even though the welfare station is within walking distance, is a task not easily accomplished.

A Pathetic Letter.

"I wonder if you could help me get some clothing we need badly. I don't care for myself, but I cannot bear to see the children suffer. The boy, 5, needs a coat, shoes, everything. The girls, 7, 9, and 16, have underwear and shoes, but they need other clothing. My boy, 12, and the girl, 16, need clothing, too. Anything you can get for us will be greatly appreciated. MRS. M. S."

With the unselfishness characteristic of mothers, Mrs. M. S. thinks only of her children. Will you help to put her mind at ease by giving the garments her sons and daughters need so badly?

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

Feared Man with an Ax.

One night the doorbell rang as I was adding the final touch to my makeup. Because I was late for my engagement and wished to dispense with this business—whatever it might be—quickly, I did not turn on the porch light.

Just as I opened the door I caught the flash of a steel blade. This was a time for quick action. The man, undoubtedly, had an ax over his shoulder. No man with an ax over his shoulder on a dark night was healthy to have around. I slammed the door and leaned weakly against it. Where was the key? The door must be locked before that person out there could get in.

Finding my voice I called my mother. By the time she came all I could manage was incoherent phrases so she opened the door to see for herself.

In walked our next door neighbor. Imagine my embarrassment to find that he had come over to chop some wood for us and I had slammed the door in his face and then nearly had hysteria. P. J.

"Glass Houses" Lecture Title to Start Series

BY THALIA

MAYBE there isn't any double entendre to "Glass Houses," the subject of the address Frank Lloyd Wright is going to give a week from Friday night, but don't you think it's a priceless title? The Association of Arts and Industries is giving a dinner in his honor at the Blackstone crystal ballroom that evening, and he is to speak thereafter, Dr. Ferdinand Schevill of the history department of the University of Chicago doing the introductions. The affair, for which invitations have just gone out, is "the first of a series of lectures to be given by the association this spring on modern architecture, interior decoration, painting, landscaping, etc. by outstanding men in each subject."

All of which brings to mind the tendency now prevalent to be proud of our fair city. So many visitors have been telling us what a grand, progressive place this is that we're beginning to sit up, take notice, and believe it. Almost everybody who comes here launches into encomiums of the architectural beauties of our buildings, and dinner conversations frequently turn to telling what this age and that said about Chicago. People whose business necessitates their taking up residence here are promptly won over, even though they admit they crossed to settle in a new place. Guess maybe Chicago is pretty nice.

Wherein Fashion Notes and Society News Are Mingled.

You would have enjoyed seeing . . . the simply lovely evening ensemble of wine red velvet that Jean Stevens wore to Earl Carroll's "Sketch Book" the other night [it is long and flared at the hem, and its short, fitted coat is banded all round the edge with golden brown fur]. . . . Ruth Page at supper at the Tavern after her and Jacques Cartier's recital on Sunday—she was wearing an engaging and unique outfit of a brick or henna knit jersey—I think it was—and her chapeau was of the same material, a pleasantly careless little affair, something the shape of a stocking cap . . . the easy little blue felt hat with a double brim and a jaunty bright feather sticking up in the back that made little Mrs. Columbus Healy wear. . . .

Line from a Phoenix correspondent —"The William Wrigleys' new house is a gorgeous big mansion on a mountain top near the Arizona-Biltmore, the grand hotel about 9 miles from Phoenix. Philip Wrigley has built three houses on the golf course of the Biltmore, for what I don't know."

Traveling and such . . . the Chauncey McCormicks went to Florida to visit Mr. McCormick's father, William McCormick . . . the James C. Hutchins are back from a week in New York City and are planning to stay put in Chicago until Easter vacation, when they'll likely go to Hot Springs with the children . . . the William A. Yagers are departing next week for Phoenix, and later will go to California, to be away about 2 months in all . . . George Lott Jr., the tennis champion, was best man for another such, John Hope Doeg, whose marriage to Miss Dorothea Scudder in Newark last Friday was an important eastern one . . . Mrs. Harold C. Strotz is back from Florida . . . Mrs. Marshall Blair is returning to New York the end of this week after a visit here as the guest of the Hayden Harrises.

More of same . . . the John F. L. Curtises of Lake Forest and town registered a few days ago at the Huntington in Pasadena . . . Mrs. W. W. Avery of Lake Forest has been visiting in Kansas City . . . Jean Stevens didn't go to Lake Placid with Barbara King, Jeannette Peterkin, and Betsy Johnston, but probably will go to Florida some time soon . . . Mrs. Peterkin and Jeannette are sorta planning on going to California and Honolulu a little bit later on . . . the Albert D. Laskers are now vacationing at Miami Beach [I hear tell that the Laskers have had a talking picture theater built on their estate, and that it seats about 40 people] . . . Mrs. Frederic McLaughlin has been in New York City undergoing an operation. . . .

Just try and keep track of the George M. Lytton family's whereabouts. Rosemary still is traveling about in Africa, Mr. Lytton and Mrs. Lytton Benello are here in town, the latter just recuperating from the flu, and Mrs. Lytton is down at the Lytton place on the gulf coast. She has with her Mrs. Benello's young son, and as guests, Mr. and Mrs. Victor Beaufort.

Giving Public School Pupils Ideas of Variety in Art.

Mrs. Walter S. Brewster asks for a mention of the Chicago Public School Art society's annual meeting and luncheon to be held on Saturday, Feb. 14, at the Arts club. Lewis E. Myers, president of the board of education; William J. Bogan, superintendent of schools; Frederic C. Bartlett, and Chester Johnson will be guests of honor.

There will be brief talks by Mr. Bogan and Mr. Bartlett, and Mrs. Brewster will make her annual president's report. The society's principal aim, to quote from Mrs. Brewster's report of last year, is "to set right esthetic standards for the generation upon whom the future of Chicago depends by placing fine color reproductions of fundamental pictures of all schools and periods in class rooms, libraries, and corridors."

Cotton Blouses Lead Spring Fashion Ranks

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special Correspondence.]—The Paris couturiers and the French cotton manufacturers have formed a "big alliance," which means that cotton will advance to the foremost ranks of fashion this coming spring and summer. Cottons in wool weaves that look like serges, twills, and diagonals will be used for tailored suits. Flowered muslin and dotted Swiss trimmed with lace will make smart afternoon dresses.

Already smart Parisiennes are wearing batiste, organdy, or dotted Swiss blouses to lend crisp freshness to their dark wool, silk, and even velvet suits.

Lucile Paray uses white eyelet-embroidered muslin for the tunic blouse of the black crêpe marocain suit sketched here. The blouse is a slip-on. Circular flounces form its peplum, edge its short sleeves and decorate its front. The rolling collar of the embroidered muslin is encrusted yoke-fashion at the top. A tailored belt of white suede defines the natural waist.

Fullness is given to the black crêpe skirt by inverted plaits set into a front panel. The upper skirt fits smoothly over the hips and it has a circular peplum at the top. This fashion of putting a peplum on the separate skirt, by the way, is smart this spring.

The simple, collarless jacket of black crêpe, shown on the small figure at the right, has a surplice closing. A tie belt of the crêpe blouses it at a slightly lowered waistline. Two circular ends inserted in a cut back of the left shoulder give it a softening scarf effect. You can see how it's done on the small figure at the left.

Food Talk.

The environment in which I was reared never gave any opportunity for developing a food idiosyncrasy. All the foods which were put on the table were served on the plates and we were expected to eat, as the old saying went, "What was put before us." I have never regretted that coercion, if you will call it that. The ability to eat any kind of clean food has always come in good stead. I do regret, however, that there was that one vegetable which grew in our garden that we never learned how to use. It was garlic.

Garlic must be used with discretion. One can't be too generous. It imparts a very fine flavor to salads when it is used sparingly. Either rub the bowl in which the salad is to be served with a clove of garlic (one of ten or twelve subdivisions in a bulb) or, better still, use what French people call a chapon. To prepare a chapon, take a small cube of soft bread and insert a clove of garlic in it. Leave this for some time until the bread is thoroughly impregnated with the flavor. Then remove the clove and put the bread into the salad bowl, only taking it out just before serving. This will flavor the salad enough, but not too much for the most fastidious taste.

If it is more desirable to have the garlic flavor in the French dressing than in the salad, add a small cut clove of garlic to the other ingredients (pepper, salt, sugar, acid, and oil) and shake vigorously. The clove may be left in the dressing until ready to serve.

Just a little garlic adds a delightful flavor to stuffings for duck or goose. And many soups, sauces, and pickles are improved with the flavor.

FRENCH DRESSING.

½ cup olive or other salad oil.
¼ cup vinegar.
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon sugar
⅛ teaspoon pepper or paprika.

Place ingredients in small covered bottle or glass jar. Chill thoroughly. Just before serving shake vigorously 1 or 2 minutes.

French dressing may be varied in many ways. Here are some variations: In place of vinegar, use red wine vinegar, lemon juice, or half vinegar and half lemon juice.

Add a few drops of onion juice or 1 teaspoonful finely chopped shallot, or shake a cut garlic clove with the dressing, removing it before serving.

Add ½ teaspoon dry mustard.

Season with tabasco or other table sauce to taste.

Etchers' Display Brings Several Britons Prizes

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

THE Chicago Society of Etchers has a comprehensive showing of fine prints in the current exhibit of etchings in the print rooms of the Art institute. Although the prizes went to English etchers chiefly, yet Americans have some of the best work in the gallery. There are prints from as far off as China and as near at home as Chicago. This is the one time in the year when current art from everywhere is gathered for our inspection at the Art institute.

One of the most effective of the many pictures of the Tribune Tower with its confrères is found in Leon R. Pescheret's "Chicago Towers." The Fourth Presbyterian church, which has not been etched as often as its beauty would seem to call for, is another interesting print by Mr. Pescheret. Frank W. Raymond offers a subtle moment in "Indecision," a game of chess. Margery Ryerson shows a delightful child portrait in "Bunty." Bertha E. Jaques submits Jack in the Pulpit in his May dress and the berries he wears in August. Both etchings are excellently handled with the sureness of technique that comes only with a familiarity with one's tools and subject.

R. W. Woiceske shows two superb etchings of winter. "White Magic" is a marvelous rendering of the exquisite beauty of the birch tree. "Deep in Winter" is a forest mantled in snow. From these we turn to the four capital prints by Lee Sturgis and the exhilarating "The Big Drop" by Ralph Fletcher Seymour, and the delicate stone traceries of John Taylor Arms. Frank W. Benson delights us with a tantalizing "Chickadee" and H. Emerson Tuttle gives us a good moment with his finely drawn "Two Yellow Legs." Diana Thorne quickens our enthusiasm with her virile, jolly "Nigger Heaven."

The Mr. and Mrs. Frank G. Logan bronze medal with $100 was awarded to "Reading Room" by Stanley Anderson; the Logan second prize of $75 went to "End of the Day" by Harry Morley, and the Logan third prize of $50 was given to "Mound of the Fortress" by Doris Boulton. Seven prints, so far, have been purchased for the Art institute collection. The prize of $50 given by the Chicago Society of Etchers for the best print by one of its members was awarded to "New England Winter" by Kerr Eby.

Countess of Suffolk Lands in U. S.; Going to Florida

New York, Feb. 3.—[Special.]—The Countess of Suffolk, daughter of the late Levi Z. Leiter, Chicago millionaire, today arrived on the Acquitania. She is a sister of Joseph Leiter and of the late Lady Mary Curzon. It is partly business in connection with her inheritance that brings the countess here. She said she would not go to Chicago before the end of March or possibly in April. She will leave for Florida on Saturday.

"Customer Can Be Wrong" Urged as Safe Trade Slogan

New York, Feb. 3.—(AP)—A modification of the old slogan "the customer is always right" was suggested to the National Retail Dry Goods association today by Harry W. Schachter of Louisville, Ky. "A store must assert itself where it is in the right," he said, "and refuse to allow customers to take advantage of the return privilege, as so many of them do."

Wife, Left Alone Evenings, Asks Doris for Advice

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"My husband and I were married for four years, during which time he never took me out a single night. Well, I left him, but went back when he promised to do better. Lately he has been up to his old tricks of going out night after night without me. He's supposed to be at a meeting, or with men friends, but I don't like it.—M. M."

The man must have a terrible cravin' to be on the go, foot loose and fancy free. One lesson in desertion doesn't seem to have effected a cure. A second one probably will do no more good. Of course, with a record of four years of being the girl the man forgot, evenings, I can't surmise just what the chances of reforming him will be. But maybe if you didn't make an issue of the question, it might help. Maybe if you just handed him his hat and coat, evenings, and appeared a bit anxious to have him be gone he might get suspicious and think there was something up, that he'd better either stick around, or take you out along with him.

But if you drew one of that kind of nighthawk in the matrimonial grab bag you do require a lot of patience. On the other hand, if you love the man enough to make a second trial at living together, why don't you try pretending you don't care if he does leave you alone?

Why don't you see if you can get some woman companion for the movies and go out with her when you feel you must get out somewhere?

Is it possible that you jaw and nag and that's why the man leaves you behind? Or, maybe, that you aren't as decorative as he'd like the woman he goes out with to be? You want to find out, first, just how much of this neglect may be due to your own self. There may be no grounds for such charges against you. You may just have on your hands one of those men who wants his marriage certificate handed him with loose reins and no responsibility appended to the document. In which event you'll just have to let his other virtues outweigh his faults. Only I'd stop nagging about the going out nights. I'd tell him to bring his men friends home some time.

Color of Skin Most Important Factor in Choosing Powder

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Actually, what must you consider when you are buying your makeup materials? Is it eyes, hair, or skin that has most influence on the purchase? Is it the dress you wear that has to be taken into account?

Women who are most adept with makeup simply consider everything—eyes, skin, hair, and dress. Personally I do not think the hair affects or is affected by cheek and lip rouge, or face powder, unless one adopted so extreme a shade that everything would look startlingly different.

But eyes may be "washed out" alongside or near a highly colored cheek. They may be given a sickish look near some of the orange tones that have been tried adjacent to them. A mauve powder, an odd choice for the particular woman wearing it, was observed to do something queer to a pair of paleish eyes.

And the color of dress worn has to be taken into account. A vivid dress tone may alter the entire effect of the rouge on the cheeks. But that's not surprising when you realize how certain shades of green, red, yellow, or orange will bleach, dirty, or tone down the color in your hair. If it can do that to hair, you may be sure that the cheek color will catch it on the way up, too.

After all is said and done, it is the actual color of the skin that is the most important factor. The other features, though important under certain cosmetic color circumstances, are not as vitally affected as is the skin surrounding the touched up areas. So, women should become familiar with the real skin coloring they possess, and let this knowledge be employed in rouge choosing.

There is always some exposed part to show the real skin coloring, as under the eyes, at the outer edges of the face where even powder does not always reach, and on the neck and other spots where makeup is absent.

RICH GRANDMA CALLS ALLEGED HEIR FOUNDLING

Washington Society Agog Over Henderson Suit.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 3.—[Special.]—It began when Mrs. John B. Henderson of Washington's turreted Henderson castle began feeling sorry for homeless Vice Presidents of the United States, and now all Washington society is wondering what is truth and what is wandering fancy in the story that Mrs. Beatrice Henderson Wholean, is—or is not—an adopted grandchild, is—or is not—the legal heir of the 90 year old dowager.

When Mrs. Henderson, a few days ago, offered the government a mansion at 2437 15th street to serve as the residence of the Vice President, Mrs. Wholean filed suit asking that her grandmother be removed as trustee of the estates of the grandfather, John B. Henderson, and of Mrs. Wholean's father, John B. Henderson Jr.

Regarded as Grandchild.

Washington society unquestioningly had regarded Mrs. Wholean as the grandchild of Mrs. Henderson, believing the story that she had been born to the junior Hendersons in 1906 near Ballston, Va.

Society was startled when Mrs. Henderson replied to the suit asking her removal by revealing the fact that Mrs. Wholean had been adopted as an infant. Mr. and Mrs. John Henderson Jr., had wanted an heir. None appearing, they had procured one from a foundling home, sworn three servants to secrecy, and produced the child as their own. Not even the supposed grandmother knew the truth until one of the servants, during a quarrel, let the story out.

But the sensations did not end there. For Mrs. Wholean, who had been told of her status before her marriage to Joseph E. Wholean, an automobile salesman, in 1927, produced a six year old court record showing that the elder Mrs. Henderson had adopted her and made her her legal heir.

Denies Adopting Her.

But neither was that the end. For Mrs. Henderson declared today that she knew nothing about the court record, saying:

"I did not adopt Beatrice and if there are papers to that effect in court, I don't know anything about them. Trixie is a fine little girl, but she is not my granddaughter."

John B. Henderson, former senator from Missouri, is dead. So is his son, John B. Henderson Jr., and his daughter-in-law, Mrs. Angelica Shyler Crosby Henderson. Two of the three servants who were in the secret died. The only one who knows the truth is the third old retainer, who declares Mrs. Wholean once was a foundling. Mrs. Henderson insists she will fight the suit of the woman she insists she did not adopt. And Washington society continues to gossip.

MAL DAUGHERTY SAYS NOT GUILTY AS EMBEZZLER

Trial Is Delayed Until Monday.

Washington Court House, O., Feb. 3.—[Special.]—Demurrers filed to sixteen indictments by the defense in the case of Mal S. Daugherty, former president of the Ohio State bank, who is accused of mishandling the bank's funds, were overruled here today by Judge Charles S. Bell.

Daugherty then pleaded not guilty to all of the sixteen indictments.

The trial, which was scheduled to begin Thursday, was continued until next Monday so a deposition could be taken from Clyde Sharp, former bank examiner, now living in Ada, Okla. Pleas of the defense for further postponement were denied.

After Judge Bell had ordered 48 veniremen to report Monday and 30 others on Tuesday, he adjourned court, then proceeded to rearrange the equipment of the courtroom to better advantage in preparation for the trial.

Daugherty, a brother of former United States Attorney General Harry M. Daugherty of Columbus, was indicted on the sixteen counts, charging embezzlement, misapplication of funds and falsification of the bank's accounts on Oct. 13, 1930.

The indictments were returned by the Fayette county grand jury in connection with its special investigation into the circumstances surrounding the failures of the Ohio State and the Peoples and Drovers banks here last summer.

Immediately after the indictments, Daugherty surrendered to Common Pleas Judge H. M. Rankin and was ordered held under $40,000 bond, which later was signed by his brother and his mother.

County officials said the indictments were based on the findings of Cecil L. Hall and Frank G. Schaeffer, Cincinnati accountants, who went over the banks' books at the prosecutor's request. Of the missing money, Daugherty is alleged to have misappropriated $34,000.

Daugherty gained national reputation in the senate's Tea Pot Dome oil lease scandal investigation when he refused to allow the bank's records to be scrutinized. Missing accounts and pages in the bank's books were alleged to have been destroyed by Daugherty and he was cited for contempt of the senate.

Paint Factory Bombed; Damage Set at $5,000

A bomb was exploded last night in a window leading to the engine room of the John Lucas & Co. paint factory at 1362 West 37th street, causing damage estimated at $5,000. Windows in adjoining houses and factories were broken by the blast. Luther Davis, 3741 South Winchester avenue, the watchman, said he saw no one leave the scene immediately after the blast. C. A. Doyle, 562 Oakwood boulevard, the factory superintendent, could give no reason for the bombing.

DO-X DAMAGED BY WAVE; MAY BE LAID UP 15 DAYS

LAS PALMAS, Canary Islands, Feb. 3.—(AP)—The giant German seaplane DO-X lay at Gando bay, near here, tonight while mechanics attempted to repair damage suffered when a big wave struck the ship as she was taxiing for a takeoff this morning.

Experts here believed it would be at least fifteen days before the plane could resume the flight to Porta Praia, Cape Verde islands, the second leg of a projected journey to Brazil.

The part damaged was the under structure. One report indicated another complication through the faulty functioning of two of the twelve motors. Capt. Friedrich Christiansen attempted to taxi from Gando bay to Las Palmas today, but after a short cruise over the rough waters he decided to return to Gando bay.

Puts Head in Shaft to Look for Elevator; It Kills Him

James J. McCormick, 17 years old, 6930 South Morgan street, was killed by an elevator in the building at 326 South Wells street yesterday. The youth was on the second floor. Apparently he opened an elevator shaft door and thrust his head in to see if a car was descending. At the same instant the elevator struck and decapitated him.

FORMER U. OF C. STAR RETURNS TO ALMA MATER

H. O. [PAT] PAGE.

H. O. [Pat] Page, who resigned last month as football coach at Indiana university, has been appointed assistant coach at the University of Chicago and on April 1 will return to the Midway where he was star athlete and coach from 1906 to 1920. Announcement of the appointment was made last night by Vice President Frederic Woodward of the university. Director A. A. Stagg, who is in Florida, recommended the appointment of Page before he went south.

Page will have faculty status, his appointment being that of assistant professor of physical culture.

Will Be Assistant.

When it became known a few weeks ago that the position as one of Mr. Stagg's assistants had been offered to Coach Page, some reports erroneously assumed that he was to come to Chicago as successor to the director. Last night's announcement emphasized the fact that the question of the successor to Mr. Stagg is in no way involved in the present appointment.

Stagg was anxious to obtain Page as one of his assistants because of the need of an experienced man to coach the Maroon line, and the appointment was made effective for April 1 in order that he could assist with spring practice.

In accepting the appointment, Page said he was happy to return to his alma mater.

"I am glad to come back to Chicago to work with Mr. Stagg again," he said. "Having been with the Old Man as a player and coach for years, I know and admire his principles and I have the greatest admiration for his ability as a coach. He is the outstanding figure in college athletics and it will be fine to be back with him. I regret leaving an unfinished job at Indiana, especially because I believe I had football there on the upgrade, but I am sure that Chicago offers a fine field for honest endeavor."

Coached Baseball Champions.

Page came to Chicago as a student in 1906 and was one of its most famous athletes. He played end on the championship teams of 1907 and 1908, and in 1909, as captain, was quarter back on a team that lost only to Minnesota. He was a guard on the conference basketball championship teams of 1909, and 1910. He was a star pitcher on the baseball team for three seasons, his pitching being a big factor in winning the championship of 1910. Page's fame as a hurler brought him numerous offers from big league teams.

As baseball coach at Chicago he took two teams to Japan, winning 17 straight games in 1910, the first time a foreign team made the trip to the orient, and twelve consecutive games in 1915. In 1913 his team, which included Baumgartner and Des Jardiens, won the conference championship. He was also a successful basketball coach, his 1919 team winning ten straight games, and taking the championship the next season.

He left Chicago in 1920 to go to Butler as athletic director and coach of the four major sports, where his teams were highly successful. He became head football coach at Indiana in 1926.

Teams Noted for Upsets.

Despite strenuous schedules and mediocre material, his teams have been notable for "upset" victories. His 1928 team won the only victory Indiana ever has achieved over Michigan. In 1927 Indiana tied Minnesota to prevent the Gophers of a championship. The Hoosiers defeated Northwestern three out of the last four games. Last season Page wound up his career with a surprising victory over Purdue.

Title Fight Irks All but Joe Public

BY ARCH WARD.

Editorial and political leaders preach that it is an encouraging sign when a public becomes steamed up and downright indignant about great issues.

Whether a heavyweight championship prize fight as an issue rates with drought relief, the Wickersham report, or influenza, we are not prepared to say. Two weeks' absence from the office tends to make one lose his sense of values.

But we are pleased to detect indications of indignation over the proposed Schmeling-Stribling match for Soldiers' field. The trouble is that the promoters, would-be promoters, and fighters apparently are the only ones exercised about the matter.

George Getz, a member of the Illinois boxing commission, complicated the promotional work of Madison Square Garden and the New York Milk Fund by his recent utterance that the proceeds must go to a Chicago charity. The Chicago Stadium corporation threatens legal action to block the match and Edward J. Kelly, president of the south park board, which controls Soldiers' field, said he personally objected to renting the stadium for boxing enterprises, particularly when proceeds go to foreign charities.

All this has been disconcerting to the New York promoters and they are reported to be losing patience with Chicago. They hint that they might go so far as to take the bout away from the lake front and give it to Detroit, Cleveland, or Jersey City, where the citizenery is more appreciative of big civic uplifts. They are said to be very indignant.

Ordinarily these goings-on would serve as good ballyhoo, but for some strange reason they have failed to stir up even a mild flurry of excitement in the loop. Nobody seems to know much about Schmeling except that he won his title while lying on his back after taking a sound drubbing and he doesn't play backgammon. Record books show he defeated Johnny Risko, a second flight heavyweight who has been whipped by Mickey Walker, the middleweight, and Paulino Uzcudun to earn a championship bout with Jack Sharkey. Stribling, in popular estimation, is the best of a mediocre crop of pachyderms, but he is no Dempsey or Tunney when it comes to attracting business to the bucks office.

Chicago is the best site for a big boxing match. The 145,000 who paid upwards of $2,500,000 to see Tunney whip Dempsey will stand as evidence. But a Schmeling-Stribling fight is a different bowl of porridge.

National hysteria over heavyweight boxing passed with those Dempsey and Tunney fellows. You can trace this condition to the fouls, fakes and frauds which have sent the customers into the night air jibbering in an incoherent rage. The only guarantee you receive when you lay down your $20 for a ticket to the present day heavyweight bout is that it will be no worse than you feared. Once in a while an erratic beak buster will cross you up, like Stribling did the night he knocked out Otto Von Porat, but this does not occur often enough to occasion any widespread annoyance.

As a consequence business has dropped off sharply. Even the wrestlers are outdrawing the glove dusters.

By the way, when do the Cubs leave for Catalina?

FARGO EXPRESS DERAILED.

The career of Billy Petrolle, the derailed Fargo Express, is one of the most amazing in ring history. A broken down fighter 18 months ago, he fought his way back until he was the terror of two divisions. Then when it looked like he was sure to win a world's title he awoke yesterday to find himself on a siding, far off the main line to a championship. He was knocked out by King Tut in 24 seconds in a bout at St. Paul.

Cuts and bruises about the eyes nearly cost him his sight a year ago last summer. At 23 he was almost convinced his fighting days were over. He announced his retirement. He was out of the ring only six months when the battle fever seized him again. He campaigned in the hinterlands, winning ten straight bouts before he crashed into the big time against against

BELATED WHITE SOX DEALS MAY SOON BEAR FRUIT

Lemons or Peaches Will Be Known in Few Days.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Hope of further strengthening the White Sox continues to gurgle in the bosom of Manager Donie Bush. He's coming to town in a few days from his home in Indianapolis for a final conference expected to result in bolstering two of the three weakest positions on the club.

While the swapping business usually is considered at a standstill at this period of pre-season skirmishing, Mr. Bush is said to have high hopes of landing an outfielder and an infielder, each of whom will be regulars if they are acquired.

Considerable secrecy surrounds the deal for the outfielder but rumors have been persistent that Lew Fonseca, champion batsman of the American league two years ago, and still a young man, will wear a Sox uniform this coming summer.

Sox, Giants Play 17 Games.

Vice President-Treasurer Lou Comiskey of the White Sox is in charge of the White Sox front office in the absence of his father and Secretary Harry Grabiner, and with Manager Bush will conduct the Chicago end of the suddenly revived negotiations.

Manager Bush also is expected to report on the result of a recent confab he had in Havana with Manager John J. McGraw of the New York Giants.

The Sox and Giants, who will play 17 exhibition games against each other, are being urged by minor league managers sponsoring their appearances to play night games in the parks regularly equipped with arcs. Like the Cubs and Pirates, the Sox and Giants have turned thumbs down on the idea with one exception. The two clubs will clash in an evening game at San Antonio, their training base, the date to be March 14, 15, 28, or 29.

Hope to Boost Gate Receipts.

This will be one of the first night games played by two major league teams and there is hope of steaming it up on this basis, added profits going to San Antonio interests.

And speaking about the Cubs and Pirates shying at the night game idea in their joint exhibition series on the coast: It was reported that Pirate bosses were all set to become very indignant and refuse to play any night games, either with the Cubs or Mr. Wrigley's Los Angeles outfit when President Veeck arrived in Pittsburgh and calmed the situation by the simple announcement that the Cubs days ago had abandoned the idea of staging some of the Los Angeles contests at eventide.

DON'T DELAY

Loyola Conquers Centenary, 24-19; Last Home Game

Loyola university, in its last home game of the season, defeated Centenary college of Louisiana, 24 to 19, in a whirlwind finish at the Loyola gymnasium last night. The southerners started the evening with a fast rushing attack and it took the Loyola zone defense some time to control the speedy assault.

Butzen, aided by Cavanaugh, put Loyola in the lead at half time by a 16 to 13 margin.

At the start of the second half Loyola advanced the score to 21 before the southerners could collect a marker. From then on rough play was evident and with 12 minutes to play Butzen went off the floor with an injury. Centenary moved the score up within four point of a tie but Loyola stalled its way to victory. The game ended with Capt. Waesco sinking a free throw.

Butzen and Capt. Waesco were outstanding for Loyola, while Nolan, with five baskets and two free throws, starred for the losers. Lineup:

PLAY DE PAUL TONIGHT.

De Paul university will seek its ninth basketball victory of the season tonight when the Blue Demons meet Centenary college of Shreveport, La., in the De Paul gymnasium.

De Paul has lost Heine Coan, star forward and leading scorer, who was called to his home in Sioux City, Ia., where his father is seriously ill. Coach Kelly has shifted Tony Larites to Coan's place for tonight. Larites is a sophomore sensation, but he lacks the experience of Coan. Stix Powers, floor leader, will play the other forward. Johnny Ascher, center; Joe and Bud O'Connor, guards, complete the lineup.

The Centenary five will not be able to match the Blue Demons in size, but the southerners have a veteran lineup. Dan Finch and Earl Nolan promise to be the chief menaces to the De Paul record.

Irish Outclass Indiana for 25-20 Victory

Bloomington, Ind., Feb. 3.—[Special.]—Notre Dame's superior passing and floor work enabled the Irish to defeat Indiana, 25 to 20, in a rough basketball game here tonight.

Indiana fought desperately in the last half and threatened for a time to overcome the Irish lead.

Bob Newbold, one time Rushville High school star, playing a roving forward for Notre Dame, came through five times from the field and thrice from the free throw line for a total of 13 points, the high scoring for the game.

Before the half ended a spurt brought Indiana to within one point of its rivals. Notre Dame led, 9 to 8.

Newbold's field goal, quickly followed by his free throw, started the scoring. The Irish forward did much toward enabling the Irish to keep ahead all during the game. Capt. Decook, Notre Dame, was ejected from the game during the closing moments when he fouled Veller as the latter sped under the basket. It was Decook's fourth personal foul. Veller was injured so severely in the crash that he, too, had to leave the floor.

HARVARD CUTS 1932 SCHEDULE TO SEVEN GAMES

Cambridge, Mass., Feb. 3.—(AP)—Harvard's 1932 varsity football schedule was reduced from eight to seven games today by the committee on the regulation of athletic sports.

Athletic Director William J. Bingham, who announced the first curtailment Harvard has made in its football schedule since 1922, said the committee's action was not influenced by yesterday's athletic upheaval at the University of Pennsylvania.

CHICAGO TO SEE ANOTHER PRIMO IN STADIUM BOUT

But Johnson, Gallagher Head Card Tonight.

BY FRENCH LANE.

For a few seconds last night it looked as if José Santa, the big fellow from Portugal who in some respects is larger than the Giant Carnera, might take a punch at the chin of Nate Lewis, slim, bald headed matchmaker for the Chicago Stadium.

When Mr. Lewis announced that the bout between Larry Johnson, the big Negro from Chicago, and Marty Gallagher, a great huge tough guy from Washington, D. C., would be the headliner on tonight's boxing show at the Stadium, Señor Santa fairly frothed.

"Who am I to play second fiddle to such mugs?" Señor Santa buzzed into the ear of his interpreter.

"I know you're a great man, but I don't know who the other mugs are," shot back the interpreter. "But please don't sock Mr. Lewis," implored the interpreter.

Crowd Admires Hat.

Señor Santa was finally soothed into submission after those who had gathered to see the impromptu struggle between him and Matchmaker Lewis began to admire the ten gallon hat Señor Santa was wearing.

Then it developed that Santa has one advantage over Carnera. He wears a No. 10 hat, according to Mr. Stetson's measurements. "This Carnera fellow can get a six and three-quarter hat over his knob," explained Señor Santa to his interpreter.

So Señor José, on his bulk and his wallops, may steal the show at the Stadium tonight, but he will have to bow as far as the importance of his fight is concerned to Johnson and Gallagher. Gallagher is the toughest fellow Johnson has ever met, explained Matchmaker Lewis, and the Gallagher followers are wagering even money that Johnson does not knock his foe down once during their 10 round mêlée.

Oster Meets Ebbetts.

The card for tonight's show, which appeared to have been riddled when Tony Canzoneri, the world's lightweight champion, pulled out for the east after his bout with Goldie Hess of California was cancelled, was completed yesterday. Hess became ill with "flu" at the eleventh hour.

And when Willie Oster was matched with Harry Ebbetts of Brooklyn in the substitute combat the fans warmed up to the show. For if there are two knockout kings among the boys who have not quite reached the limelight they are Oster and Ebbetts.

Each has won his last five fights by a knockout. If Señor Santa doesn't rock Mr. Knute Hansen to sleep, or if Larry Johnson and his foe, Marty Gallagher, do not knock each other out of the ring, either Oster or Ebbetts should uncork a punch that will provide a big moment for those at the ringside.

Carnera Weighs More.

Santa did not work yesterday. He was afraid he might lose a pound or two. He hopes to enter the ring weighing around 260 pounds, and it made him mighty jealous when he learned that Carnera weighed 265 when he fought Rioux in the same ring a year ago.

Señor Santa's chest puffed out to the exploding point when informed that he stood at least an inch taller than Carnera did the night Carnera smacked Rioux to sleep.

"Muscle and beeg brains," chattered Santa into the ears of his interpreter at the same time tapping himself on the head. The Señor speaks some four or five languages, but can't say much to make himself understood in Chicago.

In the fourth 10 rounder Georgie Nate, a Hoosier who has been coming to the front very rapidly lately, faces his first great test when he squares away against Kid Francis of Paris. Nate can punch. Past performances show that Francis is a marvelous boxer. Plenty of Hoosier fans will be at the ringside to cheer Nate along.

Pegler Plans Contrast for Jones' Movie

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 3.—Having seen something in the papers to the effect that Bobby Jones, the great amphibian of golf, who is neither amateur nor pro but something of both, intends to enact a series of moving pictures illustrating all that is best in the game, I wonder if there is not a chance for me to make a deal for a companion or rival series to illustrate all that is worst.

It might be necessary for me to prove my claim to this job, but I am willing to undergo any reasonable test against any field at a distance of, say, one hole, which I believe would be sufficient to prove everything. After the third or fourth hole, I sometimes slide a little off my game and have a tendency to catch hold of one and smack it one beautiful paste, due to pressure.

The field, of course, should be limited to persons having handicaps of 35 or more, and as far as I am concerned, it would be all right to include ladies, as I am rather bashful, and if there is any time when I am a little worse than others it is when there are ladies around, particularly those slim, rope-colored blondes who come along behind, go through and smack them a furlong after just one fiddle-and-hitch. However, I am pretty consistent so I do not demand this, and any contestant who thinks I might have an unfair advantage has my permission to make it strictly a stag affair.

Not only medal scores, but form in execution should count in this championship, for, as is so often remarked of football games where Harvard licks Yale or vice versa, my score, though it runs into five figures, does not tell the complete story. That shot with the midiron where I shatter my own flask with the clubhead on the back swing is only one shot, but the skinny numeral would not convey the picture and the sum of my putts, while it might be taken for the clearing house statement, gives no idea of the originality and tremendous action of by stance and stroke.

After I have vanquished the field, including a man from Chicago by the name of Woodruff, who challenged me last summer when I lost so easily that it was practically no contest, there might be some difficulty about the matter of the sound effects to go with this series. Mr. Jones, I understand, intends to remark a few appropriate phrases before and after each of his demonstration shots for the films, but I have a feeling that the advance of liberalism has not yet gone far enough to permit me freedom of expression for the remarks which I would be likely to let fly. For this, however, we could get a comic artist to draw some balloons full of dingbats, asterisks, and expressions like "well, I'll be a——" and "what the——."

Not meaning to knock a rival in this field, I must say that I cannot see what the Warner Brothers expect to use for their appeal to the customers in this Jones series because improvement is not achieved by telling people what to do, but what they must not do. All the moral lessons of the dramatic moving pictures are taught by presenting temptation, sin, and retribution, not by stories of virtuous happiness, and Mr. Jones' perfect golf would be nothing but one continual happy fadeout, a little of which goes a very long way, as is shown in the act that these shots occur only once per drama.

It might be a good idea for me to

N. L. Cover Heavier Than in A. L.

New York, Feb. 3.—[Special.]—Taking the first official step yet made by any one in authority to reduce the lively character of the so-called jack rabbit baseball, the National league, at its annual spring meeting today, adopted a ball calculated to put a decided curb on the home run epidemic which has swept the major leagues in recent years. The American league will use a similar ball.

JOHN A. HEYDLER.

According to President John A. Heydler, who produced one of the new balls after the meeting, its essential difference from the sphere that has been bouncing over fences in the past lies in its covering, which has been made heavier. In addition to this the stitching is now raised instead of being countersunk, as heretofore.

In all other respects, however, the ball will remain the same and no further changes whatever are to be made at any time during the 1931 playing season.

Leave Cork Center Alone.

"In offering this ball for our approval," said Heydler, "the manufacturers explained to us that the inside of the ball as now constructed represents the best baseball ever manufactured and that should any tinkering be done with its cork center to reduce its liveliness, it might seriously affect the general fine qualities of the ball. It was therefore found that the only change feasible was to put on a heavier covering, though the total weight and size of the ball, of course, remains the same.

"This heavier covering, it is believed, will slow up the ball to some extent, but the greatest advantage to the pitchers is offered in the raised stitching which will enable them to get a much firmer grip on the ball."

Usual Schedule Ceremony.

The character of the new ball explained, President Heydler then went on to announce that the league had adopted the 1931 playing schedule.

No changes, it was announced, have been made in the league's staff of umpires. The list includes Robert M. Clarke, Louis Jorda, William J. Klem, George L. Magerkurth, Charles B. Moran, Ted McGrew, Charles Pirman, Earnest C. Quigley, John E. Reardon, Charles Rigler, James Scott, and Albert D. Stark.

A. L. CHANGES STITCHES.

The American league will use a baseball with a heavier stitch but with the same cover weight as before, President Ernest S. Barnard said yesterday.

The thread will be coarser so that the pitcher can get a better grip on the ball and so that the ball will have greater wind resistance. The thread used on the old balls, President Barnard said, helped the ball to cut through the wind and travel farther.

Thus the balls used by the two major leagues will be alike except that the American league ball will have the same cover, while the cover in the National will be thicker.

An attempt to change the ball in the American Association failed, however. President Thomas J. Hickey of the class AA circuit canvassed club owners, but when only two answered, he dropped the proposal.

CUBS OPEN AT HOME

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

The Cubs will be able to complete much of their travels next season before the approximate half way mark, July 4, arrives. The league schedule, always a sure sign that baseball action is just around the corner, is made public this morning and it shows that Chicago possible pennant winners are slated for only 31 games at Wrigley field before fire cracker day.

The allotment of home battle numbers 77, so this means the Cubs can enjoy 46 arguments on their own grounds after the race really squares away. Moreover, they play here from Sept. 6 to the end of the race on Sept. 27, meeting in that time the four eastern teams and the Pirates and the Cardinals. As the Cubs are practically invincible in their own back yard, there won't be much chance to nose them out of the fall series unless the rival contenders attend to this detail before Labor day.

Open at Home April 14.

The scarcity of playing days at Wrigley field before July 4 is due to the fact that the date makers again have adopted the scheme of having two East-West series in the seaboard sector before the half-way post is reached. The Cubs, after opening at home April 14 with the Pirates, play the other western entries both here and abroad, and on May 9 start their first eastern invasion. This continues through May 21. Then they go east the second time on June 13 and close in Philadelphia on July 2. From there they jump back to Chica-

BRITON CLAIMS 265 M. P. H. PACE IN AUTO TRIAL

Rain, Wind Halt Official Run by Campbell.

Daytona Beach, Fla., Feb. 3.—(AP)—High wind and poor visibility on the ocean speedway here today prevented Capt. Malcolm Campbell, British driver, from making an official attempt on the world's land speed record of 231 miles an hour, but in an exhibition run he claimed he reached a speed of 265 miles an hour.

Campbell claimed on his southward run he attained a speed of 260 miles an hour before he entered the officially measured mile course. "My tachometer registered 265 miles an hour some distance north of the beginning of the measured course, he said.

Sand Obscures Vision.

"About a quarter of a mile before I reached the measured mile my gear slipped out and I coasted all the way through the mile in neutral, without any power, at 194 miles an hour.

A cold wind blew out of the north all day and whipped white sand from the dunes out over the course. Campbell said he couldn't tell whether he was on his regular course or up near the soft sand close to the dunes.

The visibility also was extremely bad and a light drizzle of rain fell at intervals. Campbell said, however, that beach conditions were the best he had ever seen.

Hundreds of shivering spectators lined the nine-mile course to watch Campbell's exhibition run in his 1,450 horsepower Bluebird.

Plans Test Today.

Low tide tomorrow occurs about 3 p. m., and Campbell said he hoped weather conditions would improve sufficiently to permit an official attempt to lower the record at that time.

He was confident his car could break the world's straightaway mark, established here in 1929 by the late Sir Henry Segrave, also of England.

ENGLEWOOD AND HYDE PARK SPLIT ST. MEL VICTOR

Hyde Park and Englewood, traditional athletic rivals, divided a [illegible] league double header on the former's court yesterday, the home heavies winning their third league victory, 34 to 16, while the Englewood lights took a 27 to 15 decision.

St. Mel heavies continued their march to the north section championship of the Catholic leagues by invading St. Patrick's gym for their fifth straight victory, 30 to 22. The St. Mel boys made it a pair by winning, 23 to 19, with Leahy's eight points leading the scorers.

It was not until last fall, however, that he established himself as a welterweight title contender by knocking out Jimmy McLarnin, the lad whose body punching ruined the career of Sammy Mandell. His astounding victory was one of the great battles of modern boxing.

It is a strange coincidence that the man who forced him into retirement a year and a half ago was the same who toppled him out of the front ranks at St. Paul Monday night.

BRUIN FIVE TO START KINTZING AGAINST TOLEDO

A team that made basketball history under the colors of the old New York Celtics will take the floor in Toledo toggery against the Bruins tonight in the feature game of the card at the Broadway armory.

The last meeting between the Bruins and Toledo at the armory brought a two point victory for the Chicagoans due to an early lead. The same lineup of Barry, Banks, Cunningham, Dehnert, and Lapchick will battle for Toledo.

A victory for the Bruins tonight will brighten their title chances considerably and in order to place the full operating strength of the team on the floor Manager Halas will start Kintzing, one of the defensive aces of the league, at guard with Ray Kennedy. Murphy will show at center with Wickhorst and Borgeman, the league's two leading point scorers, at forwards. Miller and Bramball also will see action during the night.

J. P. I. GIRLS' FIVE DEFEATS I. W. A. C. BROWNIE, 24 TO 21

BY BETTY ECKERSALL.

The Jewish People's institute basketball team defeated the Illinois Woman's Athletic club Brownies, 24 to 21, last night at the I. W. A. C. It was the first victory the institute has scored over the I. W. A. C. in nine years.

By superior passing and adroit signal play the Brownies led, 15 to 7, at the half. Then A. Goldstein, substituting for M. Christensen of the J. P. I., changed the course of events, speeding up the game and scoring three baskets and a free throw in the last half.

The score was tied, 20 to 20, at the end of the third quarter. C. Hull, left forward for the Brownies, was put out of the game for having four personals, and her sister, L. Hull, took her place. Lineup:

STAR SKATERS TO MEET TOMORROW AFTER HAWK TILT

A series of speed ice skating events sponsored by the Chicago Blackhawks for amateur skaters and the first appearance of a new Chicago player, Roger Jenkins, will feature the game between the Hawks and the Philadelphia Quakers at the Stadium tomorrow night.

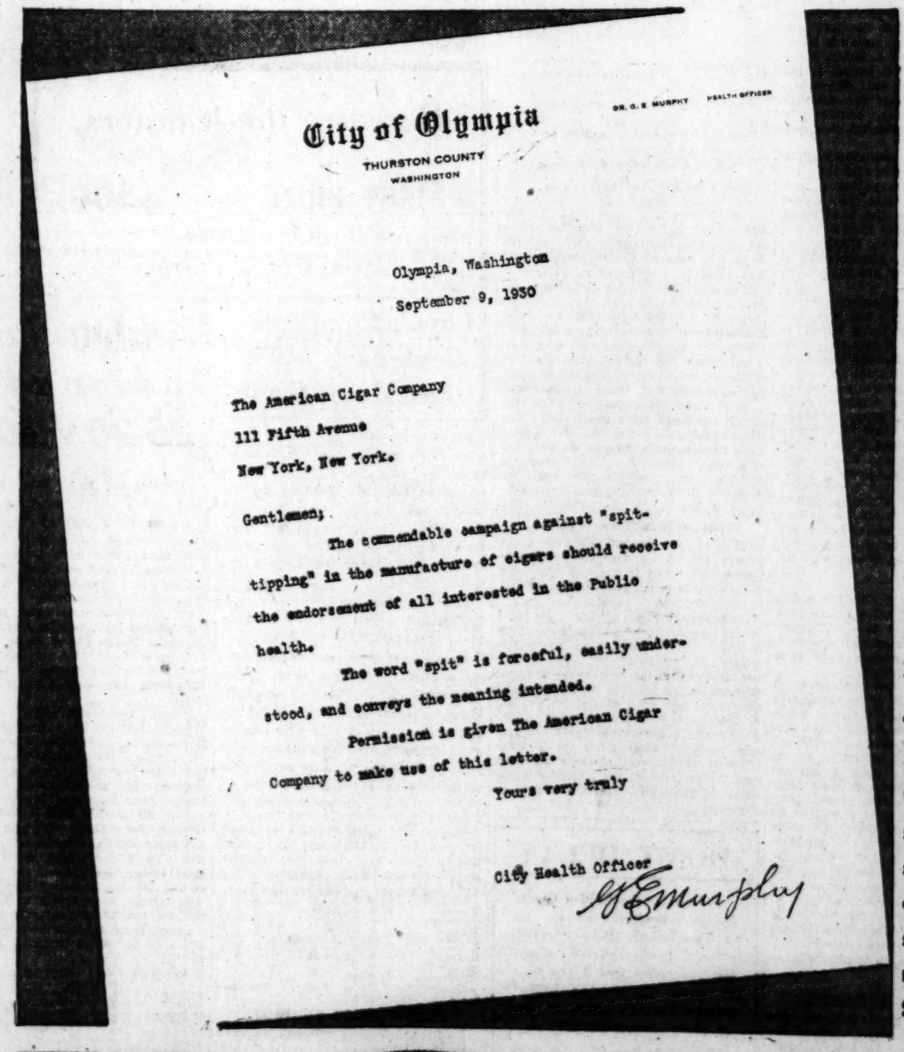
The speed ice skating events, five in number, will include races for all classes of amateur speedsters, in which some of the best racers in the city, including winners of THE TRIBUNE Silver Skates Derbies and national champions, are slated to compete.

"The Word 'SPIT' ...Conveys the Meaning"

Says

DR. G. E. MURPHY

Health Officer, Olympia, Washington



DR. G. E. MURPHY HEALTH OFFICER

City of Olympia
THURSTON COUNTY
WASHINGTON

Olympia, Washington
September 9, 1930

The American Cigar Company
111 Fifth Avenue
New York, New York.

Gentlemen;

The commendable campaign against "spit-tipping" in the manufacture of cigars should receive the endorsement of all interested in the Public health.

The word "spit" is forceful, easily understood, and conveys the meaning intended.

Permission is given The American Cigar Company to make use of this letter.

Yours very truly

City Health Officer
G. E. Murphy

...one of 56 health officials from 56 different points approving Cremo's crusade against spit or spit-tipping.

Every smoker, every wife whose husband smokes cigars, should read Dr. Murphy's letter.

"Who are the friends of 'Spit'?"

YOU MAY WELL ASK THIS QUESTION WHEN 56 IMPORTANT HEALTH OFFICIALS HAVE WRITTEN SO STRONGLY AGAINST THE EVILS OF SPIT OR SPIT-TIPPING.

The war against spit is a crusade of decency. Join it...Smoke Certified Cremo—a really wonderful smoke—mild—mellow—nut-sweet! Every leaf entering the clean, sunny Cremo factories is scientifically treated by methods recommended by the United States Department of Agriculture.

Pegler Plans Contrast for Jones' Movies

shoot most of the footage and then, for the climax, let Bobby Jones step up for just one brief shot of perfection. It makes no difference to me what they do, because my act is such a picture of struggle, misery, and failure that almost any runnerup in a club tournament could step up to the tee just before the finish and supply the contrast of the happy ending, but Jones makes the game look so easy that his stuff alone is certain to set the customers yawning.

I have watched Mr. Jones shoot a great many holes of golf in the big tournaments and I feel that he kills his show because golf never gives him a struggle. It is not particularly interesting to watch a man read a book, either, because there is nothing about the performance to suggest how very difficult it would be for the man to read the book if he didn't know how to read. Yet, to read a book is quite a feat. I well remembered the excitement in the country the first time a prizefighter read a book.

I don't believe my act needs much pleading, but one further advantage which I would mention is the fact that I play practically stationary golf, spending a long time in each place and moving only in ten foot stages except on the drives which go as far as thirty yards when I am off form and catching then a little too squarely.

Contrary to the popular superstition, walking is not a healthful exercise as it causes fatigue and moreover, Mr. Arthur McGovern, the trainer, states that most of the professional golfers in time become paunchy, due to constant walking. Mr. McGovern is the young reformed pugilist who appears in the rotogravures about this time every year, poking a finger up to the elbow of Babe Ruth's abdomen, under a caption reading "That must go." And he states that most habitual golfers get fat after some years, because this walking causes all their machinery to fall down into one place.

"They walk miles and then they drink coffee," Mr. McGovern states. "The walking exhausts them and the coffee keeps them awake so that they can't repair the exhaustion. It would be much better to sit around and drink highballs as a man who has drunk a number of highballs has no trouble going to sleep at once."

I am planning to go into intensive training, at once, sitting around and drinking highballs, although I may say that I have always kept my hand in at these allied sports never knowing that I was promoting my health.

Augie Kieckhefer Whips Nate Marblestone, 50-38

RAGO MAKES 3D BID FOR GOLDEN GLOVES CROWN

Plans to Turn Pro if He's Successful.

Lawrence Rago, better known among the amateurs as Toots, will make his third effort to win the Golden Gloves welterweight championship this year. Rago came close to doing it in 1929 when he finished third. Last year he was eliminated in the sectional trials by Joe Rehling. Toots will represent Howard's gymnasium this year.

He has had more than 300 fights since he started boxing three and one-half years ago and has lost only 34. Rago spent two and a half years at Senn high school. He lives with his father and brother at 27 East 116th street, and is 20 years old.

"When I win the Golden Gloves diamond prize, I'm turning pro, but not until I do," he said last night.

Another Golden Gloves entrant, Walter Palm, who was born in Dalarne, Sweden, 22 years ago came to this country when he was seventeen years old. He started amateur boxing three years ago and has become one of the best middleweights in Chicago. Monday night he won a three round decision from Bobby Groshek of Hammond at Marigold Gardens. When he is working—he's out of a job now—he is a steel worker. He lives alone at 6311 Drexel avenue.

Word comes from George W. Loftus, director of athletics of the Nelson A. C. at 3345 North Clark street, that unattached boxers entering the Golden Gloves tournament may train in the Nelson gymnasium free of charge.

The Gary A. C. of Chicago has entered Eddie Marek, Bohemian lightweight champion of Chicago, in the west side trials at the Ashland Boulevard auditorium. This will be Eddie's first tournament since he started fighting two years ago. He has the distinction of never having been knocked out in his 43 bouts. Marek has lost only nine fights in two years. He is credited with 14 knockouts.

The back o' the yards district will be represented by Tommy Murray of 2111 South Parnell avenue. Tommy is just 17 years old, but has had plenty of experience. He reached the quarter final round last year at the Coliseum.

Majors Adopt New Ball to Curb Sluggers

The arrangement which gives the Cubs two eastern journeys during the first half of the race also keeps the eastern teams from being especially prominent hereabouts until after July 4. The first of the seaboard squads to appear at Wrigley field will be the Robins. They are due June 2. The Giants, Phillies and Braves will follow in order up to June 16. The second trip of the easterners will be held between July 14 and 29. Then they will not drop in again until September.

Two Date Conflicts.

As usual, there will be two conflicts in dates between the two majors. Both are billed for Chicago. While the Cubs are playing Pittsburgh here on May 31 and Sept. 6, the Sox will have business of their own to attend to at Comiskey park.

Closing the championship races on Sept. 27 assures an early clean up of the subsequent world series. It will be possible to start the fall event on Wednesday, Sept. 30, or even on Sept. 29. The latter date would be selected only if the winners in both league are determined well in advance of the closing day of the regular season.

BOXING ENTRY BLANK

Please enter me in The Tribune Golden Gloves amateur boxing tournament trials which will be held in three sections of Chicago on Feb. 16, Feb. 19 and Feb. 23. The qualifiers will continue eliminations at the Coliseum on March 2, 3 and 4 against out of town teams. The semi-finals to select the Chicago team of 24 boxers which will meet New York at Madison Square Garden March 30 will be held at the Chicago Stadium March 11.

WINNERS of the $1,300.00 WINGS SLOGAN CONTEST

ON DECEMBER 9th we announced the WINGS slogan contest in Chicago papers. Overnight the slogans began to pour in. And they kept coming up to the very last day, January 15th—witty ones; snappy ones; long ones, short ones; idea plays, word plays. You bet the judges had a real job . . . an interesting job!

Most of the slogans were written with a keen knowledge of WINGS—the popular new air-cooled cigarette. All had to be considered carefully, weighed carefully, before the winners of cash awards were decided upon.

Now the news is out. The judges have reported, after working day and night. And here is the list of fortunate sloganeers who share the $1,300 in prizes.

So many of the thousands of slogans sent in were good that the 1,000 honorable mention prizes of 2 packs of WINGS were increased to many times that amount. And the judges want to thank every single entrant for the time and interest shown in this contest.

Swing to WINGS today. Air-washing makes 'em smooth as cream, cool as a mountain top. You'll see for yourself why this air-cooled smoke stirred up thousands of people to write slogans about it.

Here are the Winners:

Free Mechanical First Aid

A dead battery, fouled ignition points, or a broken axle are a few of the many mechanical troubles that come unexpectedly. Car trouble may find you far from a garage; it may come as you start out in the morning, or it may come late at night, but always it is unwelcome.

One hundred thousand motorists have protected themselves and their families in just such emergencies by means of membership in the Chicago Motor Club. When they are in need of help they call the club. In 1930 members sent in 146,000 calls for free mechanical first aid and towing service. Eighty-seven per cent of the trouble cases were remedied by club mechanics on the spot; the remainder of the calls were tow jobs. No charge is made for mechanical first aid or towing service. Like all other services of the club, this service is free to members.

You are as close to help as the nearest telephone. The service is available at any hour of the day or night.

In Cook county members call the club and the service is rendered by club mechanics. In the sixty-one other counties of the club territory in Illinois and northern Indiana the service is rendered by approved service stations.

In addition to mechanical first aid and towing service, the club provides members with such services as these:

Travel service, which provides you with maps, logs and the most complete and up to the minute advice on road conditions.

Bail bond service, which guarantees your appearance in traffic violation cases where a bond not in excess of $100 is demanded.

Accident prevention work, which seeks to cut accidents, especially among school children, by means of safety posters and schoolboy patrols.

Home district service, which attends to special conditions around your home, such as seeing to it that refuse is promptly removed.

Insurance service, which provides the following features: The valued form policy, which in the event of total loss pays the face value of the policy. Accessories are covered without additional charge. Last year the "exchange" returned cash savings to subscribers amounting to $798,030.12. Automobile insurance sales amounted to $3,989,791.62. The policy issued covers you anywhere in the United States or Canada.

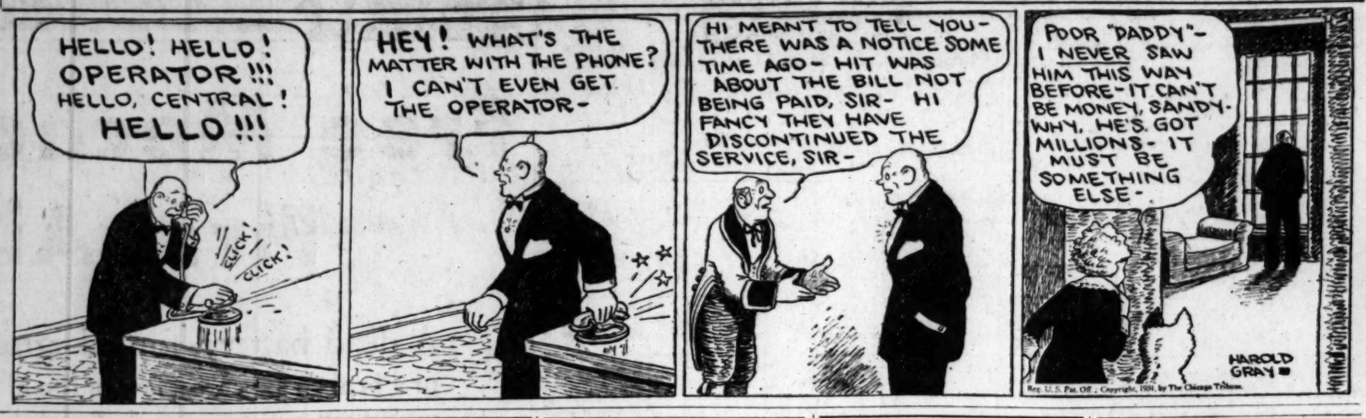
LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: Cut Off



SHEPARD IS GIVEN LIFE; DENIED NEW TRIAL; APPEALS

Topeka, Kas., Feb. 3.—(AP)—An appeal taken immediately after denial of a motion for a new trial tonight was all that stood between Maj. Charles A. Shepard and the beginning of a life prison term for the poison murder of his second wife.

MAJ. CHARLES A. SHEPARD. [Acme Photo.]

Judge Richard J. Hopkins in federal District court late today overruled citations by defense counsel of alleged error in the conduct of the trial of the army medical officer, and imposed the sentence specified by a jury last Dec. 22 when Shepard was convicted.

Judge Hopkins set appeal bond at $20,000. Shepard gave the bond and was released.

The defense was allowed ninety days in which to perfect the appeal.

Shepard, alleged to have killed his wife because of his love for Miss Grace Brandon, San Antonio, Tex., stenographer, stood apparently unmoved as sentence was pronounced. Earlier he had said "We have just begun to fight."

28 BODIES SWING IN WIND TO AWE TURKISH 'REBELS'

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MENEMEN, Turkey, Feb. 3.—Bodies of 28 men, branded as traitors to Turkey, and hanged at dawn for their participation in an attempt to restore Moslem supremacy in an uprising here Dec. 23, swung in the wind at principal street corners today. Awed residents either remained indoors or hurried in frightened groups past the gibbets.

The condemned men were hanged at the exact spots where they had exhorted the population to rise and restore the caliphate on the day of the revolt. The bodies were not cut down until sunset in order to give the population time to read the placards pinned to each one and reading: "Thus end traitors to the Turkish republic!"

Originally 37 were condemned to hang, but parliament commuted the sentences of five and ordered life imprisonment for two. Two others died in prison of fright.

MRS. HESSEMER, CITY PIONEER, IS TAKEN BY DEATH

Mrs. Margaret Hessemer, one of Chicago's pioneer residents, who was driven from her first home by the great fire of 1871, died at her home, 5445 Glenwood avenue, yesterday. She was 83 years old.

Born in Germany in 1847, Mrs. Hessemer came to Chicago in 1863. Her husband, Balthaser, was one of the city's first grocers. The fire drove them from their home at State and Adams streets.

She is survived by six daughters, one son, six grandchildren, and two great-grandchildren. Funeral services will be held Saturday afternoon at Rosehill chapel. Interment will be in Rosehill cemetery.

Blame Mistaken Identity at Inquest Into Shooting

Michael Corcoran, 22 years old, 834 West 54th street, was held yesterday by New City police in connection with the murder last week of Thomas Dudas, 23 years old, a deaf-mute, who was shot outside the Heart Athletic club, 44th and Honore streets. At an inquest into the slaying yesterday Bruno Weisz, 4417 South Winchester avenue, accused Corcoran. Weisz testified that he and Corcoran had had a fight, and that the latter had threatened revenge. The next night as Dudas stepped out of the club he was shot when mistaken for Weisz, according to the witness.

Gastritis 4 Years Gone Now! Feels Like New Man

"I received a sample package of your wonderful ACIDINE," says Douglass Terry of Chicago, Ill. "I had Gastritis four years. I am happy to say I feel like a new man. I have a sweet, pleasant taste in my mouth now."

Almost everyone who takes ACIDINE raves about it. More than two million packages have been sold. It's absolutely amazing the way this new prescription succeeds when other known remedies fail.

ACIDINE is the only known remedy which contains Japtase, that in laboratory tests, digests 800 times its weight of certain heavy, starchy foods which cause trouble. It neutralizes burning acids, soothes irritated stomach linings, stops gassy headaches, sleeplessness and nervousness. No other known remedy contains this combination to end acid stomach. ACIDINE also fortifies you against colds by reducing acidity.

Get ACIDINE today at Walgreen's. Watch how quick acid indigestion, burning stomach, belching, pain, heartburn, dizziness, fullness, short breath vanish. Eat, drink all you want. Maker refunds money if not delighted.

GUY DAVIS NOT INJURED; CASE OF WRONG IDENTITY

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 3.—[Special.]—Guy W. [Tad] Davis, varsity tackle and track athlete at Northwestern university in 1922 and 1923, who now is a business man in Los Angeles, today called attention of Los Angeles police to the fact that he is not the Guy Davis held in the prison ward of Los Angeles county hospital with a head wound. Davis said there had been repeated confusions of identity.

The Davis in county hospital was removed from a room in the Rosslyn hotel last Saturday after police were requested by the management to investigate. The man in the hospital today was too dazed to make a statement.

The former Northwestern athlete, hale and hearty, sat in his offices today and said:

"This is the third time in a year. Last February I received a phone call at 2 o'clock in the morning saying 'Tad' Davis was in the police hospital. I explained at the time the man's name might be Davis, but he could not be 'Tad' Davis. In July a man was shot in an apartment in Los Angeles and the report got out that he was 'Guy Davis of Northwestern university.' I again had to reassure friends.

"There were three telephone calls from Chicago today and I was informed some one had taken steps to wire money to the man in the hospital, thinking I was in need of help."

Mr. Davis also referred to reports given publicity on the basis of the Los Angeles police investigation that the man in the hospital left a wife in El Paso, Tex. "My wife is living with me at our Hollywood address," he said.

WOMAN GUEST HELD TO JURY IN PARTY ROBBERY

Mrs. Ruth Duke Murdock, 848 Eastwood avenue, was held to the grand jury yesterday in bonds of $10,000 on two charges of accessory to robbery. Judge Frank Padden in the felony court ordered the case submitted to the grand jury after testimony was given to show that Mrs. Murdock was an accomplice to the robbery of the guests at the home of Mrs. Christ Bauer, 11400 Normal avenue, Sunday afternoon. Mrs. Murdock was one of the original guests at a party in the Bauer home, and, it is alleged, that she was the informer of the two men who committed the actual crime.

Glenwood Boys' School Gets $60,000 from Estate

Ottawa, Ill., Feb. 3.—[Special.]—The Glenwood Manual Training school at Glenwood, Ill., was left a $60,000 bequest under the terms of the $1,000,000 will of Cary C. Barr, Streator brick manufacturer. A bequest of $40,000 also was left to build a memorial in the Riverview cemetery at Streator for Mrs. Barr. Christ Episcopal church of Streator is to receive $5,000, and St. Mary's Hospital at Streator will receive $2,000. E. L. Middleton of Evanston, C. A. Miller of Orlando, Fla., and James Brennan of Streator, former employés, are to receive $5,000 each.

Grabs Life Line After He Dives in River to Drown

Stanley Klodzniski, 45 years old, 2234 North Spaulding avenue, a salesman, helped frustrate his own suicide yesterday when he grabbed a life preserver thrown to him after he had leaped into the Chicago river from the North avenue bridge. The preserver was tossed by Steve Smith, 1458 Orleans street, bridge tender, who later fished Klodzniski to safety with a boat hook. Klodzniski was taken to the county hospital, suffering from exposure.

RICHARD WESTLAKE, PRINTER AND VETERAN OF CIVIL WAR, DEAD

Richard H. Westlake, 88 years old, civil war veteran, and for many years engaged in the printing business, died yesterday at his residence at 1522 Sherwin avenue. He was born in England, came to America when 5 years old, and lived in Chicago since boyhood.

Mr. Westlake served in the Union navy during the civil war, and afterward entered the printing field. He was employed by the Daily News for more than twenty-five years. Mrs. Westlake was a brother of the late William Westlake, of the early Chicago firm of Adams and Westlake, railroad supplies manufacturers, and father of the late Edward G. Westlake, motor editor of the Chicago Evening Post. He was one of the oldest members of the Old Time Printers' association and the Chicago Typographical union. He was a member of the G. A. R.

Masonic funeral services will be held at the home tomorrow, with interment in Rosehill cemetery. Surviving Mr. Westlake are a daughter, Mrs. John W. Peck of Birmingham, Ala., and a sister, Mrs. Frank Merrill of Maywood.

JESSIE CRANE, 70 YEARS OLD, TAKEN BY DEATH

Mrs. Jessie Doolittle Crane, first wife of Herbert P. Crane and daughter-in-law of the late Richard T. Crane Sr., died yesterday at the Edgewater Beach hotel, where she made her home. She had been an invalid for 15 years.

She and Mr. Crane were married in 1891. Mrs. Crane was granted a divorce decree in 1903. She was the sister-in-law of R. T. Crane, president, and mother of Charles R. Crane II., vice president of the Crane company; also of Valentine R. and Prentiss Crane and Dorothy Crane Maxwell. Mr. Crane in 1916 married Miss Elida Piza of Limon, Costa Rica. They were divorced in 1920.

Mrs. Crane was 70 years old. Funeral services will be held tomorrow at Rosehill cemetery chapel.

MRS. L. A. CARTON; WIFE OF PACKING OFFICIAL, DEAD

Mrs. Edith Thomas Carton, wife of Laurence A. Carton, treasurer and director of Swift & Co., died yesterday at her home at 4923 Greenwood avenue, after a short illness. She was the mother of Alfred T. Carton, president of the Presbyterian hospital, and of Laurence R. Carton, of Baltimore.

Mrs. Carton was well known in social affairs, and was a member of the Fortnightly and Chicago Woman's clubs. She was the daughter of Joshua and Frederica Thomas, and was born in England, and came to America when a girl. She was a resident of Chicago virtually all her life, and was a graduate of the old Skinner school.

Funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock tomorrow at the Kenwood Evangelical church. Interment will be at Graceland cemetery.

M. M. BECK DIES; EDITOR OF PAPER TO THE AGE OF 92

Holton, Kas., Feb. 3.—[Special.]—M. M. Beck, one of the oldest newspaper men in America both in years and in continuous editorial service, died late today after a brief illness from influenza. He was 92 years old on Nov. 22 last, and until Sunday was in his usual health and at his desk in his newspaper office, The Recorder, every day.

M. M. BECK. Associated Press Photo

Mr. Beck was born in Wayne county, Indiana, and as a boy went with his parents to Putnam county. He volunteered from there for the civil war and when he left the army in 1865 was a captain of artillery—18th Indiana battery.

Moving to Kansas in 1869 he went into business and in 1875 he founded the Holton Recorder, with which he was continuously thereafter connected.

Surviving him are two sons, William T. Beck, who latterly has been publisher of the Recorder, and E. S. Beck, managing editor of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, and three daughters.

Dr. Charles A. P. Garnsey, 88 years old, civil war veteran, considered the oldest practicing dentist in Illinois, died yesterday at his home at 1844 Ashland avenue, Evanston.

Dr. Garnsey was born in Rock Island. When 20 years old he enlisted in the Chicago Board of Trade battery, and served in southern military campaigns. He was wounded at Farming, Tenn. He began the practice of dentistry before his enlistment, and continued in active work until recently, establishing a state record for duration of active professional service. For the last 35 years he had offices in Evanston. Dr. Garnsey was a member of the John A. Logan post, G. A. R. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Ada Garnsey, his second wife, and three children.

Mrs. Mary Esher Knobel Rites Will Be Tomorrow

Funeral services for Mrs. Mary Esher Knobel, daughter of the late Rt. Rev. John J. Esher, Evangelical bishop and a civic worker of early Chicago, will be held tomorrow at 2:30 p. m., at the Knobel home, 6300 Kenmore avenue. Mrs. Knobel was 81 years old and had lived in Chicago all her life. Mrs. Knobel's husband, for many years secretary of the Illinois Children's Home and Aid society, died a few years ago. The survivors are a son, John Esher Knobel of New York, and three daughters, Mrs. David Robertson, Gratia Esher Knobel and Elizabeth Knobel. Burial will be at Graceland cemetery.

BEWARE OF COLDS!

"ONLY a cold." What a stupid remark! For every cold is a threat—a warning. Every hour makes you more miserable—weakens your resistance—makes it easier for your cold to develop into something far worse.

Go after your cold HARD . . . and end it in a hurry. Rub Mentholatum vigorously on your chest. Cover it with flannel to speed its action. Then drink plenty of water to carry the poisons from the cold out of your system.

CHICAGO UTILITY CUTS EXPENSES, BOOSTS INCOME

Edison Company's Net $16,402,588.

BY O. A. MATHER.

Something of a record for economy and efficiency in a period of depression was set last year by the Commonwealth Edison company, which supplies Chicago with electricity. While the company's output of current was nearly 2 per cent less than in 1929, it managed to increase its gross operating revenue by $517,694 and reduce its operating expenses by $324,340.

The net result was that net income for 1930 increased $79,819 to a total of $16,402,588, which was equivalent to $11.51 a share on the capital stock. Net income for 1929 was $16,322,769, or $11.95 a share on a somewhat smaller capitalization. Dividends of $8 a share were paid last year, after which $6,338,318 was added to surplus, which now stands at $46,031,879.

"The diversity and stability of the business is indicated by the fact that substantial increases in the use of electricity by residential and small commercial customers tended to compensate for decreases in its use by large commercial and industrial customers," President Edward J. Doyle says in his report.

Cites Improvements.

"This is reflected in the very small decrease shown in total output for the year and, coupled with improvements in efficiency of production and operation, resulted in a favorable statement of income for the year. The total number of customers on Dec. 31, 1930, was 936,300. The company spent $10,010,411 for extensions and improvements last year."

Other annual reports issued yesterday were less favorable. Last year's slump in the automobile industry was reflected in the statement of the Hudson Motor Car company, which reported net income of $324,656, equivalent to 20 cents a share on 1,596,660 shares outstanding. This net profit, however, did not take into account $2,266,333 charged directly against surplus as a special adjustment of accumulated unamortized balance for tools and materials due to development of new models. Net income in 1929 was $11,594,855, or $7.26 a share. Net sales for 1930 were $78,094,713, compared with $201,017,596 in 1929. Inventories now are at the lowest point since 1927.

North Western Estimate.

The preliminary report of the Chicago and North Western railroad showed net income of $8,342,191 for 1930, which was equivalent to $4.27 a share on the common stock. Net income for 1929 was $15,599,056, equivalent to $8.43 a share. The Union Pacific reported net operating income of $15,297,722 for 1930, which would indicate that between $15 and $16 a share was earned on the common stock. Its net income in 1929 was $40,256,043, equivalent to $20.36 a share.

General news of trade and industry was mixed yesterday. The vacillating character of business was indicated by data on the movement of commodities by the railroads. Loading of revenue freight for the week ended Jan. 24 totaled 715,690 cars, a decline of 10,248 from the preceding week and also a decrease of 146,656 from the corresponding week in 1930. The largest declines, compared with a year ago, occurred in coal, miscellaneous freight, forest products, and merchandise.

Gasoline Stocks Increase.

Although petroleum production declined last week, stocks of gasoline again increased. The daily average gross crude oil output totaled 2,085,950 barrels, a decline of 24,650 barrels a day from the previous week, according to the American Petroleum Institute. Most of the decrease occurred in Oklahoma and California. Refiners operated at 62.1 per cent of capacity, compared with 62.5 per cent in the preceding week, but stocks of gasoline increased 162,000 barrels to a total of 61,657,000 barrels.

Definite and substantial improvement in retail bond business in January is reported by security dealers throughout the United States, according to the monthly review of Lawrence Stern and company, investment bankers.

Budd Has Liberal Views on Motor Transport Problem

BY SCRUTATOR.

It required a year like 1930 to call to the attention of the public and of railroad men themselves to something like a revolution in transportation which has been moving forward in the United States for ten years or more.

An opinion to this effect was expressed yesterday by Ralph Budd, able president of the Great Northern railroad, in Chicago. His remarks were repeated in substance in an address he made last evening in Milwaukee.

Mr. Budd's attitude toward the other forms of transportation which are competing with the railroads and taking some share of their business is liberal. He sees nothing fearsome, illogical or unfair in the highway transportation system that has been built up. His standpoint is that the public is going along with it and the railroads must go along and live with it, too.

Add to Rail Revenue.

"A good part of the traffic of the railroads in the last ten years came from the automobile and the highway construction," he said. "Thirty-five billion dollars is a conservative estimate of what that automobile and highway transportation system has cost.

"For a long time, enjoying the benefits that came with the freight from the automobile and allied industries, the railroads failed to see what was coming. Most of the traffic that has hitherto gone to trucks and buses was created by the highway transportation system itself. It has, however, taken something from the railroads as it grew larger.

"Every one knows that present day speed, scope and methods of business can only continue through universal use of the automobile. There are two types of operation on the highways, the private or contract carrier and the non-common carrier. The common carriers are now quite fully regulated in nearly all states, but they represent only 5 per cent of the business on the highways.

"It must follow when the railways accept the automobile business as a permanent factor in the social and commercial life of the United States, that they also accept the fact that automobiles are a permanent transportation factor and will take their share of traffic.

Against Repressive Laws.

"Neither the railroads nor any one else will get anywhere trying to get a series of repressive laws to hamper the automotive system and take away its business. There is no way to wipe out that business.

"However, the American public has a right to see that its highways are properly used, and I am speaking as a citizen and motorist rather than as a railroad executive. Regulation is necessary, but we must not confuse regulation and taxation. Excessively long or heavy vehicles should be barred from the roads; to tax such vehicles heavily and still let them run is to license destruction of public property rather than to prohibit it."

Mr. Budd added that he believed the small share of the automotive traffic going to common carrier buses and trucks should be coördinated with and operated by the railroads. In the event this comes to pass, he pointed out that some of the harsh restrictions now being advocated by some would prove a boomerang to the railroads themselves.

Railroad Structure.

Mr. Budd knows, and admits, that the railroad structure of the country, if it were being rebuilt, would not be on the same lines it is now. The present roads were built to be reached with wagons over poor roads. Parallel rail lines are too close together for 1931 needs. On the other hand, according to Mr. Budd, extensive abandonment of the lines themselves is impractical. Cities and villages have grown up on the existing lines and are entitled to continue to receive service of rail carriers.

"I advocate consolidation strongly," Mr. Budd said. "It can result in tremendous savings. Competing services where the traffic does not justify the full amount of effort should be cut down without damage to shippers. There are about 895 railroads now in the country, each with an administrative staff. Thirty or thirty-five would be enough.

"These should be encouraged to cut their expenses in every way possible. Labor should take the attitude that what helps the railroad helps labor; to keep any inefficient method just to maintain jobs, whether those of rail presidents or of manual workers, is opposed to all progress."

MEMBER LOANS OFF $173,267,572 TO RECORD LOW

New York, Feb. 3.—(AP)—Collateral loans to members of the New York stock exchange declined $173,267,572 in January to a total of $1,720,345,318 Jan. 31, the lowest total reported since publication of these figures began in 1926. On Jan. 31 last year the total was $3,984,768,065. The high record, established at the end of September, 1929, was $8,549,383,979.

Bar Silver Again Drops to New Historical Low

New York, Feb. 3.—(AP)—For the second consecutive day bar silver in New York today dropped to a new historical low. A decline of 1 cent carried the price to 27⅛c an ounce. Yesterday the metal dropped ½ cent an ounce.

New London Low.

LONDON, Feb. 3. — (AP) — Silver reached a new low level today when spot bars declined 7-16d per ounce to 12 13-16d under China selling and absence of supporting orders.

NATIONAL DEBT IS CUT $300,000,000 DURING LAST YEAR

Washington, D. C., Feb. 3.—(AP)—In spite of recent decreases in federal tax receipts, the national debt on Jan. 31, as the treasury accounted for it today, was more than $300,000,000 less than on the same date a year ago.

The actual net indebtedness of the country amounted to $16,007,475,340, as compared with $16,324,081,376 one year ago.

However, the showing is a long way from settling the difficulties of the government's financial administration, which Secretary Mellon has indicated is facing a probable deficit of about $380,000,000 to be realized on June 30, when the fiscal year ends.

The temporary debt reduction made so far this year will be offset shortly by the heavy semi-annual payments of interest coupons on outstanding bonds. Further, the anticipated shrinkage in income taxation will register itself heavily on March 15 and it is probable that the treasury's debt statement made today will represent a low point in national indebtedness for a matter of many months if not years.

Believe U. S. May Abandon Note Refunding Plans

New York bankers are of the opinion that any plans the United States treasury may have entertained Sept. 9, last, when it called for payment March 15, next, two series of treasury 3½ per cent notes, aggregating about $1,100,000,000, of refunding those issues by a long term loan at a lower rate of interest have almost reached the vanishing point. The three longest term government issues outstanding, the treasury 4¼s callable in 1947, the 4s callable in 1944, and the 3½s callable in 1946, dropped yesterday to levels that increased the yields to 3.44, 3.44, and 3.40 per cent, respectively.

Cord Heads Auburn Board; Elect Faulkner President

E. L. Cord, for seven years president of Auburn Automobile company, yesterday was elevated to the chairmanship at the meeting of directors which followed the annual stockholders meeting at Auburn, Ind. Succeeding Mr. Cord to the presidency is R. H. Faulkner, formerly vice president, whose appointment "was not unexpected to the trade," according to a terse statement of Mr. Cord.

R. H. FAULKNER.

The election of five vice presidents was also announced. N. E. McDarby will be vice president in charge of sales; Herbert Snow, in charge of engineering; E. O. Penry, in charge of operations; H. D. Dunn in charge of purchases, and Arthur Landis, vice president in charge of the Auburn-Connersville plant.

Heads Company at 30.

Mr. Cord was just 30 years old when he became president of Auburn Automobile company with the backing of a group of Chicago financiers late in 1924, after a successful career as used car salesman on the Pacific coast and later as a Moon dealer in Chicago. In recent years Auburn has attracted much attention by its growth and expansion, gaining control of Lycoming Manufacturing company, the Limousine Body corporation and Dusenberg, Inc. The Cord group also brought out the Cord front wheel drive car, one of the first of its kind. Usually a spectacular performer on the stock exchange, the recent antics of Auburn shares on the New York exchange have attracted much attention. Chicago trading in the stock has been inactive of late.

Price fluctuations were narrow and the trading pace listless again on the Chicago Stock exchange yesterday.

Burnham Trading Report.

The annual report issued by the Burnham Trading corporation last night showed a loss from operations of $115,722 last year. In addition, dividends totaling $224,536 were paid on the preference stock, which brought the total deficit to $340,259 and reduced the surplus to $190,784, compared with $531,043 at the end of 1929.

The balance sheet as of Dec. 31, 1930, shows the cost of securities held in the investment account was $6,967,759. The market value is not given but the report says the approximate value of the preferred stock on Dec. 31 was $12 a share. This would indicate that the market value of securities held was around $2,475,000. However, the market value has increased with the rise of stock prices in the last month.

Securities Held.

11,350 do class A.	6,100 Nat. Stand.
676 Beatrice Cr.	4,159 Noblitt Sp.
4,400 Borg-Warner.	12,908 Real Silk Hos.
7,750 A. M. Castle.	2,450 Rel. Mfg.
2,333 Gen. Motors.	5,050 Super Maid.
16,700 Grigsby-Gru.	5,150 Yates Am. pf.
5,000 Houd Hersh B.	4,928 Zenith Radio.

In addition, there are miscellaneous investments aggregating less than 10 per cent of the total and also 30,250 shares of Burnham Trading preference stock and 21,236 shares of Burnham Trading common stock.

In the automotive group Allied Motor Industries, Allied Products, Bendix, Borg-Warner, and Noblitt-Sparks were either steady or slightly improved. Ross Gear and Tool stepped forth with a gain of 1¾ points.

The utilities were steady as a group. Directors of Central Public Service yesterday removed the cash option on its class A stock dividend, which was declared in the form of one-fortieth share of class A stock. Regular quarterly dividends were also declared on the preferred issues.

Hartman Corp. Shows Loss.

The Hartman corporation, for the first time in its history, will show an operating loss for 1930, it was reported yesterday. The corporation lost $695,787 during the first half of last year, while the loss during the second half is yet to be determined, but is believed to be more than the loss suffered during the first six months. Directors took no action on the class A dividend yesterday.

The first annual report of Wisconsin Bankshares corporation, which controls 53 banks, shows a net income of $3,543,522 after all charges, taxes, and after giving effect to dividends on underlying preferred stock and earnings applicable to minority interest in underlying banks. This equals 36 cents per share on 9,834,756 shares of $10 par value capital stock. The indicated book value was $40,613,089, equal to $4.15 a share.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 3.—It was left to a handful of specialty issues to keep the home fires burning on the stock exchange today. Auburn Auto, Worthington, and Vanadium were the three cut-ups of the group, the first named shooting up at one time for a gain of 4 points, but easing off somewhat before the close. Ludlum Steel was another strong spot and Vulcan Detinning, which comes out of its hiding place only two or three times a year, stood up to be counted among them.

Elsewhere the market was very quiet.

Pivotals Are Drowsy.

The pivotals, as usual here of late, hung drowsily about their previous closing prices, although what changes took place were toward improved levels. The rails as a group were irregular. The motors were mixed, and the oils could get nowhere. Trading amounted to only about 1,200,000 shares.

The speculative community is more interested just now in the trend of affairs at Washington than it is in the small time price swings that the market groans to bring forth day by day. Latest advices from the capital tended to allay some of the uneasiness being felt over the bonus bond issue, but the matter is still far from settled and until it is Wall street is going to keep its sails trimmed and look out for eventualities. There was also considerable interest today in the mid-weekly steel summaries due tomorrow.

It was reported that the reviews will disclose that operations in this

CONTINENTAL ILLINOIS BANK AND TRUST COMPANY
CHICAGO

INVESTED CAPITAL 150 MILLION DOLLARS

These are good times —to buy BOND INCOME

Every low ebb in business in this country has heretofore been followed ultimately by a rising tide of prosperity. Improvement is usually first reflected in the bond market. It seems entirely unwarranted to assume that the present outlook is essentially different.

Experienced investors do not yield to popular pessimism during depression any more than they let themselves be swept away by unwarranted optimism during prosperity. When all records for industrial production are being broken, they temper optimism with caution. When times are frankly difficult and others see no cause for encouragement, they ACT—and await the future with unshaken confidence. In the records of the past they find guidance for the future.

Many investors, especially those who have no clear picture of the major depressions of the past, hesitate to invest their idle funds at this time. With confidence born of many years' experience during good times and bad, we believe that the present is actually a time of opportunity—for bond investors who buy sound values to obtain liberal income, disregarding temporary market fluctuations. Income from many sound bonds is now unusually high. In some cases it is as great as that from sources frankly recognized as less conservative.

For many years, Halsey, Stuart & Co. has been serving those who consider well-secured INCOME the primary aim of investment. Since its beginning, this house has confined its business to dealing in bonds, notes, and debentures. It has always adhered to the policy it believes to afford the greatest protection to investors.

We shall be glad to suggest bonds which we have approved—from among the unusual values available in today's market—to fit your requirements. Write for current recommendations.

HORDER LEASES SPACE IN THE BANKERS' BLDG.

To Have Office Furniture in Basement.

BY AL CHASE.

One of the most interesting and significant of recent loop leases is reported by Harold H. Egan & Co. as closed yesterday, wherein Horder's, Inc. have rented the first floor store at 107-111 West Adams street, together with basement space, in the Bankers' building for a term of years. Although the exact length of the term was not disclosed it is understood to be in the neighborhood of ten years.

EDWARD Y. HORDER

The aggregate rental is reported to be $450,000. The new store will open about May 1st.

The first floor store fronts thirty-five feet on Adams with a depth of 93½ feet. The basement space will total 6,500 square feet and will be connected with the main floor store by a private stairway with another entrance stairway from the building lobby. This downstairs salesroom will be devoted to the display of office furniture. This will include a showing of model offices with period styles of office installations and modern steel office equipment and furniture as well as typical commercial office furniture.

Now Has 13 Stores.

Horder's now has thirteen stores in the central business district. The store now in the Home Insurance building, across Adams street from the space just leased, will be closed next fall when wreckers begin clearing the ground for the giant Field estate building. This branch will be replaced with the new Bankers' building store which will be designed by S Crowen and associates.

The history of Horder's Inc. from a one man store to a corporation doing a reported annual sales volume of close to $3,000,000, is a picturesque one. Edward Y. Horder, after developing a newspaper business on the west side, opened a tiny store for the sale of papers and periodicals on Washington street, near La Salle, in 1901.

More Than 350 Employés.

From that time the business prospered until it now employs more than 350 people. In 1926 the old established business of George E. Cole & Co. was acquired. Horder's, Inc. has its headquarters in a seven story building at Jefferson and Quincy, where the warehouse, general offices and mail order business and separate wholesale division are located.

Officers of Horder's, Inc. are; president, Edward Y. Horder; vice president and secretary, Fred P. Seymour, second vice president, William J. Goodman; treasurer, Harry G. Horder. Harold H. Egan & Co., who negotiated yesterday's lease, recently were appointed renting agents of the Bankers' building.

Bernard A. Stol and others have sold the northeast corner of Dearborn and Illinois, 100x100, improved with a three story store and hotel building, to an undisclosed purchaser, through Ralph E. Petersen, of McMenemy, Inc., for an undisclosed consideration. Mr. Petersen also reports selling for the Philbin estate the six story building at 1413 South Michigan avenue, lot 25x160, to the Chicago Title & Trust Co., trustee, for approximately $66,000.

VAN SWERINGEN PLAN FOR NEW ENGLAND ROADS IS OUTLINED

Providence, R. I., Feb. 3.—(AP)—Distribution of New England's railroad business among six great trunk lines of eastern United States and Canada and absorption of its present major roads by four of them was advocated tonight by counsel for the Van Sweringen interests.

Speaking at the annual dinner of the Providence Chamber of Commerce, William H. Boyd, counsel for O. P. and M. J. Van Sweringen and the Chesapeake and Ohio-Nickel Plate railroad system, offered such a plan of allocation.

The six trunk lines named were the New York Central, Pennsylvania, Baltimore and Ohio, Chesapeake and Ohio-Nickel Plate, Canadian National and Canadian Pacific. The Canadian roads would not participate in the absorption program, simply remaining as they are now.

Summarized, the Van Sweringen plan of consolidation was:

To the New York Central—The Boston and Albany and the Rutland [except the Rouses Point-Ogdensburg line];

To the Pennsylvania and the Baltimore and Ohio, jointly—the New York, New Haven and Hartford;

To the Chesapeake and Ohio-Nickel Plate—The Boston and Maine, Maine Central and the Bangor and Aroostook.

The so-called bridge lines, the Delaware and Hudson, the Lehigh and Hudson, the Lehigh and New England, the New York, Ontario and Western and the Rouses Point-Ogdensburg line of the Rutland, Boyd said, would be "allocated between or among the proposed four eastern trunk line systems in such manner as to give them access to the Hudson river gateways and direct connection with the New England railroads allocated to them respectively."

SHORTS COVER IN WHEAT FUTURES DUE TO WEATHER

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

The outlook for the new North erican wheat crop has become a tor in the market.

Continued reports of dry weather several days started a short cov- ng movement yesterday in futures in that carried the July up 1¾c to high of 68¼c, the best figure since ch 15.

The close was at 68 to 68¼c, with t gain of 1¼c, while the Sep- mber was 1⅛c under at 66¼c, gain- fractionally on the nearly future. d crop months were ⅛@⅜c higher; ch being 73¼@73¾c, and May, 3c.

With a good part of the buying of wise futures was regarded as short ering there was less pressure than ed as and the continued firmness in Liverpool and Winnipeg came in for nasattention. Winnipeg was strong from the start, with houses with sea- board and continental connections ding good buyers. There was also an provement in the outside trade.

The finish there was 2@2½c higher, with July finishing at 67½c, or the same price as July at Kansas City, compared with ⅜c discount the pre- vious day. Liverpool was ⅝@¾d higher at the last on reports of heavy rains in northern Argentina. Buenos Aires gained 1½c for the day.

Bearish News Ignored.

Bearish construction placed on the ld-crop situation had little or no ect on the wheat market. Nat C. Hunay, the Clement, Curtis & Co. statistician, was out with a report asserting that there has been an in- crease of only 60,000,000 bu in the do- mestic disappearance during the first 6 months of the crop year. This stated there would have to be a rising downward of estimates on the mount of wheat to be led to live stock during the current crop year. If the disappearance during the last 6 months of the season equals that of last year the carryover at the end of the year would be slightly in excess of 300,000,000 bu, against 275,- 000,000 bu on hand July 1 1930.

Corn in Strong Upturn.

While the trade construed the re- port on farm reserves of corn on Jan. 1 and the disappearance during the first two months of the crop year as bearish there was no material pressure on the futures market. With active short covering and also a little investment buying prices advanced 1¾@1¾c over Monday's finish. The close was at net gains of 1⅛@1⅜c; March being 64¼c; May, 66@66⅛c to 66⅝c; July, 67@67¼c, and September, 64⅝@64¾c.

Selling against offers checked the ad- vance in corn at one time, but the offers were finally filled and later those who sold offers were forced to protect themselves. County offerings to arrive remain small, and the move- ment has not increased to the extent anticipated by many operators. North American available supplies increased only 239,000 bu during the last week, and are 17,562,000 bu, against 16,- 344,000 bu last year. Piwing for grain is reported at numerous parts of the central west as the result of the abnormal weather conditions.

COTTON FAIRLY SUPORTED

Cotton values averaged higher yesterday, with mills said to be taking contracts more freely. American and European mills are buying on all declines and reports from India are of a more cheerful natu. In the other country stocks of cotton are below last year's and consumption by mills is said to be heavier. Europe sent fair buy- ing orders and Liverpool closed 1 point higher on 2 points lower, with pot sales 7,000 bales. American markets had a lim- ited range, with futures in Chicago 1@6 points net higher and other mkets un- changed to 6 points higher. Spis gained 4 points, New York being 10.50c, Hh New Orleans and Houston 10.20c and Galveston 10.30c. Prices follow:

HAY RUN LIGHTER

Tuesday's run of hay was only 10 cars all told; 8 being timothy and the other two were alfalfa. There was also one car of straw among the day's arrivals. Buyers who were encouraged by Monday's rush of hay into this terminal, had their bearish enthusiasm tamed down somewhat by the sharp cut in the size of the run and everything sold well within quotations.

Receipts at Chicago for today are estimated at 7,000 cattle.

Following Monday's sharp decline on cattle, receipts were smaller, and the downturn in prices was called to a halt. Sheep and lambs held steady but hog values dropped 25c to new low levels since July, 1924.

Demand for all classes of meats has been limited for some time, unseasonably warm weather coupled with generally impaired buying power being responsible for the depressed condition of the trade.

In the cattle market few steers of choice quality were offered yesterday. One load of fat 1,072 lb long yearlings sold at $11.60, but few other sales were made above $9.00. The bulk found outlet at $7.50 to $9.00.

Most steers, yearlings and butcher stock showed declines of 25c to 75c from last week's close, that decline being scored on the week's initial session. Veal calves suffered another 50c break, making $1.00 decline for the first two days of the week.

Hogs Hit New Low Spot.

A new low top price for the season was scored on hogs and the average price was lowest since the low spot in July, 1924. Best hogs sold up to $8.00, but not many went above $7.75. The average market was $7.25, and a spread of $6.75 to $7.75 embraced the bulk of offerings. Packing sows sold mostly at $5.60 to $6.00.

Hog receipts were estimated at 35,000 head, including 5,300 direct to packers from outside points. The supply on sale included around 5,000 held over from Monday's market. Around 7,000 head were estimated to be held over for today's market.

Lambs Hold Steady.

Little change was noted in the lamb ings turned at $8.50 to $8.75. Fat sheep market. Up to $9.00 was paid for best lambs by city butchers, but the bulk of good and choice handyweight offerprices also were steady, ranging from $8.00 to $8.50 for the bulk.

Supply of sheep and lambs was estimated at 11,000 head, that number including 3,800 directs.

Lansing State Bank Is Closed by State Auditor

State Auditor Oscar J. Nelson yesterday announced the closing of the Lansing State bank in Cook county for examination and adjustment. The bank had total deposits of more than $570,000, capital stock of $100,000 and a surplus of $80,000.

PREDICT SALES OF HOGS WILL DECLINE IN 1931

Supplies of hogs for the nine months, January to September, 1931 during which period most of the hogs on farms will be marketed, probably will be slightly smaller than the same period of 1930, says a government report in its survey of the hog situation. But with a weaker demand for hog products, prices of hogs for the period will probably average lower than for the same time in 1930, it concludes.

The hog industry during the market year, which will end Oct. 30, 1931, is expected to be in a more favorable condition than the current year, since limitations point to slightly smaller supplies, lower feed costs and some improvement in both foreign and domestic demand during that period.

The number of hogs on farms Jan. 1, 1931, were 52,323,000 head in the United States, with 40,147,000 for the north central states. This supply was 915,000, or 1.7 per cent smaller for the United States and 69,000 or 0.2 per cent larger for the north central states than on Jan. 1, 1930.

Announce Reductions in Prices of Brass and Lead

The American Brass company yesterday reduced prices of brass and copper material one-quarter of a cent. A leading smelter in the Chicago district also reduced ingot brass prices ⅛@¼ of a cent a pound. The American Smelting and Refining company reduced the price of lead from 4.75 to 4.60 cents a pound.

RAILROAD NOTES

The Baltimore and Ohio railroad is expected to do some short term financing in the near future to obtain funds for the purchase of stocks of lines assigned to it in the general consolidation agreement. It is believed that the initial offering will be $25,000,000, or more, to be followed by other financing. Reports of early financing followed the disclosure that Baltimore and Ohio had increased its equity in the Reading company substantially and that it now holds, with other stocks held by friendly interests, virtual control in that system.

Norfolk and Southern railroad for 1930 had a net loss of $131,103, against net income of $346,890, equal to $2.17 a share, in 1929.

	Jan., 1931.	Jan., 1930.
Illinois Central	141,631	179,078
Burlington	122,948	144,396

National Distillers Products.

Will you please tell me about National Distillers? What do they manufacture now? Did they ever make real beer, and are they likely to do so again if the country goes wet? I will greatly appreciate anything you can tell me about this stock.—G. R. W.

There is a National Distilleries, Ltd., a Canadian company which manufactures alcohol, whiskies, gin, etc., and is agent for the sale of various European wines and liqueurs. On Jan. 2, 1931, a Montreal dispatch stated that at the request of the company's president an application had been made for receivership.

We find no record of an American company by this exact name. Possibly you refer to National Distillers Products corporation, which was incorporated in Virginia in 1924 as a reorganization of United States Food Products corporation. Through subsidiaries this company manufactures and sells distilled spirits, ethyl, and denatured alcohol, maraschino cherries, glace fruits, yeast, etc.

For the nine months ended Sept. 30, 1930, this company reported net, before taxes, of $344,654, or $1.37 per share, against net of $462,845 in the corresponding period of 1929. Earnings in the past have varied widely.

The present dividend rate on the common is $2 per year. Outstanding debenture and preferred stocks were retired in August, 1929.

Reynolds Spring.

I have 100 shares of Reynolds Spring for which I paid a lot more money than the present market price. Would you advise to hold or trade? Do you think this company will ever come back?—J. L. S.

Reynolds Spring company carries on business founded in 1899. It makes cushion springs for automobiles, furniture, and car seats. Other product include radio and electric equipment, upholstery and hydraulic presses.

In spite of depressed conditions in the automobile industry the spring division made a profit of $130,933 in the first half of 1930. The leather and molded products divisions, however, were not doing so well.

For the nine months ended Sept. 30, 1930, net loss, after interest and depreciation, was $330,188. In the September quarter alone net loss was $234,142.

After increasing deficits for three years the company had been able to show net income of $3,591 in 1928. The following year net of $114,962, equal to 15 cents per share, had been reported, although there was a deficit in the last quarter.

On September 30, 1930, current assets were $1,906,742 and current liabilities were $134,171. Balance sheet deficit was $916,580.

No dividends have been paid on the preferred since 1926 and none on the common since 1925. The stock is quite speculative.

News and Gossip of Stock Marts

Ohio Oil Dividend.

Wall street is looking for a downward revision in its dividend rate by the Ohio Oil company when directors meet today. It is expected that the board will order a quarterly payment of 25 cents a share as against the 50 cent payment ordered three months ago, thus reducing the annual rate to $1 from the present $2 basis.

Int. Combustion Engineering.

The difficulties which International Combustion Engineering interests are having in finding some one to adopt the concern appeal to the sympathy of Wall street. One of these days probably some other manufacturing company can accept a plan for using Combustion's facilities.

Standard of Indiana.

The new low level reached by Standard Oil of Indiana is, of course, the direct outcome of the reduction in dividend by directors from a $2.50 annual rate to $2 a share. Selling of the stock following this news was quite orderly, however, and offerings were absorbed on a scale down without any abrupt decline.

BUSINESS PERSONALS

L. L. Fenton and R. B. Small have been appointed assistant treasurers of the Central Public Service corporation. Mr. Fenton has been associated with the company for some time while Mr. Small until recently was with Haskins & Sells.

A membership on the Chicago Stock exchange has been posted for transfer to Barney Johnson of the firm of Barney Johnson & Co., Ashland, Wis.

Ephraim Tomlinson, president of the Camden Safe Deposit and Trust company of Camden, N. J., has been elected to the board of the Campbell Soup company.

Robert a Drum has become associated with Frazier, Jelke & Co.

Marshall L. Mathews, for several years account executive with the Fred A. Robbins agency, has become advertising and circulation manager of Chicago Commerce, official publication of the Chicago Association of Commerce.

A membership on the Chicago Stock exchange has been posted for transfer to Russell E. Gardner Jr., a partner of the St. Louis brokerage firm of Love, Reinholdt & Gardner.

RAW SILK.

NEW YORK, Feb. 3.—(AP)—SILK—Raw futures closed firm: sales, 1,810 bales; March, $2.60; May, $2.25; July, $2.50. Open market quotations [60 day basis]. Shanghai steam extra B, $2.75. Canton double extra A 14-16s, $2.04. Japanese crack double extra, $3.00.

FEDERAL CREDIT BANKS REPORT ON 1930 LOANS

Loans to farmers' coöperative marketing organizations amounted to $109,927,063, compared with $43,587,000 during the previous year, while discounts of farmers' notes given to local lending institutions totaled $109,047,068, compared with $94,667,000 in 1929.

During 1930 a total of $197,925,000 in debentures was sold, against $115,715,000 in the previous year.

Mr. Dunn said that the greater business done with the farmers' coöperative marketing organizations undoubtedly was greatly stimulated by the activities of the federal farm board and the consequent increase in interest in coöperating marketing of farm commodities.

HOUSEHOLD
LOANS
$50 TO $300
ON PLEASANT TERMS

The Household Loan Plan offers cash loans of $50 to $300 to husbands and wives at reasonable rates.

Loans above $100 and up to $300 are made at a rate almost one-third lower than the lawful maximum.

Interest is paid by the month and charge is made only for the actual number of days the money is in use. There are no fees or fines.
